BRIEFS NEWSMEN — House Republican leader Gerald Ford (right), leaning on crutches, briefs newsmen following a morning GOP congressional leadership meeting with President Nixon. Ford, who is recovering from surgery on an old knee injury from football playing days, said any Democratic budget hike would be fought. He also accused presidential nominee George S. McGovern of undermining the U.S. position in the Paris peace talks. At left is GOP Senate Whip Robert Griffin of Michigan.

'FIRE STORMS'

Early Viet Strategy Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The technical journal Science said today that the United States tried at least three times in 1965, 1966 and 1967 to ignite what Defense Department planners called "fire storms" in some of South Vietnam's "most valuable timber country."

"All three attempts, however, fizzled out," the magazine said.

So the effort was abandoned as impractical in the wet woods of South Vietnam, Science said.

Fire storms, far more destructive than ordinary fires, have occurred accidentally in dry timberlands of the American West and in Australia and southern France. They also occurred as a result of World War II bombings in Dresden and Hamburg, Germany, and Tokyo and Hiroshima, Japan.

A fire storm happens when an area of intense burning sucks in oxygen from adjacent regions at such a rate that ground winds of more than 100 miles an hour may be generated.

Science, published weekly by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said two military reasons were given for the South Vietnam project:

A big fire would destroy ground cover "and make concealment and camouflage by the enemy from U.S. bombing strikes or ground attack impossible."

The fire storm operation was carried out by the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA), Science said. ARPA, according to the magazine, called in Agriculture Department experts "to advise on how to effectively burn the forests."

The Science report was written by staff-member Deborah Shapley who said it was based in part on a classified paper by Air Force Lt. Col. Arthur F. McConnell Jr., who was involved in Vietnam defoliation missions.

The fire storm attempts were known by such names as Sherwood Forest, Hot Tip and Operation Pink Rose, the magazine said. They took place in the Mekong Terrace region, "a central plains area which contains several luxury timbers, such as mahogany and rosewood, and half of South Vietnem's sawmills."

According to military sources, the magazine said, the fire projects were carried out in areas containing no "permanent type villages" but harboring Viet Cong supply depots and base camps in the woods.

Science quoted Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., as calling the fire program "an outrageous use of technology" for waging "environmental warfare." Nelson also has denounced alleged U.S. employment of rainmaking as a war weapon in Indochina.

In any case, either rain or humidity, spoiled attempts to get big, self-propagating conflagrations going in the damp forests of South Vietnam. Science quoted an unidentified ARPA official as saying:

"This was clearly one of those ideas that should have been given the very quietest funeral. It really was a nutty idea to begin with."

'Row' Inmates: No Segregation

A federal judge in San Francisco yesterday ruled that Death Row inmates can no longer be automatically segregated from other prison inmates, and San Quentin officials said today preliminary steps toward moving them already were under way.

Judge Robert F. Peckham of U.S. District Court ordered the state Department of Corrections to reclassify the custody status of each inmate and make a report on the new status within 60 days.

San Quentin Information Officer Joseph R. O'Brien said today that a team of men from the prison classification center at Vacaville has already begun interviews with Death Row inmates in order to determine where they will be placed.

The court order was "not unexpected," O'Brien said, adding that "some men will still be kept in a high-security stiuation."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Eric Collins, who represented the Department of Corrections in yesterday's court action, said he saw three types of inmates who would still require strict confinement.

First were the Sirhan Sirhan and Charles Manson types, he said, who need protection from other prisoners. (O'Brien said today that Manson had posed no particular discipline problems on Death Row.)

Other who probably will still be kept locked up most of the time are those who have a reputation for violence and the "escape artists."

Surprisingly, 14 of the 97 men now on Death Row did not join in yesterday's suit brought on behalf of Anthony Jose Robles by Stanford University law professor John Kaplan.

Collins guessed their reasons for wanting to stay on the row were that "the food's much better, the laundry's better and the games are better."

"For a man who wants to be by himself and doesn't want to watch baseball games, Death Row is a pretty nice place," he said. "It's a very expensive place to maintain."

At least part of the row, on the top floors of the adjustment center at the prison, probably will be converted into some sort of a high security facility, he surmised.

A few inmates who already have had their sentences modified since the death penalty was declared unconstitutional have already been moved off Death Row. (There are five women on a Death Row at the women's prison in Frontera.)

Both state officials and defense attorneys had sought a ruling from the California Supreme Court for the bulk of Death Row inmates, whose sentences had not been dealt with individually.

The state court had not acted, however, and Kaplan filed his suit in federal court.

Nixon To Fight Any Demo Spending Plan

Tells Capitol Hill Team Tax Hikes Could Result

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon called on Republican congressional leaders and members of his Cabinet today to oppose election year spending increases by the Democratic-controlled Congress which would lead to either higher taxes or more inflation.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, reporting to newsmen at the White House on the private meeting, hinted Nixon would veto "inflated appropriation bills that are too high just for political purposes."

Ford and Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin said the consensus of GOP lawmakers was that the administration legislative program —except for the revenue sharing plan — has little chance of passage this year.

"It appears that the net result, when we adjourn, will be revenue sharing at the most — very regrettably," Ford said.

He indicated the administration has given up hope for its welfare reform, government reorganization and other priority bills which Nixon once described as a "new American revolution."

Ford and Griffin, in their meeting with newsmen, emphasized Nixon's determination to hold the line on spending increases.

"If the Democratic Congress continues to inflate some of these appropriation bills, the result will be a need for higher taxes or inflation which all Americans oppose very strongly," Ford said. "I hate to see a good budget destroyed by pure politics."

Nixon has already indicated the outline of the GOP strategy: politically appealing spending plans will be labeled as inflationary and the Democrats will be blamed for pushing up the cost-of-living.

The President wants Republican congressional leaders to resist any Democratic efforts to increase spending above the level he requested in his budget. He may take his case to the public with some sort of special statement if Congress votes higher expenditures despite his opposition.

Nixon also wants cabinet members and the heads of other federal agencies to cut back existing programs to offset a

Sharp Rise In Bay Living Cost; U.S. Increase Slight

Combined AP and UPI

WASHINGTON — Higher prices for meat, fresh fruit, vegetables, used cars and homes pushed the cost of living up again last month, although the rise was slightly less than the month before, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the cost of living went up 0.2 per cent during June compared to a 0.3 per cent jump in May.

Consumer costs in the San Francisco Bay area rose 1.1 per cent between March and June, the sharpest rise since December 1970, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Charles Roumasset, Pacific regional director of the department, said the total Bay Area index is now at 124.3, over the 1967 base of 100. This means it takes $12.43 now to buy what $10 did in 1967.

Food, housing, transportation, health and recreation costs all rose between March and June, with only clothing costs showing a slight drop.

Food prices rose 1.2 per cent over the quarter with higher prices for fresh fruits and vegetables blamed for the increase.

Bay Area housing costs jumped 1.8 per cent, with the sharpest rise — 2.6 per cent — coming in the homeowner's index. The rise is attributed mainly to higher taxes, insurance and mortgage interest rates and other costs associated with home buying.

Nationally, supermarket food prices in June went up 0.6 per cent overall, reflecting what shoppers already knew — that

Top Officials Deny Dump Agnew Move

By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If President Nixon is going to drop Spiro Agnew as his running mate, it is the best-kept secret in this talkative, even gossipy, city.

From top presidential aides and from the President himself, the evidence is growing that Mr. Agnew will again be on the ticket.

— Nixon's campaign manager, Clark MacGregor, says he is "personally" convinced that Agnew will remain where he is.

MacGregor, discussing the upcoming campaign with a group of reporters, spoke highly of Agnew and then, referring to the possibility of John Connally replacing Agnew, added:

"I haven't conceived of Connally as a vice-presidential candidate. I think he would be an asset to the ticket — but not as great an asset as the vice-president."

— John Mitchell, shortly before stepping down from the campaign manager's position, also said he was certain that Agnew would be retained.

— The Vice-President, himself, has shown from recent utterances that he's raring to go on the campaign. This seems to refute the earlier and widely discussed thesis that Agnew had tired of the job and was ready to leave for private life.

— Finally, at the president's

$1.1 Million Revenue Loss Seen With Redevelopment

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County and many of its local taxing agencies may suffer a $1.1 million revenue loss next year if property tax relief legislation is approved by the state and four local communities push ahead with redevelopment plans.

The gloomy financial forecast was offered yesterday by County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell who said a hypothetical analysis showed a $40 million loss over the next 10 years if all 11 cities in Marin entered redevelopment.

Currently, three cities — San Rafael, Larkspur and Corte Madera — have formed redevelopment agencies and Novato is studying the approach.

Mitchell said he based his figures on the assumption that each city would freeze half its assessed valuation for redevelopment purposes even though none has yet indicated what amount it actually may freeze.

Mitchell said if the four communities actually begin redevelopment, county government could lose about $315,000 next year, special districts another $90,000 and school districts more than $700,000.

The estimates were requested Tuesday by county supervisors and are part of a grass-roots campaign by Mitchell to amend the property tax relief measure now working its way through the legislature.

Under the measure, AB-1000, the county and other governmental agencies would be forced to swallow the loss or go to the voters asking more money, Mitchell said.

AB-1000, coauthored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, sets a ceiling on tax rates using this year's rates as a maximum unless voters approve higher rates.

By limiting tax rates, property owners would be assured their tax bills would only increase if their property were reassessed upwards by the county assessor.

Under another state law, however, redevelopment agencies can freeze assessed valuation at the current level and use future increases for redevelopment purposes.

Thus, the county and other taxing agencies would have a tax rate limited by the state on one hand and a portion of assessed valuation frozen by the redevelopment agencies on the other.

Mitchell said the combined effect of the two actions would be to retard the growth of budgets below the level of inflation.

He added that the tax relief package should be amended to allow local agencies to increase their tax rates — without going to the voters — where a redevelopment agency has frozen assessed valuation.

The auditor-controller said he

McGovern Gets Mild Rebuke From Mayor Lindsay On Cities

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Sen. George S. McGovern, who has been criticized by labor, Republicans and southern Democrats, received a mild rebuke Thursday from a fellow liberal, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay said he felt McGovern as the Democratic presidential nominee was failing to pay sufficient attention to big city problems.

Lindsay added, however, that he would do everything possible to help the Democratic ticket win in November and said he believed there was "great possibility for the country" in the McGovern candidacy.

McGovern, a decided underdog at this stage of his bid to turn President Nixon out of office, got the news that the 1.5 million-member United Auto Workers tentatively endorsed him. The UAW executive board recommended that the union membership back the South Dakotan, taking the action only 24 hours after the AFL-CIO executive council decided to endorse neither McGovern nor Nixon.

McGovern was back in Washington to cast labor-pleasing votes on a bill to raise the minimum wage. He said he was pleased by the pledges of support from his Senate Democratic colleagues.

"The spirit is very good," McGovern said. He said he

Egypt Still Prepared For War As Way To Preserve 'Dignity'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptians will once more go to war with Israel if there is no other way to preserve "their honor and national dignity," the Soviet magazine New Times said in Moscow today.

The magazine made no reference to Cairo's call two days ago for the withdrawal of Soviet military advisers from Egypt, but did say that Moscow is "on the side of Egypt as before."

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today the Soviet leadership has begun a series of meetings to discuss Egypt's ecpulsion of the 15,000 military advisers.

The Al Ahram statement followed a report from political sources in Cairo that the Soviet Union and the United States agreed in May to limit weapons shipments to Israel and Arab nations.

The Al Ahram story came from its correspondent in Moscow and was the first indication of what the Russians were doing about President Anwar Sadat's decision to send their advisers home.

The newspaper said the discussions involved all of the Soviet Union's main figures, including Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and a group of Communist party central committee experts.

Political sources in Cairo said that President Nixon and Kremlin leaders in their summit talks in May agreed to an informal arrangement to honor existing weapons contracts with Middle East countries but refrained from undertaking new commitments.

Egypt actually has received no weapons since the Moscow summit but the supply of spare parts has never been interrupted, the sources said.

The principal reason Sadat ordered the advisers home, the sources said, was that the Egyptian government found intolerable an agreement whereby Egypt had no chance of overcoming Israel's current military advantage.

FBI Reports On Bugging Of Patriarca's Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI agentsreport that, through electronic surveillance, they overheard reputed New England underworld boss Raymond S. Patriarca to be worried about a $300,000 investment in the Berkshire Downs Race Track.

Patriarca swore to the House Crime Committee he had nothing to do with the Hancock, Mass. track.

According to a memo filed Thursday with the committee, FBI agents using electronic surveillance devices listened to Patriarca's secret plans to turn his investment into a financial windfall.

But, the memo said, the deal fell through. Joseph A. Phillips, chief committee counsel, said Patriarca was heard on May 18, 1964 to be so distraught that "he gets sick at the amount of money he has lost, not only for himself, but for his friends."

From behind the shaded windows of an office over a delicatessen in Providence, R.I., the FBI said it listened as Patriarca told how he had given a judge $20,000 to lift restrictions so the track could operate.

The committee is attempting to determine whether there is a connection between organized crime and professional sports.

The memo said B. A. Dario, principal owner of Lincoln Downs, a Rhode Island race track, and Saul Friedman, a Patriarca lawyer, were at a meeting in Friedman's office to discuss the stock of Berkshire Downs.

Friedman and Dario told the committee in sworn testimony that they knew of no involvement of Patriarca in the track's business.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Germanys Agree

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany expressed readiness today to conclude new agreements to make life more bearable on both sides of the wall dividing Berlin.

It said it was ready to exchange enclaves and "other small pieces of territory" with West Berlin in line with the Big Four agreement to lessen tension.

It made the promise in an agreement with West Berlin to be signed in East Berlin's house of ministers today.

In the pact, East Germany agreed to move the wall back a bit in a main city square to improve the West Berlin highway system.

The agreement provided for the sale of 20 acres of land around Potsdamer Platz, which is intersected by the wall. West Berlin paid $10 million for the 20 acres.

Tax Structure Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO says the present tax structure is grossly unfair to workers who derive their entire incomes from wages.

The giant labor federation, which represents 13.6 million workers, told Congress's Joint Economic Committee yesterday that the current tax system amounts to "legalized fraud" of the laws.

I. W. Abel, President of the United Steelworkers Union and chairman of the AFL-CIO Economic Policy Committee, filed a statement with the congressional panel spelling out labor's position in advocating sweeping tax reform.

Abel told the panel that the average American family pays nine times more tax on $10,000 if its income comes from wages than if it comes from investments.

To Miss Meeting

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The three members of Vietnam Veterans Against the War released from jail pending tria on conspiracy charges will miss this weekend's national strategy session in Milwaukee. But they hope to take part in protests at the Republican National Convention.

Scott Camil of Gainesville, John W. Kniffin of Austin, Tex., and Peter P. Mahoney of New Orleans left the federal courthouse smiling Thursday after posting $25,000 bond each.

They are forbidden to leave the northern district of Florida while awaiting trial on the conspiracy charges, but said they still hope to be in protest marches at Miami Beach during President Nixon's renomination.

Rains Continue

MANILA (UPI) — U.S. Air Force helicopters today plucked flood victims from treetops in Central Luzon where 50,000 marooned persons awaited rescue. Four days of relentless monsoon rains continued, dumping a record 18.6 inches on Manila overnight.

Eight more persons were reported drowned today, raising the death toll in typhoon-spawned floods and downpours in the Philippines over the past two weeks to 235. Red Cross officials said more than half a million residents of Central Luzon, including Manila, were homeless, isolated or stranded.

'It's A Miracle'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A Roman Catholic official says tears seen in the eyes of a rare statue of the Virgin Mary could have been caused by humidity in the air or some other reason, but in any case it was a miracle.

"This is a very humid climate," said Rev. Lanaux Rareshide, assistant chancellor of the New Orleans Archdiocese.

"But is it miraculous? Sure it is. The Lord can do anything."

Rev. Elmo L. Romagosa reported that the wooden "Pilgrim Statue of Fatima" wept twice between July 6 and July 16. Romagosa is editor of the Clarion Herald and wrote of the "miracle" in the Catholic newspaper in yesterday's edition.

Trade Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet and American trade negotiators today attempted to open a door long virtually closed to American businessmen and convert the trickle of goods exchanges into a flood.

U.S. Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Petersen, who arrived yesterday at the head of a 24-member delegation, and Nikolai S. Patolichev, Soviet minister for foreign trade, led the talks.

They said they hoped to negotiate away the barriers now helping hold down trade exchanges to $208 million in 1971.

Gray's Gun Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray said yesterday he favored legislation to halt the sale of cheap handguns known as "Saturday night specials" and the licensing and registration of other firearms.

The FBI director's comments were reported by the New York Daily News in a story from Washington. He emphasized that he was speaking only for himself and not for the Nixon administration.

Finally Found One

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After going through 94 prospective jurors, the Pentagon Papers trial finally encountered one who had read the documents. He was rejected.

Carl Travers, a Hollywood marketing researcher, told a federal court yesterday that he thought the public should be aware of the information in the report, and conceded he would have difficulty being fair to both sides.

"I would find it very hard, regardless of the evidence, to punish someone that severely for something I thought was justified," he said.

Arson Damage

DALLAS (UPI) — Arsonists caused $5,000 damage Thursday to the Texas School Book Depository, the building from which Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly fired the shots that killed President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Firemen said the arsonists splashed gasoline over five floors of the unoccupied building, but the fire was extinguished in less than half an hour, mainly because the depository has a sprinkler system. Empty gasoline cans were left behind.

Reds Flank Saigon Troops —Battle For Key Highway

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops, backed by artillery, napalm-dropping American warplanes and offshore gunfire, fought today to keep North Vietnamese soldiers from cutting Highway 1, the vital supply link between Hue and 20,000 government troops trying to drive the Communists out of Quang Tri province.

Field commanders told UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis that 1,000 Communist troops apparently outflanked government soldiers guarding the highway and at least temporarily severed the two-lane blacktop road.

The Communists want to control the highway and cut South Vietnamese supply lines, forcing allied officials to resupply the soldiers by air. Government troops moved into the province three weeks ago to try to drive the Communists back into North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese overran the province May 1, one month after the current offensive began.

Some 200 miles to the south, a 7,500-man South Vietnamese task force recaptured Bang Son, a district (county) capital, in the coastal province of Binh Dinh. The Communists also took over most of Binh Dinh soon after the current offensive started on March 30.

Most of the fighting along the northern front was concentrated near the village of Phong Dien, just south of the Quang Tri province border and about halfway between Quang Tri city and Hue.

Field reports said the Communists were dug in in bunkers along the highway and fighting for control of the French-built road. American warplanes pounded the North Vietnamese positions with bombs and napalm while U. S. Navy warships shelled the area from offshore. South Vietnamese artillery was also used to try to drive the Communists back.

The Communists also pounded the area with artillery and rocket fire.

Closer to Quang Tri city, a government spokesman said 57 North Vietnamese were killed by airborne troops, while the paratroopers suffered nine dead and 26 wounded. One of the fights was within 500 yards of Quang Tri.

German Industrial Baron Dead At 89

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UPI)—Friederich Flick, one of the world's richest men who rebuilt an industrial empire after a war crimes conviction in 1947, died Thursday night, 10 days after his 89th birthday.

A Flick Corporation spokesman said today that Flick died in a Konstantz hospital which he entered 14 days ego.

A man who came off the farm more than half a century ago, he built a steel and coal empire once valued at $400 million, watched it all but disappear in the ravages of World War II and then returned to become perhaps the wealthiest of the industrial giants in the "new" West Germany.

By the mid-1960s, when his son Otto-Ernst tried unsuccessfully to wrest it from him, the organization that bore Flick's name was variously estimated to be worth between $500 million and $1 billion.

But so extensive were his holdings in automobile manufacturing, paper products, steel, chemicals and plastics, that probably Flick himself did not know his exact worth.

Flick had another side—he was a convicted war criminal. When the Allies arrested him in 1945, they ranked him third among Ruhr "smofestack barons" who profited from support and association with the Nazis. For this he served three years in prison.

But to most Germans, Flick remained "the silent genius of the Ruhr."

Tall, gaunt and softspoken, Flick had an angular face and sharp chin that prompted frequent comparison with the traditional German emblem, the eagle.

As with many extremely rich men, he favored hard work, seclusion and frugality.

The man who was to become one of the greatest stock manipulators in German history was born July 10, 1883, in Ernsdorf, a Westphalian village east of Bonn.

Son of a farmer and wood salesman, he worked his way through school and graduated with outstanding marks in 1907 from a trade school in Cologne.

At 24, Flick was chief clerk at a coal mine near his home. At 32, he was on the board of directors. At 35, he was buying his own mines in Silesia, now part of Poland.

Three Die—Two Unintentionally—By Gas Fumes

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — A woman who committed suicide by running her car's engine in a closed garage also unsuspectingly killed two other persons in the adjoining house, the Montgomery County coroner's office ruled Thursday.

The coroner's office ruled the death of Linda Hardee, 23, of suburban Miami Township, a suicide after her body was found on the front seat of her car early Thursday.

Inside Miss Hardee's house, police found the body of Patty Hall, 19, and Clyde Key, 38.

The coroner's office said it appeared Miss Hall, who was staying with Miss Hardee, had been awakened by the fumes and got as far as the dining room before collapsing.

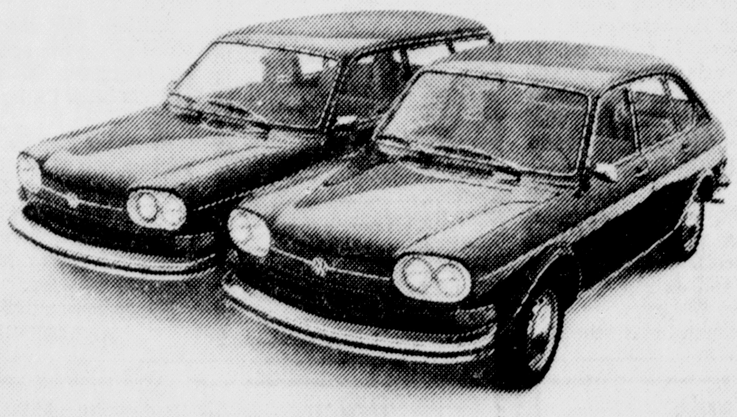

Key came to the house after getting no response to a telephone call. Apparently not aware of the gas, he stayed in the house and was telephoning for help for Miss Hall when he also collapsed.

Family regime ends

Mery Reign Is Ended In Inverness

The Mery reign, the longest in the history of Inverness Post Office, has come to an end.

When Megan Mery retired June 30, it marked the first time in 36 years that a Mery wasn't postmaster.

Mrs. Mery, postmaster for the past five years, succeeded her husband, the late Michael L. Mery, who was postmaster from 1936 to 1966.

Her husband was the third postmaster in the history of the post office, dating back to 1897, she said. "There were only two other postmasters before us."

Mrs. Mery, who started as a clerk in the post office with her husband in 1948, said she enjoyed the "friendly feeling in the community."

As for the work, "the fact that we did everything made it interesting," she said.

Mrs. Mery said she now will have time to do things she hadn't had time to do before, such as gardening and visiting her sons, Michael, a professor at Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg, Va., and her daughter, Megan, a teacher in New York.

Helen Giambastiani has been placed in charge of the Inverness office, and Alice Cherrigan is clerk, she said.

Three Vacancies On Health Panel

The Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council has appealed to residents of county areas "underserved" in ealth services to apply for three council vacancies.

Trude Baum, first vice president of the council, said the council was undecided Wednesday at its monthly meeting when to fill the vacancies because of a quirk in the group's bylaws on council terms.

The seats of Mary D. Williams, Leonard Shaw and W. Robert Lomax Jr. are vacant due to resignations.

A white fiberglass dinghy worth $250 was stolen some time during the last two weeks from a carport on Mar West, Carlos Morales of 2155 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, reported to Tiburon police yesterday.

Rolling Stones To Tone Down

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Rolling Stones have toned down their personal appearance routine in an effort to avoid creating audience chaos, a spokesman for the hard-driving British rock band says.

The Stones, who have been dogged by trouble during their current North American tour, performedto a generally mild audience of 15,500 rock fans here last night.

Police said 24 persons were taken into custody inside and outside the Spectrum, where the concert was held, but only four were arrested. Of the four, two were charged with minor narcotics counts and two for carrying concealed weapons.

No one was taken into custody trying to crash the hall, as has been the case in other cities. One youth, however, was discovered carrying a 10-inch hunting knife, police said. He was arrested for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Gary Stromberg, public relations manager for the Stones, told newsmen before the concert that certain songs are being dropped by the group because the numbers are too volatile.

Stromberg said the Stones will no longer sing "Sympathy for the Devil," for example, because is is too provocative and "they are bored with it."

"It incites people, and they don't want to do that any more," Stromberg said.

"Sympathy for the Devil" is a monologue by a character named "Lucifer" who traces his presence through climactic events in history, such as the Russian Revolution. It usually evokes wild enthusiasm when sung and dramatized by the Stones' lead singer, Mick Jagger.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. O'Neill took personal command of a security force of 250 policemen, all wearing riot gear and many on horseback for the concert here. A helicopter cruised overhead while plainclothes police officers stationed at all entrances of the Spectrum checked handbags and parcels for weapns.

Only those with tickets were permitted past barricades which encircled the Spectrum.

Insurance Payoff Given Hijack Victim's Family

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The family of a passenger slain during a hijack attempt aboard a Pacific Southwest Airlines jetliner has received a $100,000 air travel insurance payment.

The payment was believed to be the first made as the result of a hijacking attempt, said Eugene R. Brady, president of Tele-Trip Co. He said his insurance company will continue to pay claims resulting from air piracy.

The passenger, Stanley Carter, 66, was killed during a gun battle between the FBI and two hijackers on the plane at San Francisco International Airport July 5. The FBI said Carter was shot by one of the air pirates.

The payment was presented to Mrs. Gail Anne Spackman, Carter's daughter, by Brady, it was announced yesterday. Tele-Trip, the largest air travel insurance company, is a wholly owned subsidiary of Mutual of Omaha.

Carter, a retired railroad conductor from Montreal, Canada, purchased the insurance before boarding the PSA flight in Sacramento. He and his wife were coming to San Diego to establish residence.

Both hijackers were killed and two other passengers were wounded in the gun battle as FBI agents stormed aboard the jetliner. The hijackers held the plane, the passengers and crew for $800,000 ransom and escape to Siberia.

Magnolia Avenue To Be Closed Tuesday

Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur will be closed to traffic between Bon Air Road and Doherty Drive Tuesday all day, according to the Larkspur Public Works Department.

Paving operations in the 600 block start at 8:30 a.m. and motorists are advised to avoid the area. Commute buses will be allowed through, however, said city officials.

More Disability Benefits Slated

Increased disability compensation benefits to veterans and their dependents will become effective Aug. 1, county Veterans Service Director James V. Burdick has announced.

New legislation provides a 10 per cent increase for all categories except the $47 statutory disability and the $67 rate for arrested tuberculosis.

It also provides a 10 per cent increase in benefits for additional dependents and a $150 clothing allowance for veterans who use wheel chairs or wear prosthetic devices which may wear out their clothing.

Additional information may be otained by contacting the Veterans Service Office, Room 424 in the Civic Center.

Tiburon Hills Lot Split Plan Shelved

A controversial lot split application that had Tiburon Hills homeowners in an uproar has been shelved.

The would-be subdivider, Peter Haywood, announced that he would not break up the 1.6 acre parcel on Blackfield Drive as part of an agreement with the original developer of the area.

The settlement was reached between Haywood and Tiburon Hills developer Jeffory Morshead after the Tiburon Hills Architectural Advisory Committee unanimously rejected Haywood's plans Tuesday night.

According to director of community development Richard G. Arjo, the subdivision application — though rejected by the unofficial neighborhood group — conformed with Tiburon's zoning ordinance and would probably have been approved.

Morshead, from whom Haywood is buying the parcel, said he would pay Haywood $3,000 to abandon the subdivision plans. He told the Independent-Journal he felt an obligation to preserve the beauty of the Tiburon Hills community, which he largely developed.

Haywood said he would sell the 1.6-acre parcel, which he is purchasing for $30,000, for a $5,000 profit.

A neighbor, who had originally intended to purchase one of the subdivided lots, has agreed to buy the entire parcel and build only one house on the entire site, according to Haywood.

Much of the opposition in the neighborhood was based on the fear that two homes would be built on the split parcel.

AGNEW

last press conference his glowing comments about Agnew seemed to leave only the tiniest crack open for a decision that would replace him with another running mate.

In any event, Nixon said he would make his position clear very soon. Now, MacGregor says the President definitely will be disclosing his decision on the vice-presidency "within two weeks."

In what apparently was a supporting argument for his conviction that Agnew would be running again, MacGregor detailed a new-style Agnew campaign he was envisioning.

He described an Agnew whose rhetoric would be toned down considerably. Agnew would still be hard-hitting, but would center his attack on the Democratic-controlled Congress — and not on personalities.

Main elements in this Agnew attack, as seen by MacGregor, will be charges that the Democrats in Congress were responsible for holding back President Nixon's executive-reform, welfare-reform and revenue-sharing plans.

In 1970 a large number of Republican leaders felt that the Agnew contribution to that campaign was less than helpful — that his singling out of certain Democrats as "radiclibs" and his roughing up of the press tended to be counterproductive from the standpoint of winning votes.

In fact, there were some GOP governors who lost that fall who said, quite specifically, that Agnew's rhetoric was to blame for their defeats.

Obviously, these complaints have now been weighed in the highest Republican political circles here and found to have sufficient validity to shape an entirely different Agnew effort this year.

REVENUE

Mitchell said that San Rafael alone — assuming redevelopment area boundaries encompassing as much as 50 per cent of its assessed valuation — would cost county government about $160,000. Larkspur would withhold about $50,000 from the county, Corte Madera $13,000, and Novato's figure would be about $90,000.

School districts would be the hardest hit, Mitchell continued, with San Rafael withholding $385,000; Larkspur, $112,000; Corte Madera, $32,000 and Novato, $209,000.

Mitchell said county officials have related the problem to Bagley.

Among other concerns of county officials about AB-1000 is a provision that the state will pick up the costs for new programs it mandates. The costs would be financed through increased sales, corporate and income taxes.

However, increaes in existing programs and services required by the state such as welfare would have to be financed by the county from within its limited tax rate.

If the welfare caseload increased markedly one year, county officials fear, funds from other departments not regulated by the state — such as public works — would have to be transferred to cover increased costs.

$3.7 billion increase in Social Security benefits which Congress approved over Nixon's objections last month.

In a statement issued July 1 in which he explained his reasons for signing the Social Security increase which Congress had grafted onto a "must" bill extending the national debt ceiling, Nixon said: "My belief that offsetting cuts in other programs can be made—although they may be painful...permits me to sign this measure."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has no plans to address Congress in person or to make a televised speech to urge restraint in action on spending bills.

Bill Would Ban Bank Secrecy

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., introduced legislation yesterday aimed at prohibiting banks and savings and loan associations from microfilming the personal checks of customers.

The measure is a rejoinder to the new "Bank Secrecy Act," which has been challenged in the courts.

Tunney said his bill is designed as "an insurance policy against unwarranted and improper intrus ion by anyone, including government, into a person's banking life.

PRICES

meat and vegetable prices shot up sharply since mid-May. Meat, poultry and fish were up 1.3 per cent in June while fruit and vegetable prices were up 2.7 per cent.

The food price increases were offset by declines in such other items as eggs, cereals, dairy products, and textiles.

The June rise left the Consumer Price Index (CPI) at 2.9 per cent above one year earlier —the first time in more than four and a half years that the 12-month change was a rise of less than 3 per cent.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler described the report as "very encouraging," saying "it shows real evidence of progress towards a healthier economy."

The report said the CPI went up at an annual rate of 2.2 per cent in the second quarter of this year, well below President Nixon's goal of a 2.5 to 3 per cent annual rate of inflation by the end of this year. Consumer prices rose at a yearly rate of 3.6 per cent in the first quarter.

expected Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to make a major contribution to the campaign.

Republicans continued their attacks on McGovern with Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign director, saying it was possible Nixon would carry all 50 states.

"The District of Columbia is the only voting entity we don't think we can carry," MacGregor said.

Bishop Will Live In A Big Yacht

In a letter to clergy in the diocese, which includes the Bay Area and much of Northern California, Myers said he will take up permanent residence on the Daring on Aug. 1.

The Daring, a power vessel built in 1927, was described by boat enthusiasts as a graceful boat with interior appointments including crystal chandeliers, thick carpets and gold trim.

Myers said he purchased the boat with his own funds.

He has been without a permanent home since the diocese sold the large house on Jackson Street in San Francisco which had been maintained as the bishop's residence for many years.

Since that time he, his wife and children have been living in an apartment.

The new vessel, formerly owned by Donald Titus of Sausalito, was built in San Diego and designed by naval architects Eldridge and McGuiness.

The boat is the sixth owned by tha Myers family during the past 20 years. One of these was a Chinese junk, which the bishop sailed on Lake Saint Claire while serving as assistant bishop in Michigan.

As a priest in the slums of New York, he used a 50-foot craft he owned at the time for outings with members of street gangs, he said.

OBITUARIES

Thomas N. Kearney Dies At 50

Thomas Nester Kearney of Mill Valley, attorney and sportsman, died yesterday in Fort Miley Veterans Hospital of head injuries suffered March 31 in an auto crash on the Waldo Grade. He was 50.

He was a skiing and tennis enthusiast, serving as director of the Mill Valley Tennis Club and the California Tennis Club in San Francisco.

After being associated with the San Francisco law firm of Pelton and Gunther since 1952, he opened his own law office in San Francisco last year.

Kearney was born in Detroit, Mich., and attended Michigan State University until he joined the Army Counter Intelligence Corps during World War II. He attended Japanese language schools at Harvard and the University of Michigan, then served in the U.S. occupation forces in Japan until 1948 when he came to the Bay Area.

He continued his studies at Stanford University, receiving his bachelor's degree and a law degree.

He is survived by his wife, Barbara, of the home at 200 Molina Avenue, Mill Valley; two brothers, Robert M. Kearney of Sausalito and Frank J. Kearney of Grosse Point, Mich., and three stepbrothers, John Moon of Texas and Daniel and David Moon of Detroit.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Kearney was found at 12:40 a.m. March 31, pinned in his overturned car at the Rodeo Avenue offramp just off northbound Highway 101. His death was the 17th traffic fatality in Marin County this year, compared with 20 by this date last year.

The funeral will be held at 9 a.m. Monday in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Mill Valley. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Halsted and Co. mortuary, 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Private burial will be at the Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

The family prefers memorial gifts to favorite charities.

A. T. BOERICKE

Arthur T. Boericke, former longtime Marin real estate man and member of an early Mill Valley family, died unexpectedly yesterday in his sleep in Avila Beach, San Luis Obispo County. He was 73.

Boericke, uncle of Mill Valley Mayor Jean S. Barnard, was born in San Francisco and came to the Southern Marin community with his family in 1904.is father, Dr. William C. Boericke, was an Austrian-born homeopathic physician.

The younger Boericke lived off and on for many years in Mill Valley until 1943, when he went into the real estate business. He formerly had been president of Boericke and Runyon Homeopathic Pharmacy in San Francisco.

Boericke, who worked for Southern Marin Realty, retired in 1960. He moved from Mill Valley, living in Boyes Hot Springs and Santa Barbara before settling in Avila Beach a year ago.

In 1970 Britain had one tractor to every 35 acres of arable land, which an official source said is "one of the heaviest tractor densities in the world."

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma. Contributions to a favorite charity are preferred.

MRS. LYDON

Mary S. Lydon of San Rafael, a native Californian, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a short illness. She was 89.

Mrs. Lydon, born in San Francisco, lived in that city until moving to San Rafael two years ago to live with a son.

She was the widow of Thomas J. Lydon, chief special agent for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Francisco, who died in 1942.

Survivors are three daughters, Josephine Anderson of San Francisco, Sarah Ish of Mountain View and Frances Jones of Daly City; two sons, Thomas J. and Joseph E. Lydon, both of San Rafael; 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Rosary is to be recited at 8 p.m. today at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be private.

SAM FISHMAN

Sav David Fishman, 87, longtime Petaluma poultry rancher, died today at a local convalescent hospital after a brief illness.

He was born and reared in Russia and came to the United States in 1913, settling in Minneapolis where he worked as a machinist. Fishman worked at San Francisco shipyards during World War I and moved to Petaluma in 1919. He had operated poultry ranches until his retirement 15 years ago.

Fishman was the husband of the late Sarah Fishman and lived at 659 Chapman Lane.

He is survived by three sons, Sol Fishman of Penngrove, a former member of the Petaluma Board of Education, Morris Fishman of Oakland and Julius Fishman of Petaluma; two daughters, Selma Cader of Petaluma and Ann Weizman of Hayward; a sister, Dora Eichen of Petaluma; 15 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Graveside service will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday at B'Nai Israel Cemetery, Petaluma. Contributions may be made to the Petaluma Jewish Community Center building fund.

MRS. BUCKETT

Dorothy Buckett, 62, 50-year Petaluma resident, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

She was born in Buffalo, N.Y., and moved to Petaluma with her family as a youngster. Mrs. Buckett was active in several social clubs and parent-teacher associations.

She and her husband, Stanley J. Buckett, lived at 342 Walnut Street.

She is also survived by a son, Robert Buckett of Petaluma; a daughter, Beverly Ternes of Petaluma; two brothers, William McCort of Petaluma and Robert McCort of San Leandro; a sister, Loretta McCort of Petaluma and five grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent De Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at the Parent Funeral Chapel.

ROBERT BLAKESLEE

Robert W. Blakeslee of Corte Madera, an insurance company official, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after an illness of six months. He was 62.

Blakeslee, of 242 Upland Circle, was a vice president and fleet administrator for Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He worked for the firm for 30 years.

Born in Newton, Mass., Blakeslee lived in various parts of the country in line with company assignments before moving to Marin four years ago.

He was a member of the Marin Power Squadron, Loch Lomond Yacht Club, Marin Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Phoenix Society of San Francisco.

Survivors are his wife, Lillian; a son, Robert E. of Corte Madera; a daughter, Judith Hadden of Hartford, Conn.; a sister, Frances Townley of Elnora, N.Y., and four grandchildren.

Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Church of All Faiths, Corte Madera. Burial is to be private. The family prefers contributions to the Ernest H. Rosenbaum Cancer Research Fund, Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco.

W. DeCURTONI

Winslow R. de Curtoni of Stinson Beach, a hero of World War II, died yesterday in his home of a self-inflicted bullet wound, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

De Curtoni, 64, had been suffering from arteriosclerosis, according to Coroner's Deputy Bill J. Thomas, and was despondent over approaching surgery.

Born in San Francisco, de Curtoni was awarded a commendation ribbon by the Navy in 1944 for risking his life as the warrant boatswain of a landing craft during the invasion of an island held by the Japanese.

He was cited for deliberately drawing fire on his craft, allowing American gunners to zero in on concealed enemy batteries.

De Curtoni lived in Marin County for the past 19 years and made his home at 174 Calle del Arroyo. He was a retired sales manager of Alta Distributing Co. of San Francisco, a wholesale liquor firm.

He belonged to Alcatraz Lodge 244, Free and Accepted Masons, Oakland.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Walter P. Strycker of Orinda, and two grandchildren.

Funeral was held today in Mill Valley. Burial was to be in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

Memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society are preferred by the family.

MRS. SCHUTTE

The death of Justina Schutte in Malaga, Spain, has been reported to former neighbors and friends in Marin County by her husband, Harold.

Mrs. Schutte died July 6 after a brief illness and was buried in San Miguel Cemetery in Malaga.

The Schuttes lived some 15 years on Loma Linda Avenue, Ross, before moving first to San Francisco and then to Spain. Mrs. Schutte was active in many Marin civic and cultural organizations, including the American Association of University Women, Marin Symphony, Friends of Arequipa, Social Service Auxiliary, Ross Valley Players and other groups. A talented musician, she was church organist for her parish, St. Anselm's, for years.

She was born in Erie, Pa., in 1907.

Until her death, she was an avid traveler and golfer.

In Malaga, she was the only American on the directorship of the British Club, and was founder of the English Speaking Club, and taught English at a boys' school.

She is survived only by her husband.

ANNA PILLUS

Private funeral for Anna Pillus, 57, former San Rafael laundry worker, was held today in Petaluma.

Mrs. Pillus was dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital Wednesday after collapsing at her home at 1415 Pheasant Drive, Petaluma.

She was born and reared in Brooklyn, N.Y., and worked in defense plants there during World War II. Mrs. Pillus moved to San Rafael in 1947, where she worked at various laundries, and moved to Petaluma a year ago.

She is survived by two sons, Sam and Robert Pillus of Petaluma; a daughter, Eleanor Shadwick of Santa Rosa, and 10 grandchildren.

DOLORES POOL

Dolores L. Pool of 79 Valley Road, San Anselmo, died today in a local hospital. She was 49.

A mother of four, Mrs. Pool was first president of the Terra Linda Valley Hospital Auxiliary in 1963, had been active in the Brookside School Parent Teacher Association, in Scouting and Camp Fire Girls programs, and had worked as a Red Cross volunteer nurse.

A native of California, she had lived in Marin County for 20 years.

She is survived by her husband, Robert Raymond Pool, her children, Robert R. Jr., Michael, Mary Louise and Sally Ann, all of San Anselmo, and by her parents, Frank and Irene Bauman of San Francisco.

Rosary services will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Keaton Chapel, San Rafael. A Mass of the Resurrection will be offered for the repose of her soul at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

SEEKS VISA HELP

Holding a poster of her husband, Mrs. Judith Silver Shapiro, whose husband goes on trial in Moscow next week on draft evasion charges, shakes hands with United Nations Ambassador George Bush across from the U.N. building in New York. Mrs. Shapiro asked Bush to obtain her a visa to be present at the trial. Shapiro was arrested only minutes after his bride had to return home when her tourist visa expired. At right is Rabbi Mark Tannebaum of New York.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Judge Denies Ties With Marin Shoot-Out Victim

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The latest judge in the Ruchell Magee murder case has denied that he went to the late Judge Harold J. Haley's funeral, much less that he cried during the service.

Magee's attorney, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, earlier this month challenged San Francisco Superior Court Judge Morton R. Colvin, charging he was a personal friend of Judge Haley, killed in the August 1970 shootout.

In an affidavit denying that he is prejudiced against Magee because of friendship with Judge Haley, Judge Colvin said he did not attend Haley's funeral but did go to the Rosary service.

He went in his capacity as head of the state Workmen's Compensation Board, Colvin said. "I didn't cry at the Rosary or any other time," he added in the affidavit.

He said Haley was not a personal friend and that he had met him once at a State Bar convention for 20 seconds and had appeared before him in court twice in the mid 1950's.

He also denied close associations with Marin Superior Court Judges Joseph G. Wilson and E. Warren McGuire as well as Judge Haley's former law partner, John Buresh.

The Main Reason

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — The state highway commission's winter night patrol reports that mechanical breakdowns replaced running out of gas as the main reason motorists needed assistance last winter. More than one-fourth the vehicles aided had a breakdown.

He said he did not know who the witnesses will be but that of the 20 persons who testified before the grand jury in the case, he knew only two.

One, Dr. John Manwaring, a pathologist, has appeared before him in court, he said, and another, Peter D. Flmeing, he knows because he has patronized his service station.

Colvin said he practiced law in Marin County from 1949 to 1958 and did at one time maintain a residence here but no longer does.

Magee, who faces the same murder-kidnapping-conspiracy charges on which Angela Davis was acquitted, is due to go to trial Aug. 1.

The prosecutor in the case, Asst. Atty. Gen. Eric Collins said today, however, that no date has been set yet for hearing the challenge against Judge Colvin.

Wild Chase In Commute Rush Ends Without A Major Crash

A wild chase — that ended in the arrest of a man suspected of drunken driving on Highway 101 at the height of the evening rush hour yesterday — was called "miraculous" by Tiburon police today because not one car was hit.

The car, officers said, dodged from lane-to-lane at 50 miles an hour from the Tiburon on-ramp north nearly to San Rafael, before it was halted.

Lights flashing, sirens sounding, a Tiburon patrol car pursued, a California Highway Patrol car zoomed in front trying to head him off and a Corte Madera police car zipped through following traffic to help.

Tiburon police said Cornelius Thomas Harold, 32, of Shillington, Pa., was first seen stopped at the Trestle Glen and Tiburon Boulevard intersection in Tiburon at 5:05 p.m.

A Tiburon patrolman followed the car after a motorist from Belvedere reported Harold's driving had threatened to cause several accidents. When the patrolman attempted to halt Harold at the North Knoll Road intersection on flashing lights, Harold's car took off onto the freeway on-ramp.

According to Tiburon police, the Pennsylvania driver traveled along 101 at 20 miles an hour drifting on to the shoulder as far as the Corte Madera interchange. Then he began hopping from lane to lane at 50 miles an hour, dodging through the heavy commute traffic.

The California Highway Patrol joined the chase at the Greenbrae interchange, and Harold's car was finally forced to a stop half a mile on.

Tiburon police said it was miraculous that no accidents occured during the chase — "but the commuters couldn't help but see all the lights and hear the sirens."

Traffic was backed up on a long stretch of the freeway while Harold's car was pulled from the No. 2 lane.

Harold was arrested and booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving charge. He was released on $360 bail to appear in municipal court this afternoon.

His passenger, Judith Diane Kline, 28, of Guerneville, Pa., was booked for being drunk in or about a motor vehicle and was released on $100 bail to appear in court today.

Some Exempted From Drug Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting Aug. 1, career servicemen in most cases will be exempt from urine sample checks for drug users.

The Pentagon announced the new policy Thursday. Spokesmen said servicemen 29 and older will not have to participate in spot checks, although local commanders will retain authority to test older personnel if they consider it necessary.

The urine tests have turned up 19,000 military drug abusers since the program began 13 months ago. Only 1 per cent of the drug users were 29 or older.

Wallace Will Attend Session

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will appear at the American Independent party (AIP) convention and will be placed in nomination as a presidential candidate, the Ohio chairman of the AIP said Wednesday.

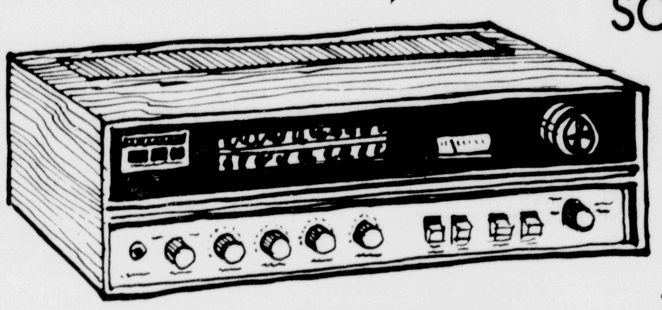

Ohio chairman Arthur L. Cain said Wallace would appear Aug. 4 during the convention at Louisville, Ky.

"The governor will be put up for nomination as the party's candidate for president and speculation is building he will accept," said Cain.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

RESTING UP

Prisoners sunned themselves yesterday on the damaged roof of Belfast's Crumlin Road prison after going on a rampage earlier in the day, protesting that political prisoners were being moved into their prison wing. Some prisoners carried wooden clubs with which they smashed roof tiles. In another incident in Belfast yesterday, gunmen shot and killed a news vendor who tried to stop them from bombing his shop.

Prison Riot Causes Viewed

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Riots in three of Maryland's prisons since last Saturday have brought to the surface a festering crisis in the state's penal system.

The disturbances have left officials agonizing over causes:

—"We have spent millions and millions of dollars and all we have to show for it is two burned out buildings. Money isn't the problem," said Gov. Marvin Mandel.

—"The prisoners are running the prisons; but we feel we are the prisoners," said Maryland penitentiary guard chairman Earl Smothers.

—"We just want to be treated like human beings. We're people too," an angry inmate at the house of correction shouted at Mandel during a tense negotiating meeting at a prison fence.

Agnew made his promise after a riot did $500,000 damage to the Maryland Penitentiary and injured guards and inmates.

Maryland coasted along smoothly during the intervening five years with no major disturbances until the new riots left damage totaling $2.5 million at the penitentiary in Baltimore and the house of correction at Jessup, Md. The third uprising, at the Prince Georges County jail at Upper Marlboro, Md., did little damage.

Since 1967 the spending has risen from $11.4 million, and the number of corrections personnel from 1,222 to 1,733 while the inmate population has stayed about the same.

Harris Chaiklin, a sociologist at the University of Maryland, who has studied the prison situation in Maryland for several years sees the current problems as stemming from a "gradual hardening of positions" between inmates and guards.

"For four years, we made tremendous progress," Chaiklin said. "Then with the political firing of the corrections director, the problems began.

"What has happened in the last year is a gradual hardening of positions of corrections officers and inmates, such that pressure was building up.

"This would make for a situation that any spark would set off. It was bound to happen. A brutal heat wave and the parts fell into place with no individual to blame."

State Corrections Director Joseph G. Cannon, now with the Minnesota Corrections Department, was fired a year ago after implementing several reforms in the system in the areas of rehabilitation and self-help programs. He was replaced by a black. James Jordan, who has been ill and hospitalized for about a month.

Agnew brought Cannon from his prisons commissioner job in Kentucky to Maryland with "the broad mandate to supervise reform now under way or planned and to recommend any other changes as necessary to give us one of the top prison systems in the United States."

State Sen. George Snyder, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee who worked for Cannon's firing, said Cannon was "too permissive. He brought in outside help groups and they are the big problem. They work against the guards."

A black state delegate who negotiated with the penitentiary inmates to give up their hostages, Troy Brailey of Baltimore, blames the guards.

"The guards scare me," Brailey said. "The guards feel the prisoners are not even human beings. The guards and prisoners come from the same ghettoes of Baltimore and they should be sympathetic. But it's different when a black is put in authority."

A representative of the guard's union, the Maryland Public Employes Council, Clyde Thompson, blames the outside influences. "Do-gooders and bleeding hearts come in here and paint the prisoners as the good guys and the guards as the bad guys."

Funds Set For Updating Creek Plan

The Ross Valley Flood Control Advisory board voted yesterday to spend $1,000 to update a two-year-old alternative to a concrete channel for the Corte Madera Creek through the town of Ross.

Board chairman Edward W. Colthurst said members voted to instruct Milton Hudis, a Santa Rosa consulting civil engineer, to reevaluate his 1970 study.

The scheme, titled Alternate 1, proposed three box culvert structures for the creek at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Sylvan and Shady lanes.

The board disagreed with a recommendation from county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy for a $3,000 cleanup of the creek's meander parallel to McAllister Avenue.

Instead, said Colthurst, they decied to invite Collegé of Marin to assume responsibility for the meander by expanding their ecology area.

The board also instructed Murphy to attempt an agreement with the Army Corps of Engineers so the county can clean up floating debris on the creek and bill the corps for the work.

Funds To 579 Nursing Homes Cut By Order

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's order to end federal help to substandard nursing homes has been implemented by cutting off funds to 579 of the institutions.

John G. Veneman, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, reported to Nixon on the issue Wednesday.

Nixon issued his order last August. Since then, Veneman said, 327 nursing homes had lost their certification and another 252 homes withdrew from the program because they were unable or unwilling to meet the standards.

Noted Author Is Dead At Age 71

WOODLAND HILLS (AP) — Sally Benson, 71, author of "Meet Me in St. Louis" as well as other books and screen plays, has died after a long illness at the Motion Picture and Television Hospital, a spokesman said.

She died Wednesday. She had been at the hospital since October 1970, a spokesman said yesterday.

Mrs. Benson, who was a regular contributor to the New Yorker magazine under the pen name Esther Evarts, wrote film scripts for "National Velvet," "Little Women," and "Anna and the King of Siam." "Meet Me in St. Louis" was made into a motion picture starring Judy Garland.

Convicted Murderer Is Still At Large

A convicted murderer who disappeared from San Quentin yesterday morning was still missing today, but a car in which he had been thought to escape showed up when the guard who owns it reported for work.

The missing inmate is Anthony Joseph Herrera, 33. He was sent to San Quentin in 1968 after a first degree murder conviction in Sonoma County.

Prison Information Officer Joseph R. O'Brien said that Herrera was seen last about 10:20 a.m. working on a car belonging to correctional officer L. E. Duffy at the service station just inside prison gates.

The car and Herrera disappeared about the same time, and officers first theorized that the convict had either hidden in the car or taken it himself. Duffy later showed up for work at 4 p.m., however, explaining he had been out of touch by telephone because he was moving.

Herrera was considered cooperative by prison officials, O'Brien said, which is why he had the service station job. O'Brien said, however, that the man, described as 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing 175 pounds with black hair and brown eyes, must be considered dangerous while at large.

Repair Kit Stolen

Hearing Held On Suit Against Actor

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—A hearing was held Thursday on a $38,000 suit against Western movie star Roy Rogers, charging him with reneging on attorney's fees on a planned housing development here.

Orlando attorney William Blalock charged that Rogers owes him the $38,000 for legal work he did involving plans for a "Roy Rogers Western World," a housing development with a Western motif which was announced in 1966. Plans for the development fell through more than a year ago. There was no immediate verdict.

$30,000 Fund Drive Launched

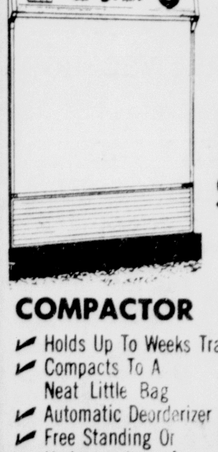

A new parents' group has launched a $30,000 fund-raising drive to send 250 Terra Linda High School students on a musical outing to Hawaii over the Easter 1973 vacation week.

Charter members of the Terra Linda High School Music Association elected officers and adopted bylaws at a meeting Wednesday, and began organizing fund-raising events for their goal.

Plans are that the music department's teachers will take the school's stage band, symphonic band, orchestra and a capella choir to Oahu to give five performances in island schools in six days. The students will pay their own fare and lodging; the association hopes to pay the remaining costs.

Officers elected were Elisabeth Fagerstom, president; Frank Kern, vice president; Dorothy Anderson, secretary; Philip Brodzinsky, treasurer, and Louise Unsoeld, chairman at large.

HITCHING A RIDE

In this artist's concept, a space shuttle is launched from Cape Kennedy. Firing at the same time as the two solid-propellant boosters are the liquid-fueled engines of the orbiter (right). The two solid boosters will be parachuted into the ocean for recovery and reuse. The orbiter's large fuel tank (center) will be jettisoned next and the probe will continue into orbit. The sketch was executed by Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., one of the orbiter's bidders.

School Board Passes Budget

The San Anselmo School District board last night adopted a publication budget of $2,131,610 for 1972-73 and set 8 p.m. Aug. 3 as the date of a public hearing on that budget in the Red Hill School library.

The spending program is up from last year's $2,066,448 budget.

Frank R. Elliott, district superintendent, said that although a new tax rate has not yet been set, last year's levy of $3.15 per $100 of assessed valuation would drop about 10 cents.

Elliott said that several administrative programs and staff changes for the 1972-73 school year were also adopted at last night's meeting. The board decided to move the third grade class at Yolansdale School to Isabel Cook School and agreed to shuffle the Yolansdale educationally handicapped class to Sleepy Hollow School.

"This will allow us to create a child care day center at Yolansdale School and enable us to expand the library there," the superintendent said.

The library at Yolansdale, currently housed in a portable trailer, will be moved into one of the empty rooms created by the class shuffle, he said.

The board also renewed the two alternative education classes at Wade Thomas School, established a mentally retarded education class at Brookside School and approved the learning disability group program at Red Hill School, Elliott said.

The following principal reassignments were made:

Keith McPherson, presently principal of Isabel Cook and Yolansdale schools, was reassigned as principal of Red Hill and Hidden Valley schools.

Walter Dolan, principal of Sleepy Hollow School, was reassigned as principal of Isabel Cook and Yolansdale schools.

Dr. Templeton Galbraith, principal of Hidden Valley School, was reassigned as principal of Sleepy Hollow School.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

VICE PRINCIPALS — Decided to create three vice principal posts to be filled by teachers at a cost of $4,200. The district currently has only one vice principal.

TEACHERS — Renewed the terms of the district's five special reading teachers at a cost of $30,000, and approved the hiring of three speech therapists, also at a cost of $30,000.

ELECTION — Accepted the resignation of absentee trustee Basil H. Scalabrini and announced that it would accept applications of candidates for the post through Sept. 1. The matter of a new trustee will be placed on the Nov. 7 ballot, Elliott said.

SALARIES — Passed a resolution allowing adjustment of employee salaries during the school year.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a public hearing on the district's budget set for 8 p.m. Aug. 3 in the Red Hill School library.

A Switch In Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Authorities in vocational education estimate that, on the average, today's youths will change occupations between five and seven times during their working life.

'Lowest Cause'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Firearm accidents are the lowest cause of fatal mishaps, according to Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which listed accidental firearm deaths at 2.1 per 100,000 population, compared with 47.2 for traffic accidents, 9.5 in falls, 5.1 drowning and 4.4 fires.

San Rafael Park Fund Plea Backed

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A $245,000 federal grant sought by the City of San Rafael for a new 190-acre park in the north end of the city last night was endorsed by the executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The proposed Mont Marin Regional Park is adjacent to Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek, and includes ridges, hillsides and meadows. Proposed future developments include picnic areas, turf playing fields, riding trails and stables, swimming facilities, hiking trails, bicycle paths, camping, nature study areas, outdoor amphitheater and scenic open space areas.

Total cost of the project is $490,000.

The committee also endorsed a $562,000 grant sought by Bodega Bay Public Utility District on condition that sewerage facilities to be built exclude service to portions of the Bodega Harbor subdivision on lands subject to hazards from earthquake faults.

In a hearing on an airport master plan, the committee heard testimony that commercial airline use of Hamilton Air Force Base and Napa Airport may do less environmental harm than bay fill to expand San Francisco and Oakland airports. The testimony was presented by the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Roadwork To Affect Traffic Movement

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic Monday were announced today by the state Division of Highways. Weekend traffic will not be hampered.

Sections of freeway involved Monday are:

1. One southbound lane will be closed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. between San Marin Drive and Atherton Avenue at Novato to permit construction on a detour in connection with the Novato bypass.

2. The southbound shoulder lane on California Park Hill south of San Rafael will be closed from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Motorists using the offramp to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard will be subject to brief delays in order to permit truck loading.

3. Paving on southbound lanes of Waldo Grade between Marin City and the Golden Gate Bridge will begin Monday at 10 a.m. Traffic will be reduced to two lanes southbound.

Detroit Will Open School As Always

DETROIT (UPI)—After almost two years of battling in the courts, the Detroit Board of Education today went ahead with plans for a normal school opening in the fall—one which would not involve cross-district busing of students.

The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday ordered a temporary delay on the purchase of 295 buses to transport sudents from Detroit's predominantly black schools to schools in 52 predominantly white suburban districts. The appeals court scheduled a hearing on oral arguments for Aug. 24.

Detroit School Supt. Charles J. Wolfe said the court's action "tells us to go ahead now to do our planning for fall opening in terms of regular schools."

"We have waited to get some firm direction to move in and we can't wait any longer," Wolfe said. "We'll go right ahead with regular planning. If something is changed Aug. 24 then we'll have to consider it at that time."

The appeals court, acting on the request of the state of Michigan, will review rulings by U.S. District Judge Stephen Roth which laid the groundwork for implementation of the cross-district integration plan on a limited basis this fall and on a full-scale basis in September of 1973.

Roth ruled last September that Detroit's schools were deliberately segregated. He certified his findings as final Thursday so the case could be appealed.

Gov. William Milliken, a defendant in the case, met in Washington Thursday with President Nixon to discuss the case and said afterwards, "I am confident that the Justice Department will be helpful in the ultimate resolution of this issue."

Attorneys for both sides in the case agreed that the appeal could prevent a busing plan from being implemented this fall. "But there's still a possibility of second semester implementation next February," said Louis R. Lucas, chief attorney for the NAACP, which initiated the case nearly two years ago.

Park Crime Rise

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Crimes committed in Cincinnati public parks increased 145 per cent from 1969 to 1971, the Board of Park Commissioners reports. A total of 1,220 persons were arrested in city parks in 1971, of whom 1,157 were convicted.

Judge Gives Pier Dwellers Extra Time

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday temporarily rescued a group of shore dwellers caught in Sausalito's crusade to clean up the city waterfront.

Judge Henry J. Broderick, who Monday ordered one set of waterside apartments vacated because they are unsafe, barred the city from moving against the Napa Street pier until he can hold a hearing Aug. 3.

The city of July 7 declared the pier and its buildings at 602 Bridgeway "unfit for human habitation" and ordered it vacated or brought up to standard by today.

Yesterday, however, Scott M. DeBruin and 15 other houseboat owners who tie up at the pier won an order forbidding the city to cut off electrical power and asked the court to declare the city has no power over utilities.

The suit maintains the city is trying to shut off the lights to force repairs, but, according to the suit, repairs are already under way.

In its eviction notice, the city told pier owners Edward Halperin and Stanley Herzstein their property is unsafe because the foundations have deteriorated, dry rot has set in and wiring and venting are subpar.

Citing similar defects and dilapidation in two World War II vintage barges next to Zack's restaurant, the city Monday convinced Broderick to order residents off the barges before next Thursday. Residents have said they won't leave the 14 apartments.

Rifle Valued At $280 Reported Stolen

A Remington rifle worth $280 was stolen from the back of his pickul truck, Glenn Eddie Wehrer of 23 Kristy Court, Novato, told Larkspur police.

The gun was left in the truck outside 15 East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard Wednesday at 7 a.m., said Wehrer, and was missing at 4 p.m.

You've worked all year to earn your vacation. You shouldn't have to work to plan it.

And, luckily, there's a person who'll make sure you won't have to.

Your Travel Agent.

Just to save you time and money on your vacation.

But he'll also help with all the details that can make your trip go smoothly.

Like tell you where you'll need warm clothing for chilly nights.

Or letting you know which seats are best in a particular theatre.

Or even that you should order lamb, not beef, at a certain little cafe.

Best of all, these services are usually free. Because the Travel Agent is paid commissions by all the hotel and airline people.

Now why are we at United telling you all this?

Well, we fly to more of this land than anyone. And we figure you ought to get the most out of your own country.

Our partner, your Travel Agent can arrange any of them.

Air Pollution Crisis Hits East

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The state of Ohio obtained court orders today forcing industries to curb air pollution, even if it means curtailing production, in the heavily industrialized area of the Ohio Valley hardest hit by an air pollution crisis stretching from the East Coast into the Middle West.

The Ohio area is about 70 miles west of Donora, Pa., where 22 persons were killed and nearly 6,000 more felled in America's worst air pollution disaster 24 years ago.

The mass of hot stagnant air, which began settling over the area Monday, trapping and holding the pollutants emitted by automobiles and industry, already has caused deaths and triggered blackouts and brownouts affecting more than a million people.

The polluted air dissipated in New England but weather forecasters said no relief was in sight from New York westward.

The National Weather Service said parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania could be enveloped in a shallow layer of smoke, dust and gases near the ground unless the wind picked up enoughto blow it away.

Open burning was banned in eastern Ohio and for the fifth straight day in the Baltimore area.

Ohio, the first state to go to court, obtained a temporary restraining order against 20 industries.

Assistant Atttorney General C. Raymond Marvin, head of the Ohio attorney general's Environmental Strike Force, said he would ask for 10 more injunctions in the industrial area around Steubenville, about 40 miles south of Pittsburgh, where there was 10 times the amount of particles in the air allowed by federal regulations.

"We were in an air conditioned car and we could taste the particles in our mouths 10 miles from Steubenville," Marvin said.

A "first stage alert" alert was in effect in Pittsburgh and industries were asked to cut back production voluntarily. People with heart and respiratory problems were advised to keep their activities to a minimum.

West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore dispatched air pollution teams to the four northern panhandle counties near Pittsburgh where pollution was increasing. Ten major companies cut back production.

The Donora diaster occurred on the weekend of Oct. 27, 1948, when a layer of cold air held a cushion of warm air over the steel town about 30 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. Gas and fumes from the steel mills were absorbed by the air mass, forming a toxic smog that hung over the area.

In New York City, the siege of hot, humid weather "is causing deaths to cluster now," Health Commissioner Joseph Cimino said Thursday. He said more persons than usual who suffer from respiratory diseases have died during the week-long heat wave, although he did not provide figures. "Most of these people would have died in any case in a few months," he said.

The muggy weather has led Consolidated Edison Co. to reduce voltage by 5 per cent to avoid massive power failures, and to cut off power to more than one-million persons for periods of several hours.

A light rain Thursday night cooled off the city somewhat and washed down some of the pollution. However, another day of high humidity and temperatures in the 90s was forecast for today.

"There's still nothing strong enough to move" the air mass stretching from the Mississippi Valley east to Bermuda, said a National Weather Service spokesman. "There have been some winds, and parts of the high have broken up, but it looks like it will last through the weekend."

About 500 workers at the Ford Motor Co. plant in Mahwah, N.J., walked off the job to protest soaring temperatures, and the company cut the work day by two hours. "We told them (the company) we're not going to tolerate any discipline because these men were justified, based on their health and safety," said union official Bernard Jackson.

New Yorkers who have been opening fire hydrants to cool off were asked to stop that because the practice was gravely reducing water pressure to several sections of the city.

The power demand in Philadelphia reached 5 million kilowatts —the highest of the year. In Albany, N.Y., a power failure left much of the first floor of the state Capitol without electricity and halted all elevator service.

Passage Figured For Arms Pacts

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Advinistration officials think the two strategic arms limitation agreements signed at the Moscow summit could pass Congress by Aug. 18.

The agreements, which limit defensive (ABM) missiles to two sites and halt offensive missile deployment for five years, advanced Thursday with little opposition in Senate and House committees.

The ABM agreement, in the form of a treaty, is subject only to Senate ratification. The agreement limiting the number of intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) must pass both chambers.

Federal Probe Of State EOC Office Is Near

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A full investigation of the California State Economic Opportunity Office is about to be launched by the federal General Accounting Office, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said yesterday.

The senator said the investigative arm of Congress decided on the action following a preliminary analysis of evidence he submitted. Cranston said the evidence, 155 pages of letters, memos, reports and vouchers, indicates "a continuing pattern" of activity by the state office in apparent violation of federal law and regulations of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

All 20 Democratic congressmen from California and Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., joined him in requesting the investigation, Cranston said. The investigation will take about five months, the senator reported.

Joint Use Of Airbase Opposed

Lynwood Park Improvement Association directors have opposed joint civilian-military air use at Hamilton Air Force Base, according to vica president Gloria Burnett.

Directors agreed Tuesday night they would prefer only government use of the base, she said.

The board also supported the city airport study committee's recommendation that joint use be put before the Novato voters, Mrs. Burnett said.

The Lynwood Park Improvement Association board also:

STOP SIGNS — Requested the city to install four-way traffic stop signs at Sunset Parkway and South Novato Boulevard.

PARK LAND — Urged the city to acquire the Sutter Hill site for park land as indicated on the Scottsdale-crossroads general plan.

HOUSING — Opposed the portion of the city's housing element which provides for housing for Indian Valley Colleges students, on the grounds that such housing would encourage students from "other areas" to attend.

DOGS AT LARGE — Said there is a problem of packs of dogs roaming loose, adding it would notify owners that dogs should be kept under control or complaints would be filed with the Marin County Humane Society.

Fischer To Allow Cameras For 6th Game Of Match

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —Bobby Fischer, who gave one full game to world champion Boris Spassky in their $250,000 chess match because he did not like the contest being broadcast on closed circuit television, will permit television cameras in the playing hall so "his millions of fans" can see the sixth game Sunday night, an aide said today.

Fred Cramer, an International Chess Federation vice-president and confidant of Fischer's, said "cameras should be back in the hall for Sunday's game but on Bobby's conditions.

"There must not be the slightest trace of noise. But he's feeling on top of the world after licking Spassky so there should be no problems. Bobby is most eager this great championship match should come out to his millions of fans."

Chet Forty, the ABC-television producer in charge of filming the match, said he was waiting for Fischer to call.

"Anything he says goes. I hope to inspect the hall later today with him when he wakes up," Forty said.

The sixth game in the 24-match world championship playoff is scheduled for 5 p.m. (1 p.m. EDT) Sunday with Fischer playing white.

Russian aides, however, denied reports that the 35-year-old champion might ask for a postponement of Sunday's game.

"Nonsense," a spokesman said. "Mr. Spassky was not very satisfied with his game as you can understand, but he is no child. World champions win and lose and Mr. Spassky is no exception. He will be back."

Fischer's reaction was one of jubilation.

New Look At School Extends Far Beyond Physical Appearance

By ISABEL McCORD STROUD
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PHOENIX — Phoenix Indian High School has a new look.

The school has been a landmark for 80 years, yet updating of its plant continues. Its 100-acre campus has taken on a brighter appearance during the past decade — modern classrooms, dormitories, and other facilities replacing antiquated buildings.

In the process this fully accredited high school, though still supported by the United States Bureau of Indian Affairs, has lost the drabness long associated with government schools. It's developed its own individuality, and this extends far beyond physical appearance.

Responsible for the changes going on inside the school is the superintendent, Vincent Little, the first Indian to hold such an administrative post in a U.S. Indian school.

Little, a member of the Mohave Tribe, graduated from the school and served as president of the class of 1951. He returned as superintendent in 1970.

"One reason I accepted the position," the popular administrator stresses, "is that I've always been interested in education, and with education in a period of rapid change, if we in this school are ever going to make a change, the time is now."

Through love and understanding he helps students to achieve. What does he tell them?

"Educate yourselves so well you can go back to the reservations as governors, leaders, respected and valued citizens who know how to communicate with the major culture. Be able to accept responsibility for your tribal government, where leaders are desperately needed, or, if you choose, compete in the major culture."

VINCENT LITTLE
Heads Indian school

At Little's invitation tribal leaders frequently visit the campus to advise students and to provide evaluation for the intertribal school.

No barrier exists between the superintendent and students. The door of his office is always open, and students aren't afraid to drop in and talk with their friend and counselor.

He says, "I see around me a whole new concept of education. Through all the technicalities of learning in the '70s, I see the Indian boy and girl."

He tells of the time an eastern exchange student almost convinced the staff of the school paper that it wasn't their paper but an Indian Bureau paper. Representatives of the Phoenix Red Skin called on him saying they wanted an underground paper. He answered, "Why not? You do all the work. I won't edit it. Make up your mailing list and we'll print it."

The following day all 12 of the paper's staff walked into Little's office to say: "We don't need an underground paper." They had carefully criticized the Red Skin only to find out it was theirs. This year there's a staff of 30 active workers.

The personable administrator has had extensive background in Indian affairs.

"My most valuable experience after college was one which took me to 50 tribal groups and as many reservations in the Northwest and Southwest helping the people establish formal constitutions and corporate chapters under the Bureau of Indian Affairs."

Investiture In Cotati Saturday

Rev. Hugh Donohue of St. Joseph's Church, Cotati, will offically become a monsignor in an investiture ceremony tomorrow at 3 p.m. at the church.

Bishop Mark J. Hurley of the Santa Rosa diocese will preside and a reception will follow at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

Battle Lines Forming Again Over Martinelli Farms Project

Battle lines are forming for yet another struggle between conservationists and the developer of the controversial Martinelli Farms project near Point Reyes Station.

The proposed development, approved in May by the county planning commission only to be rejected weeks later by the board of supervisors, will be back before the planners Monday on a revised set of plans.

The new plans, submitted by developer Lawrence J. Walters of Inverness, envision 68 homes on the 260-acre site located at the tip of Tomales Bay on Highway 1.

Walters had originally sought approval for 51 "ranchettes" of two to five acres each but met stiff opposition from conservationists who claimed the project was too dense and threatened nearby Tomales Bay.

The conservationists, headed by Bolinas attorney Paul D. Kayfetz, backed up their opposition with a law suit against the county to stop the project.

A legal fight was averted when the board of supervisors rejected the development plans and told Walters to revise them showing more open space by concentrating the homes closer together.

Under the revised plans, more open space is shown near Tomales Bay but homesites are still listed in areas designated as "conservation zones" under the preliminary general plan.

The county planning staff has recommended that 19 homesites in those zones be scratched from the plan.

Kayfetz, meanwhile, has indicated he will reactivate the law suit against the county if the development is approved by the commission and the board of supervisors.

The suit maintains the county may not approve such a development without first having an adopted general plan. The county's general plan is still being drafted.

'Bucket Brigade' Beer Theft Plea

An 18-year-old youth, who allegedly participated in a "bucket brigade" theft of beer from a San Anselmo market, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to petty theft and a felony count of burglary.

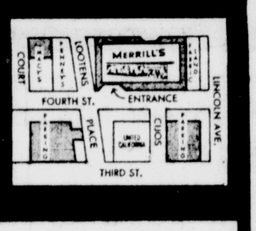

A preliminary hearing for Scott Rollins Shepherd of no known address was set for Aug. 8.

Police arrested him July 11 after two customers who were acquainted with him reported he was one of about six youths who entered the Stop 'n Go market at 807 San Anselmo Avenue, formed a line and began passing six packs of beer out to waiting cars.

Seven six packs were taken, according to police.

Danish Team Finds Pressure Of Tournament Play Too Much

If you behave yourself and eat your oatmeal every morning you may never have to play bridge for your country in the Bridge Olympics. Even if your country selects you to represent it, you may find a quiet corner to do your job. It's cruel to have to play your regular game in front of 500 kibitzers, as two Danish experts did when they encountered today's hand a few weeks ago in the World Bridge Olympiad.

FROM DUMMY

West opened the deuce of spades, and dummy's ten won the first trick. East's heart discard told declarer the bad news about the trump break.

Los Angeles expert Paul Soloway, playing the South hand, ruffed a low club and then led the queen of hearts. Westproperly covered with the king, and dummy's ace won. Southruffed another club, hoping that the ace would fall, and then led the nine of hearts.

UNWISE MOVE

East won with the jack of hearts and somewhat unwisely returned the queen of diamonds. West played his king of diamonds in the mistaken notion that it was necessary to unblock the suit. Soloway won with dummy's ace and wondered if Christmas was coming early.

FATEFUL TEN

South ruffed another club and hopefully led the ten of hearts. If West could follow suit, dummy's low diamond would go off.

West Went into a fearful huddle with 500 fans watching his agony on closed-circuit television. If you have followed the play carefully, you will see that he could defeat the contract by ruffing with the queen of spades.

TRANCE, THEN RUFF

After a five-minute trance West ruffed with thefive of spades. Soloway overruffed in the dummy and gave up a diamond. Now West could get one trump trick, but the doubled contract was safe.

When last seen, two Danish bridge experts were asking about immigration regulations in Australia.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz today on the July 21 birthday of Ernest Hemingway (1899-1961), author and journalist:

1. This big bearded American was a living legend in his own time, growing up as a respectable physician's son in a suburb of Chicago to a position of world-wide influence as an interpreter of: (A) the "Lost Generatio"; (B) the Monroe Doctrine; (C) Zen Buddhism.

2. After reporting for the Kansas City Star, young Hemingway volunteered for ambulance service in France and Italy in World War I, an experience so thrilling and harrowing it inspired him to write: (A) "Lost Horizons"; (B) "War and Peace"; (C) "A Farewell to Arms".

3. When the war ended, Hemingway joined a literary crowd of American expatriates in Paris, where he eventually turned from a career of foreign correspondence to that of a serious fiction writer under the influence of: (A) Marlene Dietrich; (B) Gertrude Stein; (C) Edith Piaf.

4. An adventurer who loved hunting, fishing and beautiful women, Ernest Hemingway won the Nobel Prize for literature and received the Pulitzer Prize for: (A) "The Old Man and the Sea"; (B) "The Grapes of Wrath"; (C) "A Bell for Adano".

ANSWERS

1-(A) (Lost Generation); 2-(C) (Farewell Arms); 3-(B) (Gertrude Stein); 4-(A) (Old Man and The Sea).

Homestead Views Geologic Wonderland

PANGUITCH, Utah (UPI)— In 1875, Ebenezer Bryce, the first white man to homestead in the region of Bryce Canyon, now a national park, was asked what he thought of the two-mile by-three-mile geological wonderland.

"Well, it's a hell of a place to lose a cow," he said.

No Deficit Of Ideas For Big Budget Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State of California enjoyed a budget surplus of at least $256 million for the fiscal year that just ended but the politicians aren't suffering a deficit of ideas on how the money should be spent.

Controller Houston I. Flournoy attributed the cash surplus to a new state income tax withholding system and an upsurge in the economy. He also said Thursday the 1971-72 budget could be in the black by about $300 million when all the final figures are in.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, who returns today from a goodwill tour of Europe for President Nixon, has said he would like a large share of the surplus to go for a massive proposal to finance schools and provide property tax relief.

But if the Democratic controlled legislature fails to pass the $1.2 billion measure, then he will ask that the surplus be returned to taxpayers by reducing either state income or sales tax rates, according to a top Reagan administration official.

"The governor has no intention of building a huge state surplus at the expense of taxpayers who would be paying more than necessary for the cost of government," said Vernon Orr, director of the state Finance Department.

Meantime, Sen. George Moscone, a potential Democratic contestant for governor in 1974, said he "would not be in favor of sending any of the money back to taxpayers."

He said giving the cash back to taxpayers directly "lulls people into a false sense of security" and added that the surplus would be insignificant when spread over the state's 16 million taxpayers.

The San Francisco lawmaker noted that in 1969 when the state had a $309 million surplus the Reagan administration gave taxpayers a onetime tax break, but during the next two years the state suffered a deficit and was forced to increase tax rates.

Moscone said the money instead should be used to restore items vetoed by the governor for state employe pay raises and expansion of the Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) for college students from low-income families. If any cash was left over after vetoed items were restored, it should go toward school financing reform.

Other legislators suggested that the surplus be used for everything imaginable, ranging from raises for school teachers to paying off the state's $5.5 billion bonded debt.

The $256 million surplus was about $92 million more than forecast by the Reagan administration. The total 1971-72 California state budget was about $6.8 billion.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, another Democratic hopeful for the governorship, said the legislature should not do anything "silly or foolish" such as giving the surplus back to taxpayers without making certain no new tax increases would be needed "in the next four or five years."

Flournoy, a potential Republican candidate for governor, said the surplus should be used for correcting injustices in the property tax system that unfairly treat school children in low-wealth districts.

WATERED DOWN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A sweeping bill overhauling the state's industrial safety regulations has been amended in a Senate committee to remove the possibility that repeat safety violators could be sent to prison on felony charges.

Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, said Thursday he had to accept the amendments in order to secure the approval of the Senate Industrial Relations Committee. The proposal has already passed the Assembly.

The legislation grew out of stormy hearings earlier this year during which the Division of Industrial Safety was accused of being pro-employer and lax in enforcing safety standards.

CREMATION

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bereaved person would be allowed to keep the cremated ashes of loved ones on the mantel at home under a bill voted final legislative passage Thursday by the state Assembly.

Currently the only legal way in California to dispose of the cremated remains of a dead person is to scatter them at sea from an airplane or bury them in a cemetery.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, would allow a person to keep the ashes at home, in his garden or some other place "in keeping with public sensibilities."

TURNED BACK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Democratic Assemblyman condemned as an "outworn and senseless tradition" the policy of a private club that prevented her from attending a meeting of legislators in its dining room.

"I feel kind of sorry for the place," Assemblyman March K. Fong of Oakland said Thursday after the management of the Sutter Club in Sacramento had refused to let her enter the dining room.

When the incident occurred Wednesday, seven legislators with whom she was to meet during lunch walked out of the club in protest.

The club has a longstanding policy against admitting women before 5 p.m.

Mrs. Fong said she was surprised when she was turned away by the club's management although the same thing happened to her five years ago when the Assembly Education Committee of which she was a member met at the club.

SUBSTITUTE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill substituting life imprisonment without possibility of parole for crimes that have death as their penalty was rejected Thursday by the Assembly.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, said his measure was introduced because the U.S. and state Supreme Courts have left the state with four crimes which have no penalties.

Both courts have ruled against capital punishment.

But Cory fell 11 votes short of winning approval for his bill when it was defeated on a 30-38 vote. However, he kept the proposal alive by asking for reconsideration.

PAY APPEAL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says the state will appeal the Federal Pay Board's action that reduced pay raises averaging 7 per cent by almost one per cent for California's civil service employes.

"We will appeal," Reinecke said Thursday after being informed of the federal panel's decision to reduce the average pay increase from 7.9 per cent to an even 7 per cent.

"Because of the need of government to stay competitive, we feel our state employes are entitled to this," Reinecke said.

The decision—unless reversed when the Pay Board meets next month, means those civil servants scheduled for inequity and catchup raises over 5 per cent will lose 1 per cent of those budgeted increases.

Chief Deputy Finance Director James Dwight Jr. estimated the loss affects about 90 per cent of the state's 112,000 workers.

TO THE BALLOT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has allowed an earthquake safety measure for schools to be placed on the November ballot although he opposed the proposal.

Reinecke did not sign a bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, that was needed to put a proposed constitutional amendment before the voters in November.

But by not vetoing the measure, which would make it easier to repair or replace schools below earthquake safety standards, Reinecke allowed it to be put on the ballot.

"I decided not to sign this bill because my signature could be interpreted as approving something to which I am definitely opposed," Reinecke said Thursday in a prepared statement.

Lowly Bee Sting Can Turn Serious

Insect bites and bee stings are no more than temporary nuisances to most of us, but for the few who are allergic, they can be serious.

The New York Times reports that a few weeks ago, a man on Long Island was stung on his leg while cutting grass. Within minutes, he lapsed into a coma and was barely saved by a shot of adrenalin at the hospital.

Another woman, stung by an insect believed to be a yellow jacket, died before she could reach a hospital. Her admission to a hospital was delayed because, although she complained loudly, the family thought she was being unduly hysterical.

Marin has had its share of serious bee stings, where quick action saved the victims. A few have been fatal. The last that we can recall occurred in October of 1965 when a rear admiral, stung by a bee while chopping wood in Nicasio, died from the effects.

Dr. Harry Mueller of Harvard, chairman of the insect allergy committee of the American Academy of Allergy, and other allergy specialists, recommend that picnickers and hikers not go barefoot in areas where bees and yellow jackets may be nesting. Bright-colored clothing or leather goods and sweet smelling cosmetics, perfume, hair oil and suntan lotion also attract the insects.

Those who suffer a serious reaction to an insect sting should be protected beforehand by desensitization shots, said Dr. Mueller.

How does a person know he is overly sensitive to insect stings? Such a person gets a reaction in a part of the body other than the location of the bite, said the Harvard allergist. For example, if you are bitten on the hand and your face swells oryou get hives all over, or go into shock, that's when to call the doctor.

Even if the swelling is localized, if the swelling is extremely severe, medical aid should be sought, the doctor advised.

He said sensitivity to insects can develop over the years, which means that a person who had no unusual reaction from insect bites in the past can become allergic the next year.

Insect bites, particularly stings by yellow jackets, are not to be taken too lightly, particularly when the victim complains of unusual pain or extreme discomfort.

Special care should be exercised during these summer months when many of us go shirtless and barefoot.

Shakespeare Festival Open

Marin Shakespeare Festival, beginning its 12th season, will present "Romeo and Juliet" tomorrow night at Forest Meadows, Dominican College in San Rafael. Included in this year's repertory are "Romeo and Juliet", "Twelfth Night", and (from Aug. 5) "The Wizard of Oz." The season runs through Sept. 3, and season memberships are still available.

We wish the Shakespeare Festival another successful season, and look forward to a summer of delightful performances for which the group has become famous.

New Reform Proposition Could Bring More Chaos

By RUS WALTON

A bunch of the fellas in the state legislature have a proposition for you. They're going to put it to you on this November's ballot.

It's a proposition to change the way they do things in the State Senate and Assembly. The principal authors are Senators Fred Marler and James Mills and Assemblymen Bob Moretti and Bob Monagan. These are the big cheeses of both houses and both parties in Sacramento.

BASICALLY ACA 95 (which would become a ballot proposition upon passage by the two houses) would make several high-visibility changes:

The legislature would operate in two-year sessions, as the federal congress does now.

The veto session would be eliminated. Vetoed bills would be returned during regular sessions. If the legislature were in racess when the bill returned, the veto would be considered when the lawmakers reconvened.

In general all new laws would take effect on Jan. 1 of the year following passage. (Urgency measures — such as tax levies, election measures and appropriation bills — would take effect immediately.)

Bills introduced during the first year of a session would carry over to the second year if they had been passed by the house of origin.

NOT EVERY legislator is thrilled with ACA 95.

State Senator Lou Cusanovich, R-Sherman Oaks, thinks it's a bad proposition. "If adopted (it would) result in two years of chaos instead of the nine months of chaos we have now."

Cusanovich wants the legislature to keep the promises it made to the people back in 1966 before it goes grabbing more authority and more reforms.

In 1966, in return for legislators' promises of improved performance, the voters adopted Proposition 1-A. That created a "full-time" legislature and gave the lawmakers a considerable raise in pay (from $600 a month to $16,000 a year — which has since been upped to $19,200 plus expenses). The legislators were also given larger staffs and other goodies.

THE LEGISLATORS GOT what they wanted, but the citizens have not. And, it is interesting to note that the decline in public esteem for the legislature began after the passage of Prop. 1-A.

ACA 95 does little or nothing to correct many of the legislature's shortcomings. For one thing, it does nothing about absenteeism and lousy attendance records.

For another thing, it does nothing to force the lawmakers to quit fooling around at the beginning of each session. The way things are, time is wasted at the beginning of each session and thousands of bills are rammed through during the final hectic weeks.

THERE IS NOTHING about limiting the number of bills which could be introduced; no prohibition of duplicate bills.

There is no provision for opening up conference committees to the press and the public. That is especially important as regards the secret meetings on the annual state budget.

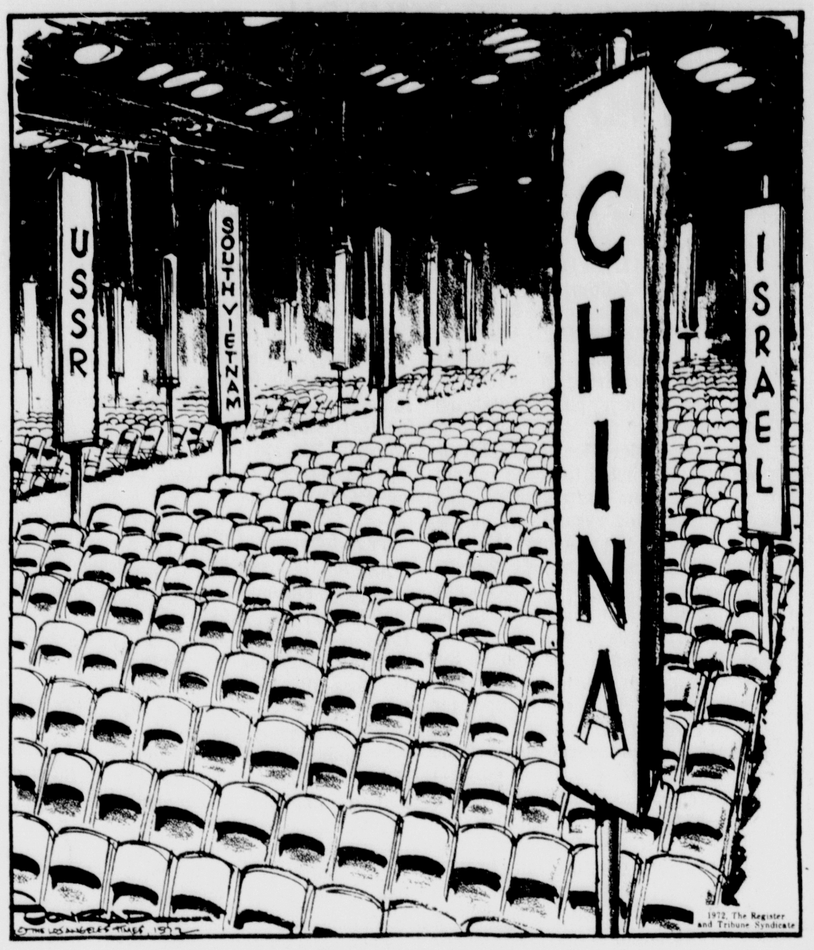

And further, as Cusanovich points out, more emphasis should be placed on eliminating "pride of authorship" and partisan hackery in relation to lawmaking.

"If we want to," commented Cusanovich, "we would consider legislation on the basis of its need — not its political effect."

The whole reform proposition falls way short of getting to some of the real failings of existing legislative practices.

But perhaps a reform bill cannot do that. Because what is needed is not only a reform of the system — but the legislators themselves.

Special Elections Add To Expense

School trustee Leo Souza of the Reed School District wants to close the Tiburon School to save money but sponsored a special election to elect another trustee.

Do these two specials save the taxpayers money?

San Rafael seems to have come to a sensible way of handling these added expenses by putting the measure on the November ballot.

Twenty-four thousand dollars is a small amount to gamble with as long as it's not out of one pocket. Cost of special election as quoted.

Congratulations San Rafael.

Ma Bell wins both ways.

My daughter sustained severe fractures in a car accident on the night of July 4. She had to be operated on and placed in a single traction. Even so she did not want to alarm her mother and sister and cut their visit short to her grandmother in Germany. (A letter would do.)

However, in a few days, she was placed in multi-traction. The pain and the discomfort and fear increased. She was in a crisis and like all of us at such a time, wanted her mother.

Grandma does not have a phone so I placed a call to the police of Schlitz Hessen, West Germany. I foresaw a language barrier looming up so I asked the operator if she could have an officer who spoke English on the phone. I was told that then the charge would be person to person. I gave up on that and waited, paying all the time for the six minutes until an English speaking officer could be brought to the phone.

Yes! Yes! Ma Bell wins both ways. More thumbs down.

Navy Not To Blame For Bridge Tieup

The audacity of General Manager Luehring of the Golden Gate Bridge District astonishes me. I do not believe the Navy was responsible for the premature closing of the two left hand toll gates on the bridge on Monday.

At 10:05 a.m. cars were as many as eight deep waiting to be cleared through the toll gates themselves while traffic was moving beyond the speed limit as soon as one was on the San Francisco side of the plaza. The two additional gates would have helped significantly in alleviating the congestion.

Luehring should make certain that he is doing all possible to move traffic quickly before he blames the Navy for what appears to be beyond its control.

There were six San Rafael citizens by name who were submitted and favored by PT&T Co. That any of these positions become open, be filled in their favor.

Mr. William H. Bennett, former member of the California Utilities Commission, said, "The practice was legal, but wrong."

General Lavelle Deserves Praise

RE: Forced Retirement of Air Force General John D. Lavelle.

Accordng to the facts as reported in Congressman John G. Schmitz news letter of July 5, 1972, the American people owe General Lavelle a debt of gratitude for his efforts in preventing a military victory by the North Vietnamese communists over South Vietnam. This information is based on testimony before a committee of the House of Representatives on June 12, 1972 last. Some of the facts revealed in this testimony are:

1. General Lavelle's aerial photo surveillance indicated a major enemy arms build up just two miles behind the line limiticg the area our pilots could attack.

2. The General ordered air strikes against this buildup to prevent a major offensive against South Vietnam and thereby causing the enemy to start his offensive a full two months before they were ready.

3. One side effect of this action was to cause 400 tanks to be left in Haiphong and unable to take part in the invasion.

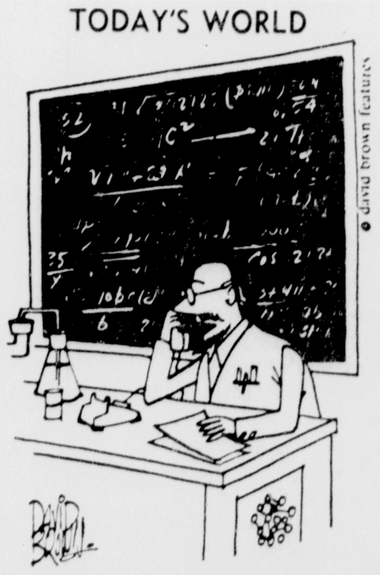

4. The General took the initiative to protect the troops in the field and for this brave action he was relieved of duty, demoted and retired by arm chair quarterbacks in Washington D.C.

In this writer's opinion, General Lavelle should have been commended by his superiors including the President and promoted. In addition, an aroused public should demand that the peace-niks and others in Washington that are responsible for this action should be tried for treason. The preservation of our constitutional Republic depends on it.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, July 21, the 203rd day of 1972 with 163 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

American author Ernest Hemingway was born on July 21, 1899.

On this day in history:

In 1861 the first major military engagement of the Civil War took place at Bull Run Creek in Virginia, about 35 miles southwest of Washington.

In 1873 outlaw Jesse James held up the Rock Island express at Adair, Iowa and escaped with $3,000.

Soviet Union And Red China Seem To Favor Nixon Victory

WASHINGTON — It is extraordinary that so many foreign governments are choosing up sides in the U.S. presidential election. Even though it violates traditional diplomacy, they are visibly anxious to see President Nixon re-elected.

It is more extraordinary that these governments, among the most powerful nations in the world, are of radically diverse ideology. They include two of America's historic adversaries, the Soviet Union and China, and two of our staunchest allies, Israel and West Germany.

And most extraordinary, three of these governments are openly taking action to help Nixon in the campaign. They have it within their power to influence events which couldgreatly benefit the President politically.

WEST GERMANY, though deeply worried about McGovern's plan to withdraw more than half the American troops in Western Europe, hesitates to make any overt move bearing on the Nixon-McGovern contest.

Israeli officials are letting it be known that they would like to see Nixon in the White House another four years. They are doing more than saying it quietly. Ambassador Rabin said it candidly on Israel's government radio a few weeks ago. Now Israeli spokesmen are passing the word to leaders of the American-Jewish community that they see Israel's security best served by the President's re-election.

They welcome Sen. McGovern's stronger words of support for Israel but they fear that McGovern's projected cuts in U.S. defenses would be perilous to Israel, and they prefer Nixon's deeds to McGovern's words.

THE INTEREST of Moscow and Peking in Nixon's re-election is equally evident. And they are doing something about it. If they succeed, it could ensure a Republican victory.

The evidence is that Russia and China are so desirous of being able to work with President Nixon during the next four years that they are seeking to bring about an end to the fighting in Vietnam before Nov. 7.

This has come increasingly into the open since the President visited Peking and Moscow.

NEITHER CHINA nor Russia took any action when the United States mined the North Vietnamese harbors to cut off supplies; that is, nothing adverse. Peking remained quiet and Moscow warmly welcomed Nixon to the Soviet capital.

After the Moscow summit, President Podgorny went to Hanoi to pass the word that the Soviets wanted the war to end and supported the U.S. proposal for an internationally supervised cease-fire.

Now, in the wake of the Podgorny visit, Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese Politboro member, has arrived in Paris suggesting secret talks with Henry Kissinger.

FROM THIS and other evidence Victor Zorza, the Communist affairs expert for the London Observer, makes the flat prediction:

"The resumed Paris talks will lead to the ending of the war before the presidential election in November. Moscow and Peking have made it clear to Hanoi that, unless they accept something like the terms they recommend, it is going to be left on its own —and the North Vietnamese leaders have finally taken the point."

Hanoi is thus confronted with a difficult and painful decision. It must either yield to the diplomatic pressure of its principal Communist allies for a negotiated settlement or risk carrying on the war with declining military aid.

The prospect is an end to the fighting in the visible future either by negotiation or by letting the war peter out.

GOP Claim They 'Had A Dream' Long Before McGovern Did

MIAMI BEACH — You are sitting with Nixon, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and friends, watching the predawn proceedings in Miami Beach while the midnight surf breaks against the cliffs below San Clemente.

Ted Kennedy has just introduced George McGovern. His appearance brought a nervous quietus to the listeners on the Pacific Coast. Tom Eagleton lifts McGovern's hand and holds it aloft by pure force in a victory stance. The Republicans look him over.

"Not as tall as either Connally or Agnew," says Haldeman. "Wonder how he is on the soft, flabby radiclib media," says Ehrlichman. "He could use a dab of No. 3 neutral pancake around the nostrils," says the President.

HUBERT HUMPHREY comes on beside the man who vanquished him. The West Coast observers sigh nostalgically. Edmund Muskie walks onto the Miami podium, then Shirley Chisholm and Terry Sanford, and they all stand around looking unified with the nominees.

Ehrlichman checks his watch. "Thank God," he murmurs. "Don't worry, Chief, only .0001 per cent of the audience east of the Colorado River is awake," says Haldeman. The President relaxes deeper into his chair as McGovern begins his acceptance speech.

The South Dakotan says a conciliatory word about Humphrey, Muskie, Jackson, Chisholm, Wilbur Mills, Sanford and Eugene McCarthy. The onlookers at San Clemente are stoic. Then McGovern talks about George Wallace's courage and prays for his recovery so he can "stand up and speak out forcefully."

"HEY, THAT'S not fair," says Ehrlichman. "That's our line," says Haldeman. "Tell Ziegler to put out another broadside against busing at his 10 a.m. briefing," orders the chief.

McGovern gets to the part about not underestimating "the power of Richard Nixon to bring harmony to Democratic ranks." Haldeman jumps up and says, "Mr. President, let me go out to the kitchen and get you a bowl of cottage cheese." Ehrlichman says, "Dwight, why don't you turn the channel and see what's happening between the Twins and the Sox?" They keep up this line of diversion while McGovern runs through the section about Mr. Nixon being the Democrats' "unwitting unifier" and plays back a rephrasing of the President's 1962 self-epitaph about not having Dick Nixon to kick around any more.

THE PRESIDENT cranes his neck back and forth trying to see around his aides as they dance in front of the tube. Finally he says, "Sit down!" and they do, just in time to hear McGovern mention ITT. "Has Kleindienst checked in with us today?" asks Mr. Nixon.

The instant analysis in the San Clemente living room adheres fairly closely to party lines while McGovern talks about stopping the bombing, withdrawing the troops, maintaining defenses, putting people to work and reforming taxes. "What's he want to pull them all out in 90 days for?" asks Ehrlichman. "It'll be four years before another election." "Tell Kissinger to come in here with his abacus," the President says.

"DID YOU NOTICE somebody cast a vote for Archie Bunker for Vice President?" Haldeman asked. "Check to see what the latest debugging report is from the Committee-to-Re-Elect," says Mr. Nixon. "It sounds like somebody's been leaking stuff from the contingency planning section again."

Suddenly McGovern approaches his coda. "Come home, America," he intones — from "secrecy and deception in high places . . . conflict in Indochina . . . entrenchment of special privilege . . . the waste of idle hands . . . the prejudice of race and sex . . . the loneliness of the aging poor . . . Come home to the affirmation that we have a dream . . . "

"NOW WAIT a minute," the President flares. "I stole that first. Don't your remember how I told them right there in that same hall at Miami Beach that I had a dream and all that?"

"Some people have no shame, Chief," Ehrlichman assures him. "Listen to him now," says Haldeman. "Now he's stealing from the Kennedys."

"Come home to the conviction that we can move our country forward," McGovern says. "Come home to the belief that we can seek a newer world." And then he recites from Woody Guthrie's "This Land Is Your Land."

"SOCIALISM!" the gasp rushes out over the Pacific cliffs. "Obviously a threat to end the free enterprise system," comes back an echo. "Clearly a subversive idea he picked up when he was supporting Henry Wallace back in '48," somebody suggests.

"Well, he's finished," says the chief. "Don't lose any more sleep over it. Remember, the best defense is a good offense, and you can't start working on that too early in the season. Before you turn in, tell Safire to get out his thesaurus and figure how many ways you can say 'Anybody who begs is a traitor' without really saying so."

Automobiles Take A Beating When They Ram These Trees

In the cartoon strip, "Peanuts", by Charles Schulz, Charley Brown has a kite-eating tree. Regardless of how hard he tries, the tree always sucks in his kite and eats it.

Novato has its car smashing trees. The main concentration of them is on the curve on South Novato Boulevard south of Stone Drive. No one can count the number of cars that have smashed into those trees since the 1924 vintage road was put in with the trees near the side of the road.

These trees bear the scars from countless collisions with cars, but the trees are much tougher than the cars and people in them. No one has kept score, but many people have been taken to the hospital and cars to the garage because of these car-catching trees.

RECENTLY THE City of Novato has undertaken to widen this curve. It will defnitely make the intersection a speedier one.

Unbelievable as it seems, the city widened the street up to two of the killer trees, then paved around them and then widened it again. This is the northbound lane of the curve.

Approaching the south bound portion of the curve is another such tree, scarred by the impact of many, many cars. The widened portion of the curve does not go around the tree, but very close to it.

THE DIFFERENCE is that this tree has a large branch sticking out over the street. The branch will not bother regular passenger cars, but trucks — look out.

Large trucks, if they get too close to the side of the street, will bang into the branch of the tree.

This is a tima when environmentalists are trying to save trees and open space. There is no argument against this in principle. But there comes a time when values must be equated.

WHICH IS the most important, a banged-up tree beside the street in the street right-of-way, or a human being?

If the city had gone ahead with the plans (available for nothing at the county road department at the civic center) and widened the street to four travel lanes with curbs, gutters and sidewalks, then the trees would have had to be taken out.

It will be interesting to see how many accidents must occur on the curve before the city finally removes these trees, which have been a menace for years.

THE NOVATO UNIFIED School District Board found itself in a rather unusual position the other night. It had all Indians and no chiefs.

The seven man board had a quorum of four members. However, the president, vice president and clerk were absent. After waiting 20 minutes for the president who said he would be late, the board elected Jan Murray as temporary president and Liz Mertel as temporary clerk.

President Ronald Schenck finally showed up and the meeting was turned over to him.

Burger Upholds District Court In Rollback Of Rail Scrap Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chief Justice Warren E. Burger cautioned federal courts Thursday against exercising their powers "loosely or casually" in an effort to protect the environment.

Burger made his statement in "reluctantly" refusing to overturn a three-judge U.S. District Court injunction which forced railroads to roll back a 2.5 per cent rate increase on scrap and other recycleable materials.

Burger said he doubted the correctness of the court's decision, but acting alone he would not order the rates reinstated pending further interstate commerce action and environmental impact studies.

"Our society and its governmental instrumentalities having been less than alert to the needs of our environment for generations, have now taken protective steps," Burger said in an opinion.

"These developments, however praiseworthy, should not lead courts to exercise equitable powers loosely or casually whenever a claim of 'environmental damage' is asserted.

"The world must go on and new environmental legislation must be carefully meshed with more traditional patterns of federal regulation. The decisional process for judges is one of balancing and it is often a most difficult task."

The ICC gave the railroads permission to raise all freight rates 2.5 per cent on Feb. 5, pending commission action on a request for a 4.1 per cent selective rate increase.

However, an environmental group called Students Challenging Regulatory Agency Proceeders (SCRAP) filed suit charging that the increase would discourage movement of recycleable goods. They also said the ICC failed to issue an environmental impact statement on the effect of the rate increase, which they said was required under the National Environmental Policy Act.

On July 10, a District of Columbia district court panel issued a preliminary injunction ordering the railroads to stop collecting the rate increase on recycleable products after July 15.

The ICC and the railroads appealed to Burger to stay the injunction.

Burger said the harm to the railroads and to the overall public interest "is immediate and direct. Badly needed revenues will be lost at once and there is little likelihood that they can be recouped."

"Unlike the District Court, I find it difficult to dismiss this certain loss of at least one and perhaps several millions of dollars simply because it is 'not overwhelming' relative to the total revenues to be derived from the surcharge."

But, he said, "not withstanding my doubts of the correctness of the action of the three judge district court ... acting alone, I incline toward deferring to their collective evaluation and balancing of the equities.

Paper Drive Due Next Week

The monthly paper collection of St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo will be held July 29.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Marin Regional Park Scheme Can Open Up A Can Of Worms

Last week I wrote of my knowledge of the area from Fort Baker, Tiburon and Belvedere north to Dillon Beach and the Town of Sonoma, gained while traveling to serve our customers starting 50 years ago. I said I would write of the wonderful scenes that came into view through the windshield of my Model T Ford. However, something I read in the Wednesday issue of the I-J startled me so that it seemed better to comment on its implications.

The behind the scenes of a national political convention doesn't have much on this attempt to set up this county-wide parks and recreation district.

We had better read this carefully a time or two and consider just what a can of worms it opens up to bore into our pocketbooks. — The heading: "Regional Park District In Marin Wins Support." The story from Sacramento: "A bill creating a regional park district in Marin County was endorsed by the Senate Local Government Committee with a key amendment."

"The bill AB 2353 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, went to the upper house floor for passage. Because of the amendment, it will have to go back to the Assembly for concurrence.

"The amendment, asked by the state Parks and Recreation Department, requires (now watch this) that any tax revenue expended by the district be spent only to buy new land and develop newly acquired property. Bagley, who introduced the bi ll, said it would prevent spending the new revenue on current operations."

If the scrambling that is going on is a deliberate attempt to mislead or not, it certainly is developing a pretty smooth camouflage — First it was to be a parks and recreation district, then open space was tied on. The headings of most of the news items read "County Park Plan." When one reads along it becomes "acquisition of open space."

The way the bill is being handled at Sacramento, the end result will be that you will be paying twice a la the $700,000 the supervisors locked into the budget a couple of weeks back.

A friend of mine telephoned and said he had some business to take care of down Tiburon way and would I like to take a ride? Needless to say the answer was yes indeed, thank you. He asked me if there was anything I would like to see on the way down. There was.

We turned left at the Ross City Hall and drove along to the Ross boundary and turned left onto Makin Grade. . .delightful homes in lovely grounds all the way as we traveled up the hillside and around over to the joining with Wolfe Grade.

That Del Mesa was developed after we came here half a century ago. Did it spoil or deface the hills there? Take a ride yourself someday. The answer is on every side. The same thing is true of Kent-Woodlands. That was a family enclave when we came —a big one reaching over to the ocean. (Now about 17 subdivisions.) Has it been spoiled?

Sierra Club Boss Answers Nader

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Sierra Club's executive director is rejecting criticism by consumer advocate Ralph Nader and denying the conservationist organization is near its demise.

"The Sierra Club is not only alive and well, it is flourishing," director Michael McCloskey said Tuesday in a statement.

"It continues to fight and win battles against despoilers of the environment and its membership continues to grow."

McCloskey denied Nader's suggestion that the club was a front of big business and said it "has never been fighting on more fronts."

Canton: The Revolution Incarnated

China's 'Disneyland And Tivoli'

By JONATHAN UNGER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CANTON, China — Canton's Cultural Park is the Disneyland and Tivoli of China.

On an average autumn or spring evening, 20,000 Cantonese out for fun pay three cents each to pass through its gates.

But this is an amusement world with a big difference. For this is Mao's China. What Cultural Park offers is what the "cultural" in "cultural revolution" is all about.

The followers of Mao had charged that pre-cultural revolution Chinese literature and drama were the domain of intellectuals who wrote for other intellectuals.

It was claimed that artistic works had been attempts to promote the idea of individual "genius": on the one hand inducing intellectuals to feel superior to the masses, and on the other divorcing China's modern art forms from the semiliterate common man.

Everything at Canton's Cultural Park is easy to understand, even for foreigners. Themes invariably concern heroic hardships and eventual triumph in the Chinese revolution.

Scripts are all written collectively, not by single eminent authors. The productions themselves have been taken out of the hands of professionals and given over to the hundreds and perhaps thousands of amateur groups Canton has sprouted in recent years.

Only a half-dozen full-length plays, ballets, and operas since the cultural revolution have received Peking's official approval. Repeated excerpts from this slim repertoire compose the meat and potatoes of Cultural Park's fare.

But the crowds seem to love it. The most popular of Cultural Park's museums is devoted to bigger-than-life statues of the six new theatricals' revolutionary heroes, and the crowds jam Cultural Park nightly to see live performances of the same themes and tunes they had already enjoyed a half-dozen or more times in the movie versions.

At one giant outdoor theater a troupe of transport workers was offering a rousing, if imperfect, interpretation of "The Red Detachment of Women" ballet, about a servant girl's adventures in a Communist women's rifle company during the civil war against Chiang Kai-shek.

The audience, packed with kids, roared approval when the ballerina heroine successfully navigated several difficult leaps. There was all the camaraderie of an enjoyable small-town theatrical, and the crowd shared acutely the discomfort of a bit player who tripped over his own feet and fell off the stage.

A young mechanic, arms flailing wildly, next banged out some fast-tempoed "revolutionary tunes" on a set of ingeniously converted auto fenders, winning yelps from the youngsters.

Within minutes, the kids were fidgeting uncomfortably while their parents warmly applauded a group of cherubic 6-uear-olds from a suburban children's place. These young prodigies were performing a popular skit from a "revolutionary Peking opera" with all the exquisitely exaggerated mannerisms of their elders.

Cultural Park's sports are in tune with the amateur theatricals. At the park's table tennis arena, down a maze of grassy walks and past the ferris wheel and rocket ride, several hundred spectators were watching a championship competition between the amateur teams of two suburban districts.

Next door in the basketball stadium, squads of women teachers from two of Canton's school districts were doing oncourt battle, cheered on by several thousand fans.

The museums at Cultural Park, strewn through the downtown amusement grounds, provide Chinese visitors with lessons in Maoist values.

Art has been a neglected stepchild of postcultural revolution China, with much of the output conforming to Russia's vapid social-realism style. Yet one of Cultural Park's seven museums boasts an exact replica of the masterpiece of Chinese revolutionary art: the Rent Collection Courtyard tableaux of Szechuan Province.

Devised during the cultural revolution by a collective of unnamed art workers, it employs more than 100 life-size clay figures in six separate scenes to relate a simple story of the rents levied against the tenants of wealthy landlord Liu Wen-tsai. The original works stand in the rent courtyard of one of Liu's former mansions.

With unexpected effectiveness, the statues depict an allegedly true tale of malnourished families parting with the greater portion of their crop, of little girls taken forcibly into concubinage, of young men dragged off into a warlord's army because they could not fulfill an exorbitant rent.

In the last sequence, 1949, Lin Piao's Red Army having reached Szechuan, master Liu and his strongarm men are brought down by an enraged peasantry.

Nixon Support

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (UPI) —Mayor Jack D. Maltester, a life-long Democrat and a past president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said Thursday he supports the re-election of President Nixon because he's "doing a tremendous job."

Senate Refuses Moratorium On School Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate deciding that it "might be doing more damage than good," voted 53-38 Thursday to kill a proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing of children to achieve school desegregation.

The measure was offered by Sen. David Gambrell, D-Ga., as an amendment to the minimum wage bill.

The Senate refused to approve the moratorium after hearing Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., say the busing issue has "merit on both sides" but it was not "the time or the place" to resolve the controversy.

"Whatever, the result may be," Pastore said, "we might be doing more damage than good."

Four Months In Jail Given In Fraud Case

A college student from San Rafael has been sentenced to four months in Marin County Jail for welfare fraud.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court also placed Herbert Cosme, 23, on probation for three years and ordered him to repay $747 in welfare overpayments he received last year.

Cosme was found guilty June 16 by a Marin jury of fraudulently reporting his family's income to to obtain welfare in Marin. Cosme reported his own income from a part-time job, but not his wife's salary of more than $400 a month, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams.

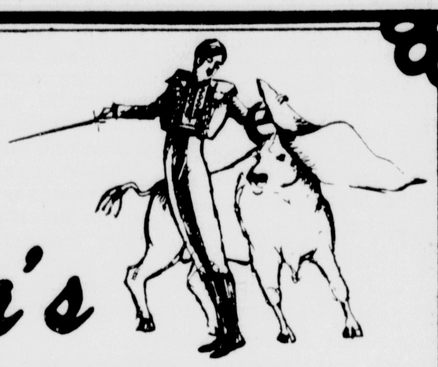

Cut off in May 1971 after five months of benefits, Cosme allegedly enrolled for welfare in San Francisco and received payments there until October. He has been charged in San Francisco as well as Marin.

Cosme was a student of physical education at San Francisco State College, and living in Greenbrae when the offense occurred.

Romantic Music Program Sunday

Pianist Gary Graffman will present a program of predominantly romantic music in the Marin Music Chest's second program in its summer series Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The works will be the Schumann Sonata in G Minor, Opus 22; Beethoven Sonata in C Minor, Opus 111, and three Chopin pieces — Sonata in B Flat Minor, Opus 35; Prelude in D Flat Major, Opus 28, and Scherzo in B Flat Minor, Opus 31.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Northgate's Lin Fa Gardens Features A Representative Menu

Undoubtedly there are some people who do not go for Chinese food the way I do, but I have yet to run across more than one or two at long intervals.

The Chinese are admittedly among the world's finest cooks. But the point is that once they have learned the American's favorite dishes they can also turn out these with the best. I expect that it is much like this in any country where they settle.

Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate, for example, with all its savory sesame chicken, sweet and sour spareribs, won ton, chow mein, egg rolls, curries or beef with oyster sauce, is quite capable of producing those dishes which are the mainstay of the American diet — and does.

Steaks, chops, fried chicken, abalone steak are all represented, as are a number of other selections. Among the latter, check out the chef's American style specials. These are very reasonably priced and served throughout the week — broiled steak or sauteed chicken livers on Mondays, veal cutlet or barbecued chicken on Tuesdays, roast beef or chicken fricasse on Wednesdays, good old corned beef and cabbage on Thursdays, or roast turkey; a combination seafood plate or fried chicken on Fridays and prime rib on Saturdays and Sundays.

No need for parties who are split on their menu preferences to force Chinese food on their friends. Think of Lin Fa as a place to go for eastern or western fare. It's something to keep in mind when you do your night time Northgate shopping.

I RECENTLY SPECULATED in this column on the whereabouts of former Marin chef and restaurant owner Maurice Guridi.

Since then I have heard from his daughter, that he is indeed living in Mexico — at Rosarita Beach, to be exact. He is now recovering from a kidney operation. Otherwise he appears to be in good health, in spite of his years.

WHAT WOULD you call this — salmon Westinghouse?

I have it from Mary Zatman, who used to wait tables for her parents Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert at Gregory's restaurant in Corte Madera, that there is just one way to prepare salmon properly.

According to Mary, now working at the Black Forest in Santa Rosa and as full of recipes as a cookbook, the fish should be wrapped in foil and popped into the electric dishwasher. After the full cycle, voila! It's perfectly cooked.

No, I don't think the Black Forest prepares it that way.

SPEAKING OF THE SEUBERTS, now associated with the Noyo River Inn near Fort Brgg, this restaurant did a land office business during last week's heat wave. The migration to the north coast from sweltering counties like Marin was terrific, and as you might suspect, included the Crafts.

LOOKING FOR a new reasonable spot to eat?

Try Howard Johnson's restaurant on Shoreline Highway in Southern Marin. There was a long interiude between its start and completion, but the place is undoubtedly attractive and there's something special on the menu ech day.

Go first for breakfast or lunch and I'm sure you'll be back for dinner. Hours are long — from 6 a.m. to 1 a.m. during the week and to 2 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

LE CAMEMBERT, also on Shoreline Highway, now has air conditioning, which can be a blessing even in Southern Marin where the breezes are usually cool in the evening.

This restaurant has not yet acquired its on sale general liquor license, but it has been posted and should appear soon. Meanwhile, there is a fine selection of wines.

WORD FROM Skip Sommer at Lark Creek Inn in Larkspur is that work will soon start on the brick patio overlooking the adjacent creek. Outdoor tables will be located there for fair weather meal enjoyment.

PLANNED TO OPEN in about three weeks is Moose's Meals and Meats, at 1574 Fourth Street, San Rafael, where Chicken Delight used to be.

Principal in the operation, which will be of the self-service type, will be Thomas H. (Moose) Cavanaugh, formerly of San Francisco, who intends to have a menu of sandwiches and some hot foods. Hours will probably be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the possibility of later hours on Wednesday and Friday nights.

An application has been made for a license to serve wine and beer.

Moose (this is a nickname that goes back to his boyhood) has not been in the restaurant business previously — but almost. He's had delicatessen experience and is well acquainted with foods.

CHRIS GARTMAN, owner and operator of the popular Hick'ry Pit restaurant in Strawberry Town and Country Village, is observing a centennial this month — celebrating, of all things, the end of a war.

Marin Dining And Wining

It was called the Pig War, and if you never heard of it (I never did either) it was applied to an altercation between the United States and Canada that went on for 13 years. As far as Chris has been able to determine, the only casualty was a pig killed by an American settler in the San Juan Islands, who found it raiding his potato patch and was requested by the Hudson Bay Co. to fork up $100.

Actually the killing was only an incident which sparked a dispute over sovereignty of the islands which had been omitted from consideration between the British and Americans in their Treaty of 1846.

The American eventually got the islands, but I don't know if the Hudson Bay Co. got its $100 for the pig. And I am not exactly sure what all this has to do with a restaurant in Strawberry. But Chris thinks it does and this month he's serving the best barbecues he can produce in ham, pork and ribs to honor the event. You may as well join him.

IF YOU ARE a calorie counter, before you look at the menu, there's a rule of thumb that each degree of proof in an alcoholic beverage equals one calorie per ounce.

That can mean up to 100 calories per jigger of vodka, gin or whiskey — more if the bartender's hand slips in the pouring, which it often does.

Nutritionists say the average male should limit himself to 2,900 calories a day; a woman about 2,100. So don't consume a big chunk of your dinner allotment before you even start eating.

STEVE CORLEY HAS BEEN CALLED . . .

(B.) A well-noted performer?
(C.) A sound man to have around?
(D.) Chairman of the keyboard?
(E.) All of the above?

The answer is (E.). Come find out why. Come visit the Chez Pierre — any Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday — from eight til the lights go out. Sample the Steve Corley style of sound: It's cool, sharp, bright, bold, delicious, danceable . . . and all of the above. Because, above all, it's by Steve Corley.

IRMA GRANLEY operates the Goodwill Industries telephone answering service from her home in Tiburon. She receives more than 50 telephone calls daily and arranges all pickups of donated items in Southern Marin.

By PAT BALMES

"It makes you feel good to see things used. In America we are too casual about throwing things away, we squander things," said Irma Granley of Goodwill Industries.

Crippled by polio since childhood, Mrs. David Granley for the past two years has operated Goodwill's telephone answering service in her Tiburon home. She arranges all the pickups of donated items in Southern Marin.

The phone rings 50 to 60 times a day in her small study furnished with office equipment from Goodwill shops. And when she must go out, a recording machine takes callers' numbers. Later the same day she returns calls and arranges pickups.

Besides helping employ the handicapped in repairing and selling goods, Irma said she gives public service. Hating to see anything wasted, she calls Marin facilities which might use items Goodwill cannot handle.

A swing set, too large for Goodwill, went to a church for its nursery school.

A CALLER offered his refrigerator, and the meat in its freezer, to Goodwill. Irma suggested he give the meat to Family Mix.

She urges people to give magazines to hospitals or senior citizens.

And Irma does some "handholding" over the phone, she said, as people part with treasured furniture when they break up a household or possessions of a deceased relative.

Some callers like to chat, and they become friends as people call back when they decide to part with one treasure after another.

Amused, Irma related that a woman called to say she found the belt for a dress she recently gave Goodwill.

"She didn't realize what a mountain of things had come into the San Francisco plant in the meantime," she said.

"I think everything that ever existed comes through Goodwill," said Irma, mentioning a 1907 telephone book with a section printed in Chinese. An endless variety goes to Goodwill's five-story building in San Francisco where goods are repaired, sorted, priced and sold by more than 300 handicapped workers.

"FOR MANY it is home; so many live in furnished rooms. Goodwill is their life," she said.

The handicapped receive rehabilitation through Goodwill's on-the-job training. Some can go into other industries later. For many it is their first experience with the self-discipline of working all day.

They learn to repair small electrical appliances, televisions, furniture and refurbish clothing. They are trained in stock work, sorting and pricing in the collections department and in selling in the "Shop of the Unusual," and the furniture and clothing stores at the San Francisco plant and five other Bay Area stores. The Goodwill store in Marinis at 1920 Fourth Street in San Rafael.

Mrs. Granley, wearing a crisp flowered blouse and yellow slacks from Goodwill, pointed out several art objects in her living room which she discovered at Goodwill.

"It's an excitingplace to shop," she said. "Everything is in style these days, even antiques. People like to buy at flea markets and second-hand shops. They are finding new things' prices too high and workmanship too poor."

Despite difficulty walking, Mrs. Granley leads a busy life. She and her husband take weekend trips in their large camper. They have a married daughter in Calgary, Canada, and a son living in Forest Knolls. Mrs. Granley also nurses a bedridden uncle in her home.

LESS LIMITED when she was younger, she worked for the Vocational Adjustment Bureau in New York City doing psychological testing, guidance and vocational placement of mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed girls and women.

Next she became secretary to J. Willis Hershey of Goodwill Industries in New York City. It was her last job before starting her family.

"Twenty-one years and 3,000 miles intervened, but now I am back working for him in San Francisco, where he is director of the whole Goodwill operation," she said.

Six years ago Mrs. Granley became his secretary again, but finding commuting difficult she decided to work at home when the telephone answering job became available.

ON THE AGENDA

4-M Sheriff Mounted Patrol 'Barn' Rummage Is Tomorrow

The 4-M Sheriff Mounted Patrol of Marin County will sponsor an old fashioned "barn" rummae sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow, at the Leisure Acres Ranch, 1831 Indian Valley Road in Novato.

The sale will be held in a large hay barn and will feature some items from the year 1900. Hundreds of items of clothing, furniture, books, toys, kitchen and other household items will be on sale.

The 4-M Sheriff Mounted Patrol is a group of deputized women who help to maintain horse trails. A non-profit organization, the women are members of the California State Horsemens' Association and take an active part in the Region one, Junior Horsemastership program for California. Carol de la Montanya is the captain.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION of University Women has selected July 28 as its night at the Marin Shakespeare Festival at Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus.

AAUW members and their guests will see a production of Romeo and Juliet, which begins at 8:30 p.m. Box suppers will be served to the group in Forest Meadows Park at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. William Epstein of San Rafael is reservations chairman for both the box suppers and theater tickets.

THIS SUNDAY, members of "Hi-Hopes of Marin" will mix business with pleasure at a pool-side party, as they put together their final "game plan" for the sixth annual Golden Gate Concours d'Elegance.

One of three sponsoring groups for this major fund raising event, the Marin Chapter for the City of Hope Pilot Medical Center will meet at the San Rafael home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Firestone to finalize plans for this sanctioned Sports Car Club of American presentation. To be held at the Presidio of San Francisco in August, the concours will present approximately 100 sports, antique, classic and vintage motor cars at the Presidio, and weather permitting, a "fly-in" and display of antique and experimental aeroplanes at nearby Crissy Army Airfield.

Other sponsors and benefactors of this year's concours are the Marin Aid to Retarded Children Group, and the Presidio Women's Club Welfare Fund.

Singers Pick New Slate Of Officers

The Marin Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., has a new president. She is Mrs. William F. Barnes of San Anselmo, who has belonged to the organization for 12 years.

Mrs. Barnes has been vice president, historian, parliamentarian, and bulletin editor for the singers who contribute their talents for civic, fraternal, social and charitable organizations in Marin. A Barbershop-style fashion show is planned for Oct. 7.

Women interested in singing Barbershop harmony may become members.

The new president is a native San Franciscan. She and her husband, a postal clerk, have lived in Marin County for 15 years. Their children are Patty, 14, Peggy, 13, Joe, 11, Mike, 8, Lisa, 6, and Kerry, 4.

Her hobbies are writing poetry, music of all kinds, anthropology, and reading.

An Experiment In Recycling Of Milk Cartons

Housewives are returning milk cartons to a corporation in Denver at the rate of 4.5 tons a week. This recycling program is an area test to determine whether milk carton recycling would be feasible on a national level.

The major obstacle in the program is the high cost of labor involved in sorting non-recyclable material, also tossed in the collection containers, from the recyclable milk cartons.

Hopefully, this problem will be solved by educating the public to the costly technical recycling process.

MRS. SHIRLEY Shepley is being installed president of Fairfax Parlor 225, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Burgar Hall of the Fairfax Community Church.

Bernice Treleven is chairman, and installing officer is Mrs. Mary May of San Rafael, deputy of Marinita Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

One Place Where Horatio Alger Is Not Very Popular

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW CANAAN, Conn. (UPI) —Horatio Alger, an all-American hero, left a great ethic — work hard, give it all you have and you can get to be President.

"It just ain't so," says Dr. Charles P. Neumann, medical director of Silver Hill Foundation, a private psychiatric hospital in New Canaan. In the area it's known as the Gold Coast hospital. Its patients, who are called "guests" include celebrities and, more and more, corporate executives who are alcoholics. Some are there because they swallowed Alger's words —hook, line and sinker.

For the past seven years, Dr. Neumann and his associates have been dealing with the emotional and physical wreckage inflicted on many trying to follow Alger's edict. Many have made it to president of their companies or close to that high rank -only to be felled in a battle with booze, self-administered medication to mask all kinds of feelings.

WHAT IS unusual about Silver Hill: all admissions are voluntary and there are no locks. Dr. Neumann thinks voluntary admissions have a lot to do with the success Silver Hill has had in the treatment of alcoholics.

Four hundred have gone through the treatment, which includes psychotherapy. One out of two over the last seven years had managed to be free of alcoholism. That is a cure rate of 50 per cent —compared to the usual 20 or 30 per cent.

Experience with the corporate executive and other upper class alcoholics at Silver Hill has led Dr. Neumann and his associates to this belief:

Despite the differences in wealth and position, the upper-class alcoholic generally drinks for the same reasons as his less affluent brethren. Case after case illustrates how affluence and high position are no buffer against feelings of inadequacy, dependency problems, anxiety, depression, loneliness, rage, repressed sexuality and the multiplicity of dynamics evident in the drinking of upper-class alcoholics.

In one report of 32 corporate alcoholics, mean age 51, Dr. Neumann and his co-workers noted that the problem drinking had been maintained about 10 years before treatment became mandatory for survival.

NEXT QUESTION: How can a man who is functioning in a high level of a corporation, perhaps in the presidency itself, carry on his duties and conceal his alcoholism?

One answer: in the corporate world the acceptance of heavy drinking may maintain and worsen the problem while postponing early detection.

Fordham Professor Says Nurses Are Masculine Mystique Victims

"Nurses are victims of the masculine mystique in medicine," a Fordham University sociology professor has charged.

"They are trained to think like doctors but they often end up with a bedpan in their hands," asserted Dr. Judith Lorber.

"They're caught in the middle — translating the doctor's instructions to the patient while also trying to explain the patient's needs to the doctor," she stated. "They're supposed to act like wives to doctors, but they're not supposed to mother their patients.

"Nurses," continued the professor, "are hamstrung by three restraints: specific legal limits to their authority, lack of respect for their judgment and a professional ethic that forbids them to divulge to the patient any serious medical facts about his or her case. The nurse must tell the patient to discuss all medical questions with the doctor, yet. . .she knows that most physicians avoid emotional confrontations with their patients at all costs."

Medical Center Talks Of Phobias

Common phobias of human beings include fear of household pets such as cats and dogs, agoraphobia (fear of open spaces), claustrophobia (fear of enclosed places), and arophobia (fear of heights).

Phobias are usually treated with psychotherapy, "with varying degrees of effectiveness", according to Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center in Long Island, N.Y.

To prove that certain phobias can best be alleviated by medication and psychotherapy, the Center is starting a treatment program funded by a grant from The National Institute of Mental Health.

Freedom On Films Is Urged

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — In the first of his regular monthly question-and-answer columns for McCall's magazine, Dr. Lee Salk, Director of Pediatric Psychology at New York Hospital - Cornell Medical Center, advised one mother to use restraint in censoring the movies her teenage daughter selects and encourages another to invite an elderly parent to join her household.

Dr. Salk, whose book, "What Every Child Would Like His Parents To Know," stressed the importance of preventive psychiatry and a secure emotional climate at home, believes parents should listen to their children as well as the other way around and provide firm, not dictatorial guidance.

In the case of movie censorship, Dr. Salk suggested that if parents object to a particular film, they should "offer an alternative choice. If you take a very strong stand against the film you can make it seem more intriguing than it really is and motivate the young people to see it out of defiance. . .let your feelings be known, but without insisting they be followed."

To a woman who wondered if bringing her recently widowed mother to live with her will strain family relationship too much, Dr. Salk's advice is to try what could be "a very sensitizing and gratifying experience for you and your children."

Lynda Johnson Robb — 'Stew' For A Day

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Lynda Johnson Robb yesterday revealed that, "disguised" only in a wig, she worked as a stewardess for a day on a cross-country 747 luxury liner flight to obtain background for a magazine article.

The daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson stated in the August issue of Ladies' Home Journal that only one couple recognized her though "I served drinks and food, hung up coats . . . and performed all the other airborne duties expected of a stewardess."

Mrs. Robb said she spent three days of "condensed, intensive training" at the American Airlines Flight Services College in Dallas and then "became stewardess for a day" on American Flight 76 from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C., this spring.

According to Mrs. Robb, only one couple recognized her. However, she stated, a student "did ask me, 'Aren't you Lady Bird?' I looked him straight in the eye and answered, 'No, I'm not. But I've been told I resemble her'."

IN HER ARTICLE, Mrs. Robb debunked rumors that passengers make frequent passes at stewardesses.

"My panel of seemingly frank girls could not recall even one time when they had been pinched, patted or seriously propositioned," she said.

"From now on, when I fly, I'll look at flight attendants — male and female — with new respect. And I'll probably argue with those who say that it's a demeaning, routine job," she said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Action Line Editors Have Their Share Of Zany Letters, Too. . .

DEAR READERS:

"Agony dames" aren't the only ones who get zany letters. Action Line editors — those local factfinders who help "righten" the lives of wronged subscribers — receive their share too.

Here, thanks to Pat Fenner of the St. Petersburg, (Fla.) Evening Independent, is a compilation of some of the more bizarre questions sent to Action Line editors throughout the country in recent months:

My wife is an extremely poor housekeeper and now she's trying to divorce me. I want you to send a photographer out here to get some pictures of her poor housekeeping. The sooner the better. . . .

Our father is getting along and insists that we bury him in the back yard. Please help. . . .

I called the dog catcher six times before he came. He picked up my dog and left all the strays.

Is it true that when a person is over 50 the police do not bother to look for them?

You are always picking on landlords. This is unfair to landlords like me who have to put up with a great deal from no-good, rotten, low-life tenants. If you lived in my apartment building, I would evict you.

Please inform me how to get my valuable papers, deeds, etc., out of my wife's possession. She has them in her room with the door locked all the time. If you call, don't give any information to my wife. . . .

I sent a pair of hot pants to my laundry and they came back burned.

I'm 64 years old and would like to know if there's a chance of me getting diaper rash.

My wife and I went on our honeymoon to Nassau. When we got there my wife's luggage was missing. All she had was a tote bag with three pairs of shoes. Needless to say, the first three days of our honeymoon weren't a success as all she did was cry about her lost clothes. We think the airlines should not only pay for the clothes but also for three days of lost honeymoon which never can be recaptured.

I was picked up on the sidewalk by two police officers and they charged me with causing a turmoil. How could I cause a turmoil while sleeping?

They said they would loan you money even if you didn't have any credit. I don't have any credp so I went down there. Then they come up with this thing about having to have a steady job. I think it's false advertising.

I have a worn out television and I would like to give it to some needy family.

I use a lot of bacon for my family and save all the drippings. I use them only to saute onions and liver. Is there anyone who can use them?

Is it cheaper to have a child adopt a parent than the other way around?

I sent away for two pairs of lady's hose. Instead they sent me a hose attachment for a sink faucet. . . .

For years we have jokingly used as a conversation opener the question: What do you think about the price of eggs in China? Now we are beginning to wonder what the price really is.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

ON BEING BLACK

Blacks And Politics— Check Out Both Parties

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

"Well, I've just always been a Democrat—when I vote. Politicians are all crooks, and one is just the same as another. But like all black folks I'm a Democrat. The conventions this year look like a picnic to me. I don't see what they're accomplishing."

The 60-year-old black man expressed some common political attitudes held by many blacks — blind adherence to one party and the idea that the political arena is too difficult to understand and/or not worthy of involvement.

In a presidential election year, even those blacks who wish not to be political are caught up in the mechanics of our two-party political system. But you have no choice — you must be political if you care about what is happening to yourself, your family and your neighbors. Politics is the white American way, and for our survival it had better become the black American way.

Traditionally and historically, if and when blacks could vote, they've supported the Democratic Party. The Democrats have had many years of almost solid black support and many years to execute many promises, though still much in the way of black rights remains long-sung but undone.

BEING A black is so synonymous with being a Democrat that those dissatisfied with the Democrats have had severe emotional difficulty retreating from the party, something almost equated with an abandonment of the black race.

Said one well-known black Republican, "Upon examination, I was impressed with many of the things the Nixon Administration has done with regard to blacks, such as the increases in minority enterprise, educational grants and the record number of black appointees.

"But, I thought, my God, can I stand up before black people and announce that I'm a card-carrying Republican? It's like admitting to being a Martian. But this was purely a conditioned response. The basic premise has been that blacks who are for blacks are Democrats," he said.

Admittedly and unfortunately, far too many of us blacks are still politically naive. The arena looks formidable and complicated, but as one gets involved it becomes clear that the only complications are the fancy-sounding names that have been attached to fairly simple and mundane maneuvers, such as electoral college for "wheelin' and dealin'," patronage for "jobs" and concessions for "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." Even folk like us understand these tactics without looking in the dictionary for their meaning.

The notion once held by some younger, more militant blacks — that our system should be overhauled by total and immediate sabotage — is almost totally extinguished, so working within the system is gaining momentum. Like white luminaries, well-known blacks are now lending their names and support to political candidates.

Today, with divergent black views on the ways of bringing about desired changes, it is patently clear that one party cannot be all things to all blacks. Like all whites, all blacks can't and shouldn't be members of any one party.

IN ADDITION to admittedly black Republicans, there are now the Black Democrats for the Re-Election of Nixon. These folks are impressed with certain demonstrated deeds of the Nixon Administration with regard to blacks. And what better, more comfortable verbal vehicle to attract and entice black Democrats toward the Republican Party?

Traditional party labels also have contributed to black adherence to the Democratic Party. The Demos were always called the liberals and somehow it evolved that only liberals could like and/tolerate black people. Consequently, we blacks felt we had to stick with these particular whites.

The Republicans, on the other hand, have been labeled the conservatives — to blacks, the word conservative meant folks who wanted things to remain the same. In our case, "they" wanted blacks to remain in subservient, substandard, subcitizenship positions. But the word conservative means other things.

Some blacks are now saying, if you really want a job done, give it a disciplined conservative — a liberal may or may not show up for the job (based upon some progressive, permissive logic.)

Blacks, having been disenfranchised citizens for so long, must persist in their concern with civil rights, housing, jobs and the like. But jobs and concessions are brought about politically or not at all. If one party is not doing the job, the other should be checked out. The days of blind political affiliation are on the way out.

Then do it. Vote.

Valentino: Women's Pants Have Had It

ROME (UPI) — Valentino says pants for women are passe.

He said it when he closed out the Italian high fashion shows for fall and winter Wednesday night with a collection that included not one single pair of trousers.

What women will say remains to be seen. Many of them have taken pantsuits to their hearts with such fervor over the past years that designers now reckon trousers as part of the "classic" fashion scene.

Every fashion house in town scuttled back to the classic look in clothes this week, frightened into conservatism by steadily falling sales in the garment trade.

EVERY HOUSE but Valentino included a generous number of trousers along with the tailored suits and dressed, dolman sleeved, revamped sweaters, little black cocktail dresses, dyed fox coat collars and Eisenhower jackets or everything from knits to orange mink which marked the new season.

Twenty-five years ago Christian Dior made the whole world nip in its waists and lower its hemlines when he introduced his "new look" in Paris.

The days of the fashion dictator have gone into a deathlike decline in the succeeding quarter century. Whether Valentino can enforce his no pants edict is a question that will be debated in the fitting rooms but decided on the streets.

Putting the pants question aside—if such can be done—the Italian fashion scene shapes up like this :

Skirts outnumber pants, and stay just where they were before, at the knee. The general trend is to slimmer skirts, some even pencil slim.

Suits abound. Most of them have jackets sharply marked at the waist by narrow belts. They team with blouses which have flowing sleeves and long, tight cuffs. Or they are worn with sweaters which are many and varied but always textured or patterned. The return to the classic did not include a return to the classic smooth-surfaced pullover and cardigan sets.

THE LITTLE black dress is back for cocktail time, in slinky velvet, crepe or satin, or in pleated shirtwaist chiffon with big bows at the neck.

Long evening gowns come, slim —if there is fullness it is controlled and not extravagant. Some are sleeveless and backless but even here, the shirtwaist look is king.

The Eisenhower jacket is everywhere, as part of a suit, pantsuit, or as a separate to be worn over any old thing.

Coats look like a big sale item for winter, with stores reporting women who waited out the hemline fuss finally are replacing their old toppers. The variety offered is infinite but the overall look is slimmer than last season. Even classic trench coats have skirts that are less full.

Self-sashed coats in melton cloth or doublefaced wool lead the popularity standings, particularly if they have shawl collars of fox dyed to match the coat color.

GRAY, BROWN, beige, black and the more drab greens and blues are the favorite colors. There are some tweeds around, and more plaids, although they generally are in muted patterns.

There was no general trend in hats. Shoes ranged from 4 1-2 inches down to the sensible just over two inches in classic opera pumps at Valentino.

SLINKY LINES — From the winter collection by fashion designer Princess Irene Galitzine is this pink gown. Slim in front and draped in back, it has the slinky, fluid lines for which the designer is known. A deep drape from shoulder almost to the waist forms a mock convertible hood, leaving the back bare. Princeton Post No Big Deal, Says Adele Simmons

By ANDREA CHAMBERS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

MEDFORD, Mass. — How will it feel to be the first woman to serve as a senior academic official at Princeton University?

"Oh, it's just like any other job," smiles Dr. Adele Simmons, the soon-to-depart dean of Jackson College at Tufts University here.

As of Sept. 1, Dr. Simmons will become dean of student affairs and associate dean of the college at Princeton. She will be the first woman in such a high Princeton post, and also the first holder of this joint title.

"I see my dual title as a symbol of the realization that student problems can't be categorized according to administrative offices," explains the 30-year-old dean. "You can't automatically send a student to a student-affairs dean for a dormitory problem and to an academic dean for a course change."

Very often, she believes, a student may come in ostensibly to drop or change a course. But, in reality, he or she wants a chance to talk and discuss future plans, or to "get at a problem that troubles him or her deeply."

AT PRINCETON, Dr. Simmons hopes to encourage joint program development between offices of academic and student affairs. And although her principal responsibility is student affairs, she is willing and anxious to help students with academic questions and issues as well.

The blonde pixie-like dean steps into her new post after three years as first assistant dean and then as dean of all-girl Jackson, where she is also an assistant professor of history.

"I hope to continue teaching African history at Princeton," affirmed Dean Simmons as she leaned back in her cluttered Tufts office.

The African woodcuts and hand-crafted vermillion tapestry on the wall attest to her interest in things African — an interest which developed during her undergraduate career at Radcliffe, when she spent a year in Kenya in the Operation Crossroads Africa program.

In 1966-68, Dr. Simmons returned to Africa with her husband, Dr. John L. Simmons, currently a Harvard lecturer in economics and formerly director of the Harvard NorthAfrica project. Dr. Simmons will shortly join the staff of the World Bank in Washington, commuting from Princeton.

Mrs. Simmons did research in Tunisia as a part of her doctoral studies at Oxford University, from which she received a Ph.D. in history in 1969. After a period of residence on the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius, she completed her doctoral thesis on "Mauritius, the Politics of Pluralism."

ANOTHER SPECIAL area of academic interest of the new Princeton dean is women's studies programs. In collaboration with others, she is now completing a volume for the Twentieth Century Fund on the subject of "Working Women in America in the 1970s" and is affiliated with the Advisory Committee on the Status and Education of Women of the Association of American Colleges.

At Tufts, Dean Simmons taught a seminar on "Women in America in the 19th Century."

"I doubt that I'll have the time to teach a seminar on the history of American women at Princeton," smiles the easygoing dean. "But I hope to be involved with women's programs, among other things."

The "other things," as Dean Simmons describes them, are multiple and varied. These include working with undergraduate organizations and looking into the ways in which the living environment can provide a richer educational experience.

In addition, the Dean of Student Affairs must consider the ways faculty can be brought into touch with the students outside the classroom — ways to build up informal relationships.

"We must provide an opportunity for students to discuss questions and problems and issues that are not necessarily related to Milton and ancient history," Dean Simmons said.

THE YOUTHFUL dean joins a new Princeton administration with Dr. William Bowen at its helm. President Bowen, who took office July 1, is a nationally known economist who has served as Princeton's provost since 1967.

What encouraged Dean Simmons to tackle the administrative duties of a new university with very different priorities, personality and academic and social structure?

"I was very excited by some of the recent changes at Princeton," she explained, noting particularly the shift to co-ed status and the innovations proposed by the Bressler Commission, established to study a three-year curriculum.

"Moreover," she added, "Princeton is a small university of very high quality. I don't want to work at a large university, where deans get removed from faculty and students and just become administrators."

Here, she excused herself to answer one of the more urgent administrative questions that seem always to hover outside her doorway. Upon returning, she commented that the problems of university administration fascinate her. But she is also devoted to her career as "a teacher and a scholar."

On the threshold of a challenging new position at Princeton, she looks forward to enriching both her academic and administrative career. And for scholar-professor-administrator Dean Simmons, this is the best of all possible worlds.

They are both involved in many community activities. Diane is chairman of the Novato Citizens' Advisory Committee on Human Needs, director of the San Marin Improvement Association, director of Human Needs Service Center, secretary of Novatans for Racial Equality, Day Camp leader, Campfire Girls, and Another Mother For Peace.

Ed, executive director of the Marin Senior Citizens Coordinating Council, is on the executive board of the Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council; executive board of the Council For Adequate Shelter For All and the board of directors of Marin Council for Civic Affairs. Diane says they both belong to the International Hospitality Center and enjoy the opportunity to have people from other countries stay at their home.

The couple has lived in Marin County five years and are the parents of Amy, 9, Shane, 7, Lance, 6, and Shannon Mary, 2 years old.

Remove Stains

Minerals in water and in certain foods sometimes cause stains in aluminum cooking utensils. To remove them, boil a solution of one or two tablespoons of cream-of-tartar or lemon juice with a quart of water in the utensil for 10 minutes. Then scour lightly with a soap-filled pad to restore the shine.

New Yorkers To Enjoy Tennis The Year Round

The New York city parks department will make tennis courts available to residents in the winter by putting "bubbles" atop 39 courts.

The city's program includes spending $3 million for resurfacing, winterizing and lighting nearly a third of the city's intensively used 515 municipal courts. Thirty nine would be winterized by the construction of "bubbles."

The synthetic pressurized domes would only be used in the winter. Other courts will be resurfaced or lighted for night play.

According to Women's Wear Daily, the extra use of the city's courts is bound to spur sales of tenniswear and equipment.

The Travel Bag

The demand for the travel bag, bigger than a handbag, but smaller than a suitcase, is increasing. There is a need for an oversized bag to carry passports, cosmetics and small travel items. The travel bag should be light in weight, soft in fabric, with a convertible shoulder strap, plenty of compartments and a zipper top.

JUST A NATIVE SON

Minneapolis Hails Getty Art

By AUTIN C. WEHRWEIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

MINNEAPOLIS — The world knows J. Paul Getty as one of the richest of men, a leading art collector with a taste for bigger than life paintings, with price tags to match. His image is that of a somewhat whimsical recluse.

Here in Minneapolis, the oil billionaire is also known as a native son who attended Emerson School on Spruce Place, skated on Loring Park pond, and daringly hitched his sled to trolley cars.

However, in 1906 when Getty was 13, he moved with his mother and father, an affluent lawyer and insurance executive, to Oklahoma. There Getty made his first $1,000,000 in oil while still in his early 20s. But Getty, who also has a villa at Talo, Italy, fondly remembers Minneapolis. He calls it a "charming city."

Now the master of Sutton Place, a stately 16th-Century Tudor mansion near Guildford, England, Getty last visited Minneapolis in 1947. He still has at hand a photograph of the 1906 Emerson elementary school graduating class.

In 1967, chiefly at the urging of Frank P. Leslie, who recently passed away, Getty loaned Raphael's "Madonna di Loreto" and Veronese's "Self-Portrait" to the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. This was the fruit of Leslie's boyhood friendship with Getty, which blossomed into a life-long association and mutual interest in the arts.

The interest museum-goers in his hometown showed in those works pleased the collector, now nearly 80. This civic appreciation, aided by more encouragement from his friend Mr. Leslie, resulted in the current Getty exhibition at the institute. Its director, Anthony M. Clark, says the purpose "is to honor a native son, his collecting, and the museum that bears his name."

This is a reference to the Getty Museum, founded in 1953 in Malibu in California, where a new museum is under construction at a cost of $6,500,000, to be completed in 1973.

Planning ahead for greatly increased exhibition space in Malibu, Getty has tripled the size of his collection over the last three years, lending most of the purchases to museums around the world. The show here, which opened June 29 and will last through Sept. 3, gathered together many of these recent acquisitions for the first time.

The exhibition will be seen only in Minneapolis.

Burton B. Fredericksen, chief curator of the Malibu Museum, commented:

"The present exhibition is a kind of a preview; it contains many of the museum's new acquisitions and a few of the older ones, as well as some from Getty's own private collection, all of which will eventually return to Malibu."

Getty who has remained in Europe for 21 years, told a recent interviewer that he expects to be back in Malibu three years from now. The museum has been in his rambling, Spanish-style house and has never been a tourist attraction. The new building could be something else: It has been characterized as "a modern Roman extravaganza, almost based on Hadrian's Roman villa."

Getty started collecting in 1912 when he bought some Japanese and Chinese lacquer pieces. His first painting was a Jan van Goyen, which he bought at an auction in Berlin in 1930 for 250 pounds (then about $1,200).

The painting that brought him considerable attention recently was Titian's 16th-Century masterpiece, "The Death of Actaeon," acquired a year ago at Christie's in London for $4,032,000 the second highest auction price for a work of art. (But the painting, one of a series commissioned by Phillip II of Spain, is destined to remain in England. Recently London's National Gallery announced that it had raised from its own sources and through government and public subscription the more than $4.5 million necessary to keep it in the country. A companion piece "The Rape of Europa" hangs in Boston's Gardner Museum.)

Getty has been quoted as saying he didn't have an overwhelming interest in art.

"I have only purchased objects that I personally liked. At the same time I have been careful to have the best professional opinion about their authenticity, quality and condition. I have tried to keep the level as high as possible for it seems to me that, human nature being what it is, a collection is often known by the worst thing in it rather than the best thing in it."

Getty's collecting has fallen into three main categories: 18th-Century French furniture; Roman and Greek antiquities, and old masters, chiefly from the 14th through the 18th-centuries. All these are represented in the current show with a stress on painting.

Interest here has centered on a recent purchase, Rubens' "Four Studies of a Negro's Head," and works by Rembrandt, van Dyck, and Gainsborough.

'DRAMABURGERS' PREPARE PREMIER

Half a dozen Lucas Valley teen-agers go over scripts and work on props for the "Dramaburgers" theater group's debut at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Using the Upper Lucas Valley Community Center stage they will perform Jean Giraudaux's comedy "Apollo of Bellac." The new stage group will repeat the play Sunday and July 26 and 28. Neal Nixon, who organized the teen-age stage club, said the 30 members also are working on an original play to be presented next month.

A Woman Swallows Her Windfall—$3,000 Rock

Last month Mrs. Martin bought $1 box of buttons from a local Salvation Army thrift store, and later found an oddball in the bunch.

She said she had the odd hunk of rock appraised at a jewelry store, which said it was a large, uncut diamond.

While at the jewelry store, she said, two Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers asked her to come outside.

"But the jeweler said nobody could take it from me so I made sure of that," she said.

"I swallowed it quick." Police checks later turned up nothing on the diamond.

Mrs. Martin said she recovered the diamond two days later at home and took it back to the jeweler, who bought it from her for $3,000.

Johnsons To Attend Play at LBJ Park

STONEWALL, TEX. (UPI)— Former President Johnson and his wife will join the public Saturday night in a picnic supper and presentation of the play "A Raisin in the Sun" in the LBJ State Park auditorium.

Johnson had invited the Southwest Texas State University speech and drama department to stage the first full theater presentation at the park.

DRAMA REVIEW

Imaginative Flare In Bosakowski Play

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"Read all about it, Bierce takes on the railroad!" screamed the black bannered newspapers.

The setting? College of Marin's Theater III (formerly the Festival Theater on the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San Anselmo). The occasion: Opening of the College of Marin Department of Theater Arts "Summer Theater Seventy-Two. . .Debut!"

The character: Ambrose Bierce, early day San Francisco newspaper columnist who gained fame as the star columnist with young William Randolph Hearst's San Francisco Examiner and later disappeared into Mexico. He was never heard from again.

Local connections: Bierce' was a resident of San Rafael from 1908 to 1912 and was recalled in an article written from the Marin Magazine in 1969 by William T. Ortman, a pioneer Marin County resident.

Last night College of Marin theater patrons were treated to some of these facts in "Bierce Takes On The Railroad!," by Philip Bosakowski, a 25-year-old Philadelphia playwright.

The young playwright shows much promise. He has done an excellent job of taking a true incident in Bierce's life, lacing it with the seriousness of the day and some humorous characterizations.

Bosakowski's two-act drama deals with Bierce's appearance in Washington — on Hearst's urgent dispatch — to take on the Pacific Western Railroad and its co-owner Hartford T. Kent over payment of a federal loan.

With a highly imaginative flare, Bosakowski paints Bierce as an urbane, literate columnist beholden to none but God.

Appearing as Bierce is Kurtwood Smith, through special arrangement of Actors' Equity Association. Smith holds center stage strongly. His Bierce has wit, honesty and a certain amount of pomposity.

The playwright paints young Hearst in a more satirical fashion — a brash person who dreams of greater glories. Robin Williams had that strutting spark in his portrayal.

Collegian J. W. Harper, who is winding up a distinguished career under director James Dunn, handled the rail tycoon in his usually expert fashion.

The play also gives Carolyn Reed-Dunn, wife of the director, a chance to display her very fine talent in a small, but interesting role — that of a Washington socialite.

Handling the other two major speaking parts were Alan Kernan as Senator Merton, the Kent foe, and Craig Scott as Day Bierce, the columnist's young son. Both handled their assignments very well.

Adding greatly to the impact of the evening was the chorus, whose members handled the minor roles — news hawkers, socialites, senators and just plain people.

While Bosakowski's script abounds with freshness and messages just as urgent as they were in Bierce's day — corruption and honest government — it could have been tailored just a little more. However, Dunn used all his excellent theatrical tricks to make it a rewarding evening.

The theater is an ideal setting and Dunn, with the assistance of Ronald Krempetz, has fashioned a colorful patriotic set. Also adding to the humor were some of Bierce's biting wit flashed on a screen above the actors. They were taken from his "The Devil's Dictionary."

The play is the first of two being presented in the college's summer season in the Office for Advanced Drama Research program with funds from the Rockefeller Foundation. It will be presented again tonight at 8 o'clock, next Friday and Saturday nights, and Aug. 4, 6 and 11.

Joining the "debut season" on Saturday at 8 p.m. will be "You In Your Small Corner And I In Mine," a new play by Carol Roper, a young New York playwright.

"BIERCE TAKES ON THE RAILROAD!" — A new two-act play by Philip Bosakowski. Presented by the College of Marin Department of Theater Arts. Directed by James Dunn. Settings, Dunn and Ronald Krempetz; costumes, Pat Lusk; lighting, Edward K. Scoon. The cast: William Randolph Hearst, Robin Williams; Hartford T. Kent, J. W. Harper; Ambrose Bierce, Craig Scott; Senator Merton, Alan Kernan; Emily Wilton, Carolyn Reed-Dunn; Pancho Villa, Robert Cooper; Chorus, Lisa Beasley, Abby Goldman, Marc Hilderbrand, Kendall Jackson, Anni Long, Rich Shanower, David Silverman, Kent Skov, W. H. Teed.

Ford Asks New-Model Price Hike

DETROIT (UPI)—Citing the cost of government required safety and antipollution equipment, Ford Motor Co. Thursday asked the Federal Price Commission for permission to increase prices an average of $92 on its 1973 model cars.

Similar requests were made earlier by General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp.

Ford said its increase was needed to recover costs of safety and emission control equipment required for 1973 cars and to meet government safety and health standards in its plants.

"The request includes no provision for profit for Ford or its dealers," said M. S. McLaugh- lin, vice president in charge of sales for Ford.

Chrysler lowered its price hike request earlier this month from an average of $180 per car to $110 in a move to maintain a competitive pricing commission.

Chrysler said it was withdrawing that part of its request to the price commission which would have covered the increased costs of labor and materials—an average of $70.

Ford's request did not cover material, wages or other economic costs increases and the company indicated it anticipated no price increases for economic recovery for the rest of the year.

General Motors asked permission July 7 to grant an average $90 hike—$85 to cover the government required equipment and $5 for optional equipment which will become standard.

GM, which sells more than half the cars sold in the United States, said it would forego any additional increase to offset higher labor and material costs until at least the beginning of 1973.

American Motors has asked for an average $150 hike.

Mixed Baths

NOBORIBETSU, Japan (UPI)—The custom of mixed public baths is declining in Japan. But two large tourist hotels in this hot springs resort on the northern island of Hokkaido still operate large steam baths in which men, women and children bathe together.

FAMILY

"Biscuit Eater" — A rural period piece of 1946, set in the lush Tenneseee hills concerns two 13-year-old boys attempts to train a misfit dog into a champion.

"Now You See It, Now You Don't" — A zany college campus romp presented by Disney. A science experiment is struck by lightning giving it unusual properties. It is used to help capture bank robbers and also wins a prize that gets the college out of a financial bind.

"Railway Children" — In Victorian England this pleasing story about how children take responsibility for the welfare of the family when the father is away and their mother becomes ill. The trains that pass their home provides the drama that comes into their lives. A rare treat, don't miss it.

"Toklat" — A nature study follows the development of a grizzly bear from birth to maturity and his friendship with an old sheepherder who must eventually hunt him down.

"What's Up, Doc?" — Set in San Francisco, treated with a sophisticated touch, this fast moving slapstick, nutty comedy revolves around a mixup with four identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Junior Bonner" — A former rodeo champion returns to his hometown for a July 4th celebration. His brother is an aggressive businessman and wants him to join him in land development. His decision is really no surprise. Some crude language.

"Nicholas and Alexandra" — The tragic, intimate story of Tsar Nicholas and his family and the period of Russian history from 1904 to 1918. This fascinating classic drama has an excellent cast, is full of color and pageantry but is long with a very violent ending.

"Sometimes a Great Notion" — A tense, dramatic adventure about the dangerous logging operation in a timber wilderness of Oregon. A family of independent loggers defy the union when they call a strike. A family feud adds to the situation. Some violence and rough language.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Decadently manic mood of pre-Nazi Germany is captured in this adaptation of the racy Broadway musical. A kooky American girl delights in shocking people with her behavior as a cabaret singer and in her private life. Sophisticated and bawdy with sex and foul language.

Derby" — Depressing semi-fictional documentary that does not spare us the obscene details of one mans personal sex life and the horrible, senseless violence of the roller derby. Cursing.

"Frenzy" — The master of suspense, Alfred Hitchcock, brings us a necktie murderer who is a sexual psychopath and on the loose in London. The wrong man is convicted but authors unerring sense of pacing hold the suspense high. Nudity and cursing.

"Hannie Caulder" — A travesty of the western genre-violence and bloodshed are played for laughs. A woman raped by three bandits vows to avenge herself and procees to gun them down one by one. Well known cast but acting is poor.

"Little Fauss, Big Halsey" — Contemporary motorcycle drama set in the west. Two men, one a braggard that hustles everything he wants, teams up with a gullibel country boy. Some exciting motorcycle scenes, lots of nude girls and a Johnny Cash sound track. Film moves slowly and goes no-where.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problems.

"Summer of '42" — Three 15-year-old boys wander through an island beach summer obsessed with sex and its mysteries.

ADULTS ONLY

"The Godfather" — Gripping epic ganster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia family leads two lives, as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"Klute" — A psychological murder mystery with a sordid background, the brutally realistic picture of the life of a call girl. Strong language, sex and nudity.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"Portnoy's Complaint" — A young man completely obsessed by sex relates to his psychiatrist his frustrating experiences. Language is very strong, visuals are a bit toned down but the subject matter still remains as Roth's best seller spells it out. (Boxoffice Magazine.)

Terra Linda Board To Meet On Annex

Terra Linda Community Services District directors will meet in special session at 9 p.m. July 31 in the community center to consider matters connected with plans for annexation of the area to San Rafael.

The group will consider a resolution initiating detachment proceedings as an unincorporated area.

SECURITY MEASURE

The High School ID Card Flap

By JOANNE LEEDOM-ACKERMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Rheba rifles through her purse each morning to make sure she has the small plastic identification card before rushing out to catch the bus to school.

Before the day is over, Rheba (not her real name) may have to show the card as many as five or six times: when she gets off the bus at school, before she eats lunch, before she checks out library books, when she's in the hallway, in the girl's room, and finally when she gets on the school bus again to go home.

Ever since the new Brockton High School opened two years ago, the photo ID card has been regular pocketware for students. It is also being used or considered for more and more high schools around the country — including those in Chicago, Los Angeles, and Boston, school officials say.

And it is stirring controversy.

In large city schools, especially those where tension rides high and "outsiders" are charged with fanning the flames, the ID card is being considered as a security measure to identify and control those who belong in the school and those who don't.

Chicago schools have used ID cards in high schools for a number of years as "good security." Students must carry their IDs at all times in school. They must show them in the lunchroom, or when they come into the school, if they aren't recognized by a teacher, according to a Chicago school official.

A number of Los Angeles schools are also using photo IDs to screen outsiders from school and from school activities.

The Boston School Committee is also investigating the possible use of IDs. In other cities and towns in Massachusetts the ID card system now is either being used or considered.

Yet opposition to the card has sprung up, at least in Massachusetts.

Many students charge the ID is really an attempt to control them, to curb student protest and activism. They object to what they say is an invasion of their privacy through "data collection." Black students especially are vocal in their opposition to being "tagged, numbered, and put on file."

The opposition and perils of misusing the ID cards recently caused one school system — Cambridge, Mass. —to shred and throw away its cards.

In Boston, too, the ID question is in a holding pattern. Now that schools are calm, Boston school officials hesitate to introduce IDs lest the cards spark more protest.

In Brockton — where the new high school is the fanciest building in town — the IDs were introduced not so much to keep away "outside agitators," according to principal Robert Goldman, as to give teachers some way of managing students in a school that has four lunchrooms and four buildings.

In Brockton, too, students have challenged the ID. First accepted rather like a driver's license, the cards now are viewed by a growing number of Brockton students as more like security badges in a weapons factory, or passbooks out of "1984."

Color-coded, the Brockton card gives the student's name, student number, bus number, year graduating and tells which of four buildings a student belongs in.

A student can be asked to show his card at any time to teachers, student monitors, or other school officials. Without a card, students can't eat in the cafeteria, ride the school bus, use the library, or often even walk the halls.

If a student is caught without his pass and can't identify himself to teachers, he may be sent to the office for a temporary pass, or given detention after school.

In Brockton some students say that they are stopped in the hall for no reason. "If you're walking down the corridor in between periods, teachers can ask you for your ID and you have to show it on the spot," said one unhappy senior. "We're not even informed who can ask for an ID. Some kids can get away without IDs if they (the teachers) know you, but if you're a discipline problem, or you dress funny, or you're black, they won't let you."

Said Dr. Goldman: "I think there is a trend nationally for larger high schools (toward ID cards). But we were surprised when there was an attempt (by ID critics) to link us up with a national ID system. The student's number is internal. No one but school officials have access.

"Also, I would say that if a student is suspended from school for failure to have an ID card alone, I would be very much opposed to that. I don't know of it's happening, but I can't say that it's never happened."

An attorney for the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union, John Reinstein, says indiscriminate use of cards could infringe student rights of due process and freedom of speech and assembly. If students are excluded because they don't carry cards, there's a question of their constitutional right to attend school in the first place, he said.

"Would police have access to pictures for use as mug shots?" he asked.

A new organization called PANIC (People Against National Identity Cards) has formed in Boston. Though small, PANIC is investigating not only the use of high school IDs around the country, but the use of all photo ID systems — which, they say, are the first step toward the establishment of a national ID system. Many discount PANIC's warning as overstated.

Risks Are Rising For Bank Tellers

BUXTON, England (AP) — Risks of armed robberies on banks are so high these days that clerks are entitled to danger money, says the president of the Bank Employers Union.

At a conference in Derbyshire, Don Earl estimated the danger element in the job had trebled in recent years. "It is high time the public realized the increasing risks from raids that all bank men and women have to face," he says.

Replace Bonds By Subsidy, Study Urges

By PHILIP W. McKINSEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The tax-exempt bonds issued by state and local governments, a major loophole which permits millionaires to pay no taxes, should be abolished in favor of federal subsidies for such bonds.

That is the conclusion of a study just issued by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress. Chairman William Proxmire, Democratic senator from Wisconsin, hailed the study as "exactly what the Treasury has wanted before endorsing the proposal" and hoped the administration would waste no time backing the idea.

Instead of letting local governments issue tax-free bonds, these governments would isuue taxable bonds and the federal government would subsidize the interest rate sufficiently to make the bonds attractive in the money markets. Proxmire said the study shows the federal government would save about $700 million a year this way.

And local governments would gain a broader and more stable market for their bonds. As it is, most of these bonds are sold to wealthy individuals or to banks, and when money gets tight, the banks tend to shift their money into commercial loans.

Actually, support for ending tax-exempt bonds has been growing in Congress. In the Tax Reform Act of 1969 the House voted to give localities the option of issuing subsidized taxable bonds, but the Senate killed it. Local governments apparently feared that this would be the camel's nose under the tent, and that sometime in the future Congress might reduce the subsidy.

Now, however, the opposition from mayors and governors is reportedly fading. A group of experts, including local representatives, met at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston a year ago and reached a consensus in favor of a switch. According to the authors of the joint committee report, Profs. David J. Ott and Attiat F. Ott of Clark University, virtually every secretary of the treasury for years and most public-finance experts have favored removing the tax exemption.

When Congress enacts a new tax-reform measure, as it is widely believed will happen next year no matter who is elected president, the exemption for state-local bonds is likely to be high on the list of reforms. Even though local government officials might prefer to retain the exemption, they will probably have to bow to pressure to remove one of the biggest escape routes for wealthy taxpayers. It is difficult to make a minimum tax effective, as any reform panel must do, as long as high-bracket taxpayers can purchase tax-free municipals.

Congress has already required localities in recent legislation to issue taxable securities instead of tax-exempt bonds to get loans for hospital construction and for conservation projects under the Farmers Home Administration.

The study points out the extent to which banks pull out of the tax-exempt market when money gets tight, thus throwing a "disproportionate share of the impact of monetary policy" onto state-local governments. In 1968, when money was easy, banks took 70 per cent of the tax-exempt bonds put on the market; in 1969 when money got tight, they took only 17 per cent.

But the main argument against tax-exempt bonds is equity. About 80 per cent of the individuals who purchase such bonds have incomes over $50,000, and half have incomes over $100,000. Since these people are in the 50 to 70 per cent bracket, the cost to society for each $1 of exemption is 50 to 70 cents. "Taxpayers who do not purchase municipal bonds must subsidize those who do by making up for the lost revenue," the study said.

(Under the proposed system, only part of this present subsidy would be recovered, since the government would be subsidizing the additional interest cost to states and municipalities of new bonds that would have to compete with other taxable bonds. The taxes of all taxpayers would have to increase enough to pay the cost of this new subsidy.)

In addition, the present interest exemption creates inequity even among high-income people. A family in the 50 per cent tax bracket would pay no tax if all its income came from municipal bonds, whereas a family with all its income from salary would pay the full tax rate.

Danes Still Prefer Milk To Booze

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Consumption of hard liquor jumped 20 per cent in 1971, but milk still is the favorite drink among Danes, according to a recent report.

On average, the population of 4.9 million downed 28 gallons of milk per person last year while intake of whisky, gin and brandy totaled 1-6th gallon per capita.

City Manager Job On Line In Cotati; Monday Talk Set

The Cotati City Council last night backed off from firing City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen, but scheduled a closed session for 7:30 p.m. Monday to discuss his job performance.

Since Salfen is on vacation and was not present at the meeting, the council took no action on an amendment to the personnel ordinance that would have given the simple majority of the council the power to fire him. The amendment would have reduced the required vote for dismissal from 4-1 to 3-2.

Mayor Annette Lombardi said Salfen would be back to work Monday and that the council would review his job status in the closed session. "We want to talk to him to see how cooperative he'll be," she said.

Two other younger members of the council — Stephen Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham — have been outspoken in their criticism of Salfen, but Miss Lombardi has been less critical, complaining only of problems of "communication." Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert Winter, the older councilmen, have been supporters of Salfen.

The council, however, took away some of the city manager's authority. In a unanimous vote, the personnel ordinance was amended to read that only the city council has the power to appoint or remove department heads. Salfen now will have only the authority to screen applicants and make recommendations to the council.

The authority might first be used in appointing a successor to Police Chief Tony Locarini, who submitted his resignation under council pressure effective Sept. 30.

Locarini came under fire last night from Dunham, who was obviously upset that neither the chief nor officers have attended recent police committee meetings.

"I was told that the officers were told not to attend the meetings," Dunham said angrily. "If that's so, I want to know why."

Locarini said he had instructed his men not to attend meetings because they involved personnel problems.

Dunham said he was dissatisfied with the answer and that he wanted to discuss Locarini's conduct further at the closed session Monday. He said after the meeting, however, that he doubted the council would force Locarini to quit earlier. "It's a dead issue as far as we're concerned," Miss Lombardi agreed.

The Cotati City Council Also:

WELL — Approved drilling a new water well rather than renovating an old well when city engineer Paul Schoch reported the estimated cost of a new well at $69,511, and said it would be cheaper than renovation. A test well will be drilled on the eastern edge of the city in Holiday Park subdivision at a cost of $7,400.

PARKS — Approved formation of a parks and recreation commission by a 4-1 vote with Dolinsek dissenting.

POLICE — Heard the police committee recommend that qualifications for the new police chief include experience in community relations, two years of college, patrol experience, administrative experience and an interest in crime prevention. The council agreed to allow the committee to interview applicants for the position.

HISTORY — Approved the formation of a committee to prepare a history of Cotati and to collect and display artifacts.

STRIPS — Asked that cost information be prepared on installing rough strips on Old Redwood Highway at the western entrance to the city in order to slow down traffic.

BUDGET — Agreed to study the proposed 1972-73 budget Monday following the personnel session.

Plumbers Reach Strike Agreement

OAKLAND (UPI) —Tentative settlement has been announced in the two-week strike by East Bay plumbers.

Many of the 500 persons involved returned to work Thursday although formal ratification vote won't be held until next week.

A spokesman said the proposed contract increases the current wage, health, welfare and pension package to $11.90 per hour.

Doctor Says Smoking Is 'Epidemic' In Britain

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI) — A doctor told the British Medical Association (BMA) today smoking "is arguably the greatest epidemic scourge of Britain since cholera a century ago."

Dr. Alexander Macara, a lecturer in public health at the University of Bristol, told the BMA's convention a new tendency by cigarette makers to sponsor sports events "is a matter for grave public concern in that it seeks to portray smoking as a healthy, wholesome habit."

At his urging the convention passed a motion deploring "the advertising advantages gained by tobacco firms sponsoring sports events" and recommending a government ban on such advertising.

Tax Charge Faces Los Altos Executive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Los Altos electronics executive has been indicted for allegedly not paying $6,609 in taxes.

Named in the grand jury indictment Thursday was Thomas P. Daly, 49, vice president of Time-Data, Inc., of Palo Alto.

The indictment charges him with four counts of submitting false documents and statements to the Internal Revenue Service by submitting a fraudulently canceled check as proof of payment of his 1965 tax.

Petaluma Airman Is Tops In His Unit

Senior M/Sgt. Larry E. Huskey of Petaluma, an air reserve technician with the 904th Combat Support Group, Hamilton Air Force Base, is among 12 airmen selected by the air force as outstanding airmen for 1972.

Huskey was selected because he distinguished himself by "significant contribution to the mission and image of the Air Ferce during the past year."

Huskey and 11 other airmen will be honored Sept. 17-21 at the Air Force Association convention in Washington.

Committee Vetoes Bill Barring Tip-Sharing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has defeated a bill that would have barred employers from sharing their employe's tips.

The Assembly-passed bill by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, was rejected Thursday on a 2-4 vote in the Senate Industrial Relations Committee.

County, State: Odds Over Bay Access

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin County and state officials were at odds yesterday over whether the county should provide public access to Richardson Bay as part of a storm sewer project in Tiburon.

The access was asked by the state director of parks and recreation, William Penn Mott, in a hearing before the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

County engineers, in turn, insisted it would cost too much to provide public access to the shoreline. The project is immediately west of the Cove Apartments on Greenwood Cove Road.

No one, however, mentioned the popular wooden pier that would be removed by the project.

The county's principal engineer, George C. Davison, objected that the county owned only underground rights through the property and would have to buy surface rights to provide public access. He estimated that these rights would add $20,000 to the $40,000 cost of the project.

He noted that this $60,000 total equalled the entire annual tax revenue from Bel Aire Flood Control Zone, which will be served by the storm drainage project.

Davison also told the Independent-Journal that railings on the existing pier "don't meet the building code. It's not really a very safe situation."

Some public access still would be available via a compacted earth roadway to the end of the storm drain, he said. But he conceded this would not be as usable as the existing pier that extends out over the water above the sagging storm drains to be replaced.

The project calls for 85 cubic yards of fill to anchor a new 72-inch pipe. The pipe will speed drainage of upland areas that frequently have been flooded in winter.

The commission's staff noted that the commission's bay plan provides that "maximum feasible public access to the waterfront should be included in every new development in the bay or on the shoreline."

The staff will present its recommendation to the commission at its Aug. 3 meeting, when a vote on the county's application is scheduled.

In another Marin application, commissioners unanimously approved plans for a housing devleopment on east side of Strawberry Point. Marin Land Development Co. received a BCDC permit four years ago, but did not complete the project.

Under newer law, the commission's jurisdiction was extended to the shoreline portion of the project. Under an agreement recommended by the staff, the company will complete the project, extending it over the water more than would be allowed under present commission regulations.

In exchange, the company will not build one of its originally authorized apartment buildings and will preserve the site for public access to the water.

J. Martin Rosse, representing the Strawberry Recreation District and Strawberry Community Council, cautioned that piers planned in the project could interfere with water skiing. The staff assured him it would control design of the project to assure this will not happen.

The commission also oted opposition to pending legislation (SB 742) by Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno, that the commission's staff said would revoke public access rights to the bay.

The staff reported that a BCDC-sponsored bill, SB 34 by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, has been signed into law by acting Gov. Ed Reinecke. It provides that the BCDC may determine the boundaries of priority land use areas on the shoreline without obtaining ratification for each change from the Legislature.

Industrial Park Plan On River Denied

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday rejected plans for an industrial complex on the Petaluma River near Black Point.

The commission denied the application of Shellmaker Inc. to rezone 112.43 acres from unclassified to heavy industrial on the river south of Highway 37. The denial was made without prejudice, thus permitting the dredging firm to reapply whenver it chooses or to appeal the decision to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

Black Point residents strongly opposed the rezoning, saying they wanted no heavy development in their area.

If the rezoning had been approved, the firm planned to divide the site by dredging a canal down the center and selling off lots on both sides as an industrial park.

The plan also included a concrete pile casting yard and a new wharfage point for materials being transferred between rail, truck and barges for the industries.

The firm has requested the North Marin County Water District to study the area for the costs and methods of supplying water to the area.

A portion of the land is now used as a contractor's storage yard and work area. Planning staff members said that some of the conditions of the original use permit have not been met and that two mobile homes have been placed on the property without permission.

Envelopes Similar To DMV's Banned

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton says the state attorney general's office has halted a market research firm's use of envelopes that closely resemble those used by the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

The Montebello Democrat said Tuesday the action had been taken against the Motor Vehicle Research Analysis Department of Chicago after he made the request to stop the use of a green-bordered envelope.

Mays' Appearance At Candlestick

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If Willie Mays decides to hang up that No. 24 baseball shirt at the end of the season, this weekend would be his last confrontation with his ex-Giant teammates.

San Francisco will be involved in a three-game series with the New York Mets, tonight's game followed by daylight contests Saturday and Sunday. It will be the last meeting of 1972 between the Giants and Mets.

The question being tossed around today is just how much will Mays play in these three games. If it were not for all the injuries and ailments hobbling the Mets, he would probably only play Sunday when lefty Ron Bryant is scheduled to pitch. But now Mets manager Yogi Berra might be forced to use him more than he would like.

The return of Mays to Candlestick will be a boost to the sagging attendance. There has been a lot of leg space lately at Candlestick, even though the team is playing exciting baseball. Giant promotions director John Taddeucci estimates the three-game series will attract 75,000. Say Hey!

BARRY MAC KAY OF ROSS is doing a lot of running around trying to put all ends together in the Redwood Bank Invitational Open Tennis Tournament scheduled Sept. 25 through Oct. 1. The San Rafael-based Redwood Bank's tournament, run by MacKay, has a $50,000 pot. The tourney, assured of getting the 32 players (Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall, etc.) in Lamar Hunt's World Championship of Tennis group, is in direct conflict with the $53,000 Pacific Coast International, sponsored by the Northern California Tennis Association, at courts to be constructed at Golden Gate Fields race track. That tourney will be going on the same time MacKay's tourney is held at Round Hill Tennis Club in Alamo.

There have been whisperings that the people at Round Hill didn't want to get in the doghouse with the NorCal tennis group so were thinking of pulling out of the picture.

Wrong, said MacKay yesterday. "The people at Round Hill are really excited to get these top tennis players there for a tournament. They are really looking forward to the tournament."

MacKay is still hopeful of getting sanction from the Northern California tennis people.

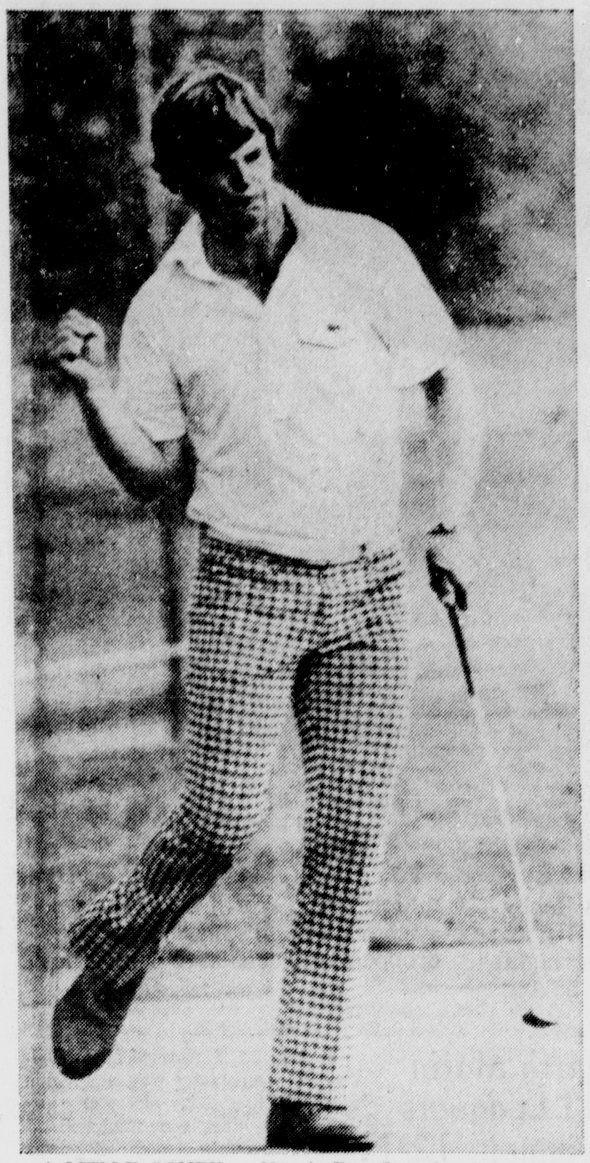

But Peter F. Herb, executive director of the Northern California Tennis Association, said this morning any further discussions of the conflict are between four groups, and not the NCTA.

"Any discussions now will have to be between Golden Gate Fields and MacKay or between the United States Lawn Tennis Association (governing body of the NCTA) and the WCT. We are definitely sanctioning the Pacific Coast International."

Herb confirmed that if any NCTA-member players competed in the Redwood non-sanctioned tourney, they would be suspended from future NCTA tourneys. "The length of the suspensions would be determined by a USLTA disciplinary committee."

Well, anyway, MacKay had to stop all this administrative work long enough today to take on left-hander Charles Hoeveler of San Francisco in a quarter-final match of the Marshall Ward Invitational Tennis Tournament at Golden Gateway Tennis Club courts in S.F. MacKay is No. 1 ranked in Northern California and top seeded in the tourney.

The Ward tourney is sponsored by — you guessed it — the Northern California Tennis Association.

A LITLLE OOMPH — Napa's Ron Cerrudo used a little body english to help his golf ball as it dropped into the cup for a birdie on the eighth hole in the American Golf Classic opening round yesterday at Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio. The former San Rafael resident grabbed a one-stroke lead with a five-under-par 65. (UPI Telephoto)

Napa's Cerrudo Leads By 1, Maintains It Is All Luck

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Napa's Ron Cerrudo, insisting it was all luck, carried a one-stroke lead into the second round of the American Golf Classic today, but it was a different four-letter word that haunted Arnold Palmer.

Palmer's problems, as they have been for a couple of years, involved his putting.

"I felt like I hit the ball good with my putter," Palmer insisted. "I just didn't make any putts."

Cerrudo, one-putting nine times to make up for his wild driving, shot a five-under-par 65 Thursday in the first round while Ray Floyd and Kermit Zarley had 66s and Palmer led a quartet of players at 68.

He had one stretch of seven holes in which he either lipped the cup or barely missed birdie putts on five holes, twice from within five feet, and expressed some optimism he might start to score better, now that the neck miseries, which hampered him in the British Open last week, are behind him.

"It feels good now," said Palmer, who has been taking heat treatments all week and figured the oppressive heat and high humidity of Akron was just what the doctor ordered.

Cerrudo, formerly of San Rafael, who still is making a comeback from back surgery that sidelined him for most of 1970 after he scored his only tournament victory, missed tying the record at Firestone's

OLYMPIC BOXING TRIALS

Hunter Loses, Wells Wins

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)— A piston-like left jab thrown relentlessly by a high school student who looks like a walking advertisement for a church youth camp may have ended the Olympic dreams of South Carolina convict Bobby Lee Hunter.

The jabs were thrown Thursday night by Tim Dement, 17, of Bossier City, La., who had sparred with Hunter last year, respected him as a tough opponent, kept out of range of his withering hooks and beat him with surprising ease.

Outside of the Dement-Hunter bout, the top action came in the heavyweight division when air force airman Nick Wells of Fort Worth and Hamilton Air Force Base caught Johnny Hudson of Detroit with a left cross in the opening round that sent Hudson down. The referee stopped the fight at 2:14 of the first round.

Light middleweight Larry Davis of Hamilton Air Force Base won his first-round bout, decisioning Navy fighter Coles Green. Light heavyweight Chuck Bromley, featherweight Joe Rivera and light welterweight Frank Lawson were defeated.

"He is my buddy and I knew he could hit," said Dement, possessor of a baby face, a shy smile and a quiet voice. "I tried to stay away from him."

It had been suggested by Olympic lord Avery Brundage that Hunter, serving an 18-year term for manslaughter in South Carolina, should not be allowed to represent the United States in Munich.

Hunter's case had been taken up by prison reform advocates throughout the country.

Dement, however, ended the controversy—at least for a while.

ATHLETICS SWEPT

Oakland Runs Into Hot Foe

BOSTON (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics have been playing solid baseball of late, but they may have run into a team even hotter than they are.

Boston swept them 2-1 and 4-3 in 11 innings Thursday in the two opening shots in a six-game series over four days.

The two American League powers will play just one tonight with Dave Hamilton going against John Curtis in a battle of hurlers with 6-3 marks.

Doug Giffin, who went 7-for-9 on the day, delivered the squeeze bunt that won Thursday's lid-lifter for Boston.

Griffin singled in the first run, too, while Reggie Jackson doubled home Joe Rudi to tie the count in the sixth. Losing pitcher Ken Holtaman told third baseman Sal Bando to play Griffin deep in the seventh and the Boston second baseman laid one down that oozed just inside the foul line all the way to third as the winning run scored.

In the nightcap, Vida Blue started and nursed a 3-2 lead through seven innings, thanks to Rudi's three-run blast to dead center in the third stanza. Blue departed in the eighth but reliever Rollie Fingers shut off the Boston threat.

The pesky Griffin tied the count by singling in pinchhitter Ben Oglevie all the way from first as right fielder Angel Mangual tried to make a shoestring catch and let the ball get by him.

In the 11th, Carl Yastrzaemski drew a walk with the bases loaded of Darold Knowles and the A's were dundee again.

The Return Of Mays To Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Willie Mays comes home today.

One day after he was named to his 23rd National League All Star team and only a few hours after he again beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, the 41-year-old centerfielder makes his first appearance at Candlestick Park in a visitor's uniform.

Mays is in town with his new teammates, the New York Mets, for a three-game series starting tonight with Jim Barr (3-2) of the Giants dueling Jerry Koosman (6-5).

It marks Willie's first appearance in San Francisco since he was traded to the Mets a couple of months ago for pitcher Charles Williams who is toiling in the minors.

Probably Mays will be used in pinch-hitting roles until Sunday when he might start against lefthander Ron Bryant of the Giants. But the Mets are ailing and Mays could see more action.

Thursday was an open day for the Giants and most of them nursed various wounds.

Mays' Chance To Add More All-Star Marks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Willie Mays will get a chance to add to his record All-Star Game performances next Tuesday.

The 41-year-old New York Met outfielder Thursday was named to his 23rd National League All-Star team by former Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh, who will head the senior circuit's group.

Dating back to 1954, Mays has played in 22 games and holds the following All-Star records: most hits, 23; at-bats, 72; runs, 20; stolen bases, 6; and putouts, 53.

Eight starting players elected by a fan poll and a nine-man pitching staff were selected earlier.

In addition, Murtaugh said that Charley Fox, manager of the San Francisco Giants, and Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinal manager, have accepted invitations to serve as coaches in the July 25 classic at Atlanta Stadium.

THE SQUAD

The following players round out the squad: catchers Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh and Ted Simmons of St. Louis; second baseman Glenn Beckert of Chicago, first baseman Nate Colbert of San Diego, third-baseman Ron Santo of Chicago and shortstop Chris Speier of San Francisco; outfielders, Mays, Lou Brock of St. Louis, Cesar Cedeno of Houston, Al Oliver of Pittsburgh and Billy Williams of Chicago.

Meanwhile, Bert Campaneris of the Oakland Athletics was named today to replace Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox as the starting shortstop for the American League in next Tuesday's major league all-star game at Atlanta.

BROKEN FINGER

Aparicio was the top vote-getter among the fans for the starting position but has been sidelined with a broken finger and will be unable to play against the National League.

The selection of Campanaris and 11 other players to complete the American League squad was announced by Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles who will direct the team.

Members of the first team were selected by fans around the nation, save for the pitchers, who were named earlier this week by Weaver.

Weaver went with the fans' voting for six of the 11 players he named today. The six—first baseman Norm Cash of Detroit, second baseman Cookie Rojas of Kansas City, third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland and outfielders Lou Piniella, Amos Otis and Richie Scheinblum, all of Kansas City—finished second in the balloting for their positions.

FISK TABBED

Weaver named rookie Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox as his backup catcher. Fisk finished fifth in the voting as a write-in candidate since his name did not appear on the ballot. Ellie Rodriguez of Milwaukee was selected as the third catcher.

The others named to the team were shortstop Toby Harrah of Texas, and outfielders Carlos May of Chicago and Joe Rudi of Oakland.

Weaver appointed Bob Lemon of Kansas City and Dick Williams of Oakland as his coaches. Ralph Salvon of Baltimore will serve as trainer.

Reed Is Arrested After An Argument

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, the team captain of the New York Knicks, was arrested Thursday night after he became involved in an argument with an off-duty patrolman, police reported.

Police said Reed pulled out of a driveway on Junction Boulevard in Rego Park, Queens, at about 8:30 p.m. and allegedly cut off a car driven by patrolman Joseph Gaurino, assigned to the communications division.

Reed was charged with reckless endangerment, impersonating a police officer, menacing, harassment and a motor vehicle violation. He was released on a summons pending a later court appearance.

No-Hitter Against Suburban

Showing no respect for his hosts, Rich Balswick threw a no-hitter at Suburban Auto last night to give Wilson-Russell Ford of Vallejo a 1-0 victory in the opening round of the Suburban Auto of San Rafael Invitational softball tournament.

In the other game at Albert Park, the San Mateo Kings defeated Le Blanc No. 2 of Sunnyvale, 4-0, behind Ray Caldera's three-hit pitching.

First-round action will continue tonight with Fontanetti's of Santa Cruz meeting Concord Disposal at 7:30 and Del Rio Golf Shop of Modesto facing the LeBlanc Barons at 9. The tournament winds up Sunday.

Only two men reached base against Balswick — one on a walk and one after the catcher dropped the ball on a third strike. A crowd of about 300 attended.

Tiburon Girl Makes Net Tourney Finals

Bee Kilgore of Tiburon and Valerie Mendoza of Sunnyvale were scheduled to play today for the girls 18 championship in the Western Clay Court tennis championships in Dayton, Ohio, following a 6-2, 6-2 semi-final victory yesterday over Mary Collins and Donna Shumacher of Dayton.

Miss Kilgore was defeated yesterday in 18 singles by Terry Holladay of San Diego, 6-4, 6-4.

Collett Turns In Top Run Time

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)— Guard Elmer Collett of Mill Valley won the for the guys who battle in "the pit" against the flashy guys who grab the headlines when he turned in the fastest time in the San Francisco 49ers annual 1 3/4mile run.

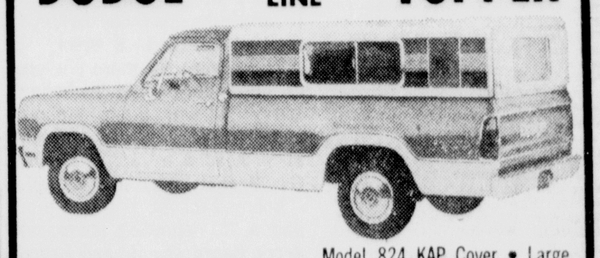

Collett finished the course Thursday in 10:35 in the annual test by coach Dick Nolan, who requires linemen and linebackers to run the distance in 15 minutes and backs and receivers in 12 minutes.

Only seven players failed to qualify, and they face extra conditioning drills.

Meanwhile, tight end Bob Windsor asked to be reinstated at first string or traded. Coach Dick Nolan says Windsor is better than most of the starting tight ends in the National Football League, but the prospectors have one of the best of all in Ted Kwalick, who caught 52 passes last season.

Gabriel In Rams' Camp; Cuts Made

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Roman Gabriel is mighty anxious to get back into action.

The star quarterrback of the Los Angeles Rams, who is sidelined for three weeks with a collapsed lung, was released from the hospital Thursday morning and immediately went to the Rams' training camp to observe the practice session. He said he hoped to rejoin the team by next Wednesday and begin light workouts including some throwing.

At their Thursday workout the Rams announced they were releasing two rookies—running back Russell Harrison of Kansas State and cornerback Larry Crowe of Texas Southern.

In other camps, running back Leroy Kelly signed a two-year contract with the Cleveland Browns and inked a separate agreement with owner Art Modell to continue with the team in another capacity after the 1973 season.

At Philadelphia, the Eagles' Bill Bradley and Tim Rossovich continued their joint holdout. The two defensive mainstays are reported seeking raises in the vicinity of $15,000 over the $20,000 and $28,000 they made last year.

The Houston Oilers announced that Zeke Moore, a 6-foot-3, 195-pound cornerback who started last season, fell in his room Wednesday night and suffered a fractured left arm which is expected to sideline him for six to eight weeks.

Six players, including veteran guard Joe O'Donnell, left the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp. O'Donnell announced his retirement for "personal reasons." The other five who left were running backs Steve Worster and Phil Hatch, tackle Ray Parson, linebacker Rick Jones and center Mike Stark.

Brundage Named To Hall Of Fame As Contributor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, today was named to the United States Savings-Helms Hall of Fame as a noteworthy contributor to sports.

Brundage is the 18th man named to the Hall of Fame for his contributions to sports. Others previously designated include Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Walter Camp, Dwight Davis, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, James Naismith, Connie Mack, President Theodore Roosevelt and James E. Sullivan.

An Olympic Games athlete himself, Brundage prior to being named to the U.S. Olympic Committee was president of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union.

Fairfax Wins, Stays Alive In Senior Tourney

Fairfax remained alive in the Marin County senior division baseball tournament yesterday by defeating Hamilton-Loma Verde, 6-4, in a game at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The losers were ousted from the double-elimination tourney. Fairfax goes on to play Marinwood this evening at 6 p.m. at Hamilton.

The winner of the Fairfax-Marinwood game will meet San Rafael in the championship series Saturday at noon at Hamilton. A San Rafael victory would clinch the title. A San Rafael loss would necessitate a second game that afternoon for the crown.

GOLF NOTES

Qualifying For Junior Title Set

Some 24 young golfers will face an 18-hole medal play qualifying round at the Indian Valley Golf Course in Novato next Friday starting at 1 p.m. to gain nine berths in the Northern California Golf Association Junior Championship competition next month.

In all, 350 boys, 12 through 17, will try for the Northern California Junior title held by Mark Hillsinger of South San Francisco. The golfers will be playing at 11 courses, including Indian Valley, for the 126 total berths in the finals set Aug. 7-11 at the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club in Daly City.

The 126 qualifiers will join Hillsinger and Mike Brannan of Salinas, defending United States Golf Association Junior champion, in the Daly City windup.

Dodgers Beaten By Mays

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Willie Mays remains alive and well today with the New York Mets.

The 41-year-old part-time performer with National League Eastern Division second place team spends much of his time pinch-hitting and platooning at first base and center field — and is apparently thriving on this arrangement.

GENTRY

Yesterday, Mays doubled home Bud Harrelson from first base in the fifth inning with the tie-breaking run as the Mets snapped a three-game losing streak by topping the Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-1. Gary Gentry went the distance for New York in gaining his fifth victory against six losses.

In the other National League game, Atlanta beat St. Louis, 6-3.

In the American League, Boston took two from Oakland 2-1 and 4-3, Detroit upended Texas 5-1, Baltimore downed Kansas City 8-5 in 10 innings and Milwaukee edged Minnesota 2-1.

Bill Slayback pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13 as Detroit beat Texas to maintain its one-game lead over Baltimore in the AL East.

Pinchhitter Merv Rettenmund came through with a two-run single in the 10th to give the Orioles their victory over Kansas City.

Earl Williams drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Ralph Garr chipped in with a two-run double as the Braves topped the Cardinals.

long and difficult South Course when he drove into trees on the final hole and took his only bogey of the day.

It was the only time in an erratic round Cerrudo lost a stroke because of a poor drive, and he realized how fortunate he was.

"Last week," he said, referring to his failure to survive the cut at Milwaukee, "I missed only four fairways in 36 holes and every time I was up against a tree. Today, I probably hit only three or four fairways all day but every time, I had a shot. I was lucky."

The 1970 San Antonio Open winner made six birdie putts ranging from 6 to 40 feet before bogeying the last hole, and three other times he salvaged pars with nifty chip shots.

The slumping Floyd, struggling through the worst year of his career, was particularly happy with his 66 which matched his best score of the year and said he thinks his troubles may almost be over.

Palmer was joined at 68 by Martin Bohen, R. H. Sikes and Mike Reasor, who was Palmer's caddy that memorable day in 1966 when Palmer blew a seven-stroke lead on the final nine holes of the U. S. Open.

There were six more players at one-under-par 69 including Larry Hinson, Steve Melnyk and Bert Yancey, and a dozen at 70 headed by Julius Boros, Gay Brewer and Tom Weiskopf.

Bobby Nichols, the host pro, had a 72, defending champion Jerry Heard shot 74 and Bruce Crampton, the year's sixth leading moneywinner, skied to a 77 including a back-nine 42.

tonight's semifinals against another classy flyweight fighter, Gregory Lewis of Cincinnati.

Among other top matches will find Navy quartermaster Duane Bobick, winner of his last 56 bouts, taking on 251-pound Leroy Jones of Brooklyn in the heavyweight division; James Busceme of Beaumont, Tex., meeting Robert Newton of Cambridge, Mass., in the lightweight class and Jesse Valdez of Houston and Hamilton AFB facing Larry Carlisle of Cleveland in the welterweights.

Although the short (5-foot-7), powerfully built Hunter could not find the putaway punch against his young opponent Thursday night, he still has a small chance of making the Olympic squad which will leave Aug. 18 for Munich.

One "challenger" will be selected in each weight class to meet the Fort Worth champion during pre-Olympic training at Bear Mountain, N.Y., Aug. 5. If the challenger wins in that fight, a third match between the two must be held to determine the Olympic representative.

North Marin Li'l Leaguers Triumph, 12-11

The Hamilton-Loma Verde Giants struck for two runs in the top of the eighth inning, surrendered one in the bottom half of the frame, but hung on to defeat Fairfax-Sleepy Hollow Fairfax Shell, 12-11, in a Little League baseball tournament game yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The game was a continuation of Wednesday's clash, which was called after seven innings due to darkness with the score 10-10.

The Giants move into the semi-finals of the county major league team championship, facing the Marinwood-Lucas Valley Caps at Joe Wagner Field in Larkspur today at 6 p.m.

The other semi-final will pit the Novato American Twins against the Mill Valley American Tigers at Mill Valley American's field near Boyle Park, also at 6 p.m.

Winners will meet for the championship Saturday at 1 p.m. at Mill Valley American's field.

Frazier Title In Jeopardy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

MEXICO CITY — World heavyweight champion Joe Frazier may be stripped of his title by the World Boxing Council (WBC) because he has not defended his championship against a top contender in 16 months. The eight council members are currently being polled for a decision.

"We should not make any exception in the case of Mr. Frazier," WBC Vice President Robert Turley said. His remarks were released here Thursday by WBC President Ramon Valezquez.

Baseball

PORTOLA VALLEY, Calif. — Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians won his 16th victory against Kansas City Wednesday night, but he lost at home.

Perry, a former San Francisco Giant, was notified by sheriff's deputies that burglars broke into his home here and took valuables worth $1,600.

HOUSTON — Bob Aspromonte, who played on four National League baseball clubs during his 16-year-career, says he will be suiting up next week for the Hiroshima, Japan, baseball club as a head coach and part-time player.

Aspromonte, 34, played for the New York Mets last season and had a tryout with the Cincinnati Reds earlier this spring. But an injury to his right leg last year never healed sufficiently for him to make the squad. He had played for the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, Houston Astros and Atlanta Braves during a career which began in 1956.

Tennis

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Pancho Gonzales, 44, lost to Rhodesia's top-ranked player, Andrew Pattison, 23, in the quarterfinals of the Buckeye Tennis Championships 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 yesterday.

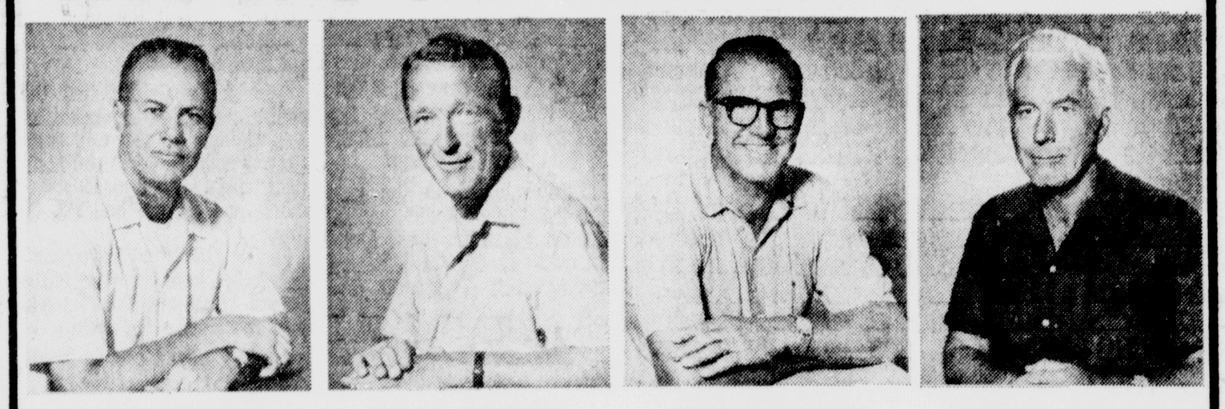

In the other singles match of the day, second-seeded Bob Hewitt of South Africa needed only 37 minutes to drop unseeded Jim McManus of Bakersfield 6-1, 6-1.

Hockey

QUEBEC CITY — Veteran Montreal Candiens defenseman Jean-Claude (J.C.) Tremblay has ended a 12-year career in the National Hockey League (NHL) and signed a five-year contract with the Quebec Nordiques of the newly-formed World Hockey Association (WHA).

FISH AND GAME

Hunting License Qualifying Time

By AL GIDDINGS

With the early deer season opening Aug. 5, persons wishing to apply for their first California license have only a short time to qualify under the state's hunter safety training law.

Hunter safety training is now required for all first-time buyers of hunting licenses, regardless of age. After completing the training course, the applicant receives a certificate of competence, which he must present when applying to buy a license.

Anyone applying for a hunting license must provide either: proof that he had held a California license for a previous year, or a hunter safety certificate of competence.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game this week announced the appointment of Charles Monroe to the newly created position of Hunter Safety Training Coordinator for the 14 central coast region counties.

Monroe, a captain in the department's 330-man force of wardens, will be responsible for supervising the selection and training of the more than 500 hunter safety training instructors in the central coast area and for insuring that the courses they teach meet the requirements of the department.

UNDER CALIFORNIA law, all persons who have not previously held hunting licenses must complete a course in safe hunting practices before they can obtain a hunting license. Principles of conservation and the need for sportsmanship also are emphasized by the instructors.

Last year, 56,357 persons completed the DFG-supervised hunter safety courses. Since the program was begun in 1955, 578,083 people have been graduated from these classes, and the incidence of hunting accidents has fallen from 3.1 per 10,000 license buyers in 1955 to 0.93 per 10,000 licenses last year.

Capt. Monroe's office will be in the DFG's Region Three headquarters at the State Veterans Facility at Yountville in Napa County. He has been in the department's warden's branch for eight years and served one year in the wildlife management branch before becoming a warden.

APPLICATIONS FOR the 1972 antelope hunt in Modoc, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou counties which starts Aug. 26 and runs through Sept. 4 are now available from license agents and Fish and Game Offices throughout the state. The deadline for submitting applications to the Department of Fish and Game, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento is 5 p.m. Aug. 1.

A public drawing for buck antelope will be held Aug. 3 at the DFG headquarters office on the 12th floor of the Resources Building at 1416 Ninth Street. Applicants should not send money. Drawn applicants will be notified how to obtain their permits, and when to submit the $15 fee. Last year 400 hunters took 302 antelope.

I TALKED to Carl Koehler who enthusiastically spoke of a trip which he and about 25 other members of the Marin Skindivers took.

THE GROUP went to San Carlos Bay at Guaymas, Mexico, and back, a round trip of 2,100 miles. Most of the group took their own boats and motors — in Carl's case — his 16-foot Glaspar, though he said even a 12-foot cartop would have been fine. The fishing license was $1. Each two couples rented an airconditioned apartment for $210 with maid service. They took their own food, buying bottled water there. Regarding the food, Carl said they could have lived on the fish caught.

The best fish taken by Carl was a 100-pound sailfish which he successfully landed — then released. He caught the fish trolling a Rebel lure — a surprise to everyone — on his light nine-foot steelhead rod and 20-pound test line. He also said the dolphins weighing 20 to 40 pounds would tear the rods out of the holders if you weren't careful. Red and white feathered jigs on the surface were the best lures on these fish. (On the 100-pound sailfish, his wife, when she heard the 100-pound estimate, said: "Boy, they sure get bigger when you let them go!")

Sonoma, Novato Grab Ruth Wins

Kurt Sears gave up three hits while pitching and bashed three hits while batting to lead Novato to a 17-0 victory over Rohnert Park yesterday in a District 9 Babe Ruth baseball tournament game at San Marin High School.

In the other first-round game, Sonoma managed only three hits but defeated Redwood Empire, 7-2 at Novato.

Today, Northgate will face Terra Linda at Novato High and Central Marin will play Country Youth Club of Santa Rosa at San Marin, both at 5:30 p.m.

Sears pitched a no-hitter for five innings for Novato, striking out seven. He, Bill Parmenter and Tim Wilson each scored three runs as Novato was the beneficiary of 11 Rohnert Park errors.

Felipe Flores got two of Sonoma's three hits and drove in three runs. Redwood Empire helped its rival by allowing 10 walks, three wild pitches and two balks.

Sohner, Perry's Collide Tonight In Softball Play

By midnight tonight, one Marin County team will be eliminated from the Tri-County District softball tournament in Santa Rosa.

Perry's Delicatessen and Sohner Tree Service are scheduled to meet each other in the loser's bracket of the double-elimination tourney tonight at 8:30, and the loser will be ousted.

Sohner dropped a 2-0 decision to Carriage Motors of Healdsburg last night, while Perry's fell to tournament favorite Grayview Farms of Petaluma, 8-2.

FOR FIRST TIME

Giants' McDowell Is On Outside

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— For the first time in his baseball life Sam McDowell is on the outside looking in and, frankly, he doesn't like it one bit.

"I wish they would let me go out and pitch right now," the big lefthander with the smoking fastball was saying the other day while watching his San Francisco Giant teammates go about their business. "It's awful tough sitting around doing nothing, but I guess I have to, for a little longer anyway."

SHOULDER

McDowell's problem is his left shoulder. It's been a problem before but never like this. In past years whenever the shoulder ached, he took a cortisone shot, sat things out a couple of days and then went out and pitched.

"I wish it was still that way," said Sam wistfully. "I tried it earlier this year but it didn't work. Now, my shoulder is so fouled up the doctor says the only way I can save my career is to rest the shoulder for as long as I can."

How long is that?

"I don't know," Sam replied, "but I sure as hell hope to pitch after the All-Star break. The shoulder doesn't hurt at all right now and if they let me I'd run out there, but the doctor is the boss and he simply won't let me pitch."

SETBACKS

Some ballplayers take physical setbacks in stride, but not McDowell. That's because he's from the "old warhorse" school of baseball that says you play no matter what.

"Heck, I've played in pain before," said Sam. "But this time I guess it's different. That's what they tell me, anyway."

McDowell, who won 122 games for the Indians over eight seasons before coming over to the Giants last winter in exchange for Gaylord Perry, didn't throw all that well during spring training, which led to speculation that he had lost his fastball.

But he came on just before the season began, although manager Charlie Fox was a little miffed because McDowell wasn't throwing his fastball as often as he should.

"I'm never overpowering in the spring," Sam kept insisting while promising he'd do better. That proved his big mistake because in his second start (he won his first), McDowell cut loose and apparently hurt his shoulder.

'FINESSED'

"But I finessed my way along and won the game," said McDowell. "I figured if I could do it once why not again? So I kept on going out there. There were times the shoulder hurt and other times when it felt all right. I figured it was just a case of working things out.

"Now, the doctor tells me that's when I hurt the shoulder —in that second start —and I didn't help it any by continuing to pitch. But you know me, as long as things are going all right I'm going to play. I don't believe in watching other guys play. This is my game and I want to do my share."

McDowell proved a pretty good "fake" with that bad shoulder because he won his first five decisions, three of them with route-going performances. Then things started to go sour both for Sam and the Giants. Finally, he threw in the towel after the Mets banged him out in less than three innings on July 12.

BAD SHAPE

He went to a doctor for an examination and was told his shoulder was in bad shape and if he continued to pitch he could suffer permanent damage.

"They really scared me this time," said McDowell, who at almost 30 has a lot of years left to play. "So here I sit watching and waiting. I just hope it won't be too much longer. I'm not at all happy not playing. It's not my style."

It sure isn't when you discover McDowell has averaged close to 300 innings of work a year in the past. This season he has clocked 128 innings in 20 starts, which is pretty good considering he's done most of it with a bum shoulder.

Now, if only the healing process would hurry up because Sam is getting awful nervous sitting around.

McLaren Scores 25 For McGillicuddy

Greg McLarren scored 25 points yesterday to lead McGillicuddy Construction to an 86-79 victory over the Flying Tigers in a Drake Summer League adult basketball game.

CHEVRON DIAGNOSTIC SERVICE CENTER

FEATURING ONE-STOP CAR DIAGNOSIS AND SERVICING.

How safe is the car you're driving?

Should you put money into it?

These are the kind of questions the Chevron car analysis can help you answer —at the new Standard Service Center in San Rafael.

There, with the aid of electronic equipment and a combination Dynamometer/Brake Analyzer, we can give you the test results in writing in less than an hour.

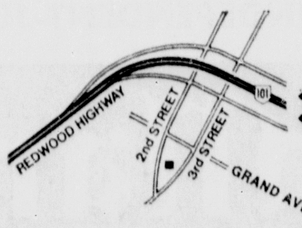

We'll find out what's wrong.

For $13.95 we make over 200 different visual, dynamic and electronic checks—on your car's engine, transmission, ignition, exhaust, braking and lighting system.

You'll see what's wrong, too.

You'll see the results we get—on a fully detailed inspection report—that covers every item our mechanics went over.

We also have the latest repair equipment. And any repairs made on vehicles used in normal passenger car service are fully guaranteed against defects in workmanship, parts, and materials, for 90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever occurs first.

Promotion For Marine Reservist

For Edward Craft, commander of a San Rafael Marine Reserve outfit, achieving the rank of major has meant more than just a milestone in his climb up the ranks.

Craft was promoted for the third consecutive time by the same man and has been elevated four consecutive times within the same organization — said to be rare occurrences in the Marine Reserve.

Moreover, Craft first joined the Marines as an enlisted man in the unit he now commands — Company M, 3rd Battalion, 23rd Marines, 4th Marine Division.

Craft, a Vallejo resident, was promoted to major in recent ceremonies at the Naval Amphibious Base, Coronado. Maj. Robert J. Brazil, former commanding officer of Company M who twice before had promoted Clark, presented the gold oak leaves.

Craft, an 18-year veteran of the Marine Corps and Marine Corps Reserve, has served in Vietnam and been commander of Company M since December 1970.

He is a high school English teacher in Vallejo.

Special features you'll enjoy:

The City of Belvedere is observing its 75th anniversary with festivities to be climaxed July 29 with a gala historical parade. For 54 years of that three-quarters of a century, the Belvedere Volunteer Fire Department has been an integral part of municipal and community life. As a salute to Belvedere, and to its hardworking, non-paid firemen, tomorrow's issue of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine will feature a history of the colorful volunteers, from their beginnings to the present-day.

Back in 1968, West Marin's blind boatbuilder, master craftsman John D. Omundson, was the subject of a number of news media stories, locally and nationally. His was the inspiring story of a courageous man who refused to knuckle under to great misfortune. How has John Omundson fared since then? In tomorrow's magazine, Martha Hannon brings you up to date on the saga of a man who has learned to substitute for sight, sensitivity, skill, faith and memory from the days when he could see.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By WAT TAKESHITA

Pacific Stereo To Open Marin Branch Sometime Next Month

Pacific Stereo, an electronics equipment firm headquartered in Emeryville, will open its first Marin branch in San Rafael next month.

Chris Beck of Grubb & Ellis Co. has negotiated a lease for the company at 811 Francisco Boulevard in the Herbert A. Crocker Building where Slumberland Mattress Co. was formerly located.

Pacific Stereo has a half dozen Bay Area outlets, but this is the first store north of San Francisco.

Vickie Connor of San Rafael took over last week from Beth Vitali, who moved to Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Connor, who specializes in hair color, will offer complete beauty service five days a week from Tuesday through Saturday. The beauty shop has been remodeled on the outside, and interior improvements are still to come.

Mrs. Connor has 15 years of experience as beautician. For the past three and one-half years, she was hair color specialist for H. Liebes.

DeRose Anderson

BERNARD DeROSE of San Rafael was appointed sales manager of the Flintkote Company-Calaveras Cement Division, the San Francisco-based cement manufacturing company.

DeRose joined the company in 1961 as East Bay sales representative, then advanced through the positions of district sales manager for the Sacramento area, then Northern California area, to his most recent post of assistant sales manager.

In his new position, DeRose will coordinate all field sales activity for the division in California, Oregon, Washington and Nevada.

R. DALE ANDERSON, 21, of San Rafael, is one of the principals of Bon-Sol Vintners, a new Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., wine marketing company headquartered in San Francisco. He will be assistant to the director of marketing. The newly formed company will bring imported quality wines from all over the world under one marketing label.

Another staff member of Bon-Sol Vintners is Barbara A. Miller, administrative assistant to the national operations manager. A native of Ross, Miss Miller was a deputy in the Marin County auditor's office before she joined Paul Masson Vineyards in 1965 as bookkeeper.

HOUSE OF HOOPS Wholesale of Larkspur, manufacturers of bridal lingerie, moved into 21-F Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park. Principals are James G. Douglass and Walter A. Robinson.

GORDON R. BRUNING, 29, of San Rafael has been appointed personnel assistant in Pacific Gas & Electric Company's East Bay division, headquartered in Oakland.

A PG&E employee for three years, Bruning goes to Oakland from the company's general office in San Francisco, where he was personnel research analyst.

APARTMENT MANAGEMENT is the specialty of a new firm called Pacific Properties Services Inc., located in room 310 of the Albert Building, 1010 B Street, San Rafael.

Christopher Rivers Jr. of Belvedere and Cynthia Cotter of Mill Valley, who opened the firm, have long experience in owning and managing apartments.

On new apartment projects, Pacific Properties Services will hire and train the management staff, set up a promotional and advertising program, and see that you get a full house as soon as possible.

For existing apartments, the company will advise on how to cut operating cost, fill up the building, and manage efficiently. All accounting, payroll, taxes and upkeep will be handled by the company, with itemized statements sent to the owner monthly.

The company also provides discount purchase of furnishings and gives advice on taxes and insurance coverage. In short, all details of opening, filling and maintaining an apartment will be handled by the firm.

Economic Report Aids The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —Government reports indicating expansion of the U.S. economy at "a prodigious rate" helped slow a decline on the New York Stock Exchange after almost two hours today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product —the value of all goods and services produced — increased by $30 billion in April, May and June, an annual rate of 8.9 per cent, compared with 6.5 per cent for the first quarter. The administration also reported the rate of inflation slowed to a 2.1 per cent annual rate from 5.1 per cent in the first three months of the year.

Occidental Petroleum again led the most active stocks on the NYSE and was off a point at 15 7-8 on 417,100 shares. The issue had been delayed in opening because of an order influx.

Prices were lower on the American Stock Exchange. Canadian Marconi led the most active stocks and was up 1-2 to 4 3-4 on 10,600 shares.

On the Big Board, Amerada Hess fell sharply on heavy selling in the first two hours. It was off 4 at noon. The company reported substantially lower earnings for the second quarter.

Steel issues were mixed in fractions.

Motor stocks were lower in fractions as White lost 3-8 and American and General Motors each slipped 1-8.

Chemical issues were softer. Eastman Kodak eased 1-4, Monsanto 3-8 and Dow Chemical 1-8.

In-Store Computer

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—An "in-store" computer system for the retailing industry has been developed by National Cash Register. Built around a small but powerful minicomputer, the system, known as NCR 725, provides managers of mass-merchandising department store and specialty store outlets with instant reporting of sales datum.

JUST THE BEGINNING

Drug Stores To Retain Names

Webb and Rogers Drug Store in San Rafael and two others, which are being sold to a Los Angeles chain, will retain the same names.

The "Other People's Business" column on Thursday erred in saying that the store names will be changed. The corporate names will change, but not the store names.

The stores to be sold are Webb and Rogers in San Rafael, Marin Center Pharmacy in Greenbrae and Jack's Drug Store in San Anselmo.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Techniques Of Trading Viewed

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My stock transactions have always been the straightforward sort; either I buy or sell at the market. Can you explain some of the more technical maneuvers such as limits and stops, etc.? — A. P.

A. The two areas on which you might wish to place restrictions are share price, and duration of order. These limits may be specified when placing either purchase or sale orders. If an order is entered for an indefinite period, terminated only by its execution or cancellation, it is a GTC or good-till-cancelled order. A day order on the other hand expires at the endof the day's trading session if it is not executed. A third possible time restriction is a fill-or-kill order, which if not transacted immediately is cancelled.

Price may be modified in three ways with orders, either at market, limit or stop. Your previous transactions were at market, that is, executed at the prevailing market price when the order is entered. In a limit order, a price above the current trading level is specified for a sale and below market level for a purchase.

If you are interested in purchase of a stock trading in the low 40s you might place a GTC order to buy at 38. This would be executed only at the limit price or at a better price. On a sale, the execution would take place at the limit or above. However, should a stock approach the limit but not reach it, the transaction would not take place. For this reason you should follow prices closely if a stock is approaching its limit level.

The third price restriction, the stop order, is placed in the case of a sale below the market price and on a buy above the market. On the buy side, the stop either protects a profit or limits the loss on a short sale. A stop order to sell below the market is used to restrict losses or protect gains on long holdings.

The danger here is that once the specified price is reached, stop orders become market orders, and if there are others ahead of yours they are executed in sequence, which often result in a transaction several points lower than anticipated.

Quarter Earnings Show An Increase

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Fidelity Financial Corp., a San Francisco-based savings and loan holding company, reported net income of $1,331,000 or 20 cents per share for the second quarter ended June 30, 1972 compared with $819,000 or 12 cents per share in the same quarter of 1971, an increase of 66%.

For the first six months of this year earnings totaled $2,707,000 or 40 cents per share, up from $2,026,000 or 30 cents per share for 1971, an increase of 33 per cent.

Customs Traffic Declined Last Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Thetotal volume of international trade handled by the San Francisco Customs District declined in 1971, largely due to the lengthy West Coast Dock strike, Security Pacific National Bank has reported. The bank reported the total value of goods imported and exported through Northern California ports and airports totaled $3.06 billion, down 4.3 per cent from the 1970 level of $1.19 billion.

All you ever wanted to know about being a stockbroker . . .

but were afraid to ask, or were afraid you'd have to quit your present job to find out!

At Waldron & Co., Inc., San Rafael, we're setting up special evening sessions to answer any question you'd like to ask us. Then, if you're interested and you're over 21 (man or woman) you can continue working at your present job while we train you to become a stockbroker.

If you would like to explore this opportunity as an alternative to your present job (you make no commitment, nor do we), please write to the address below. In turn, we'll invite you to our introductory session as soon as we have set the date.

Keep this in mind: we will train men and women over the age of 21 to become stockbrokers and it will not cost you a penny. We will even serve free coffee.

Introducing OMNI-LEASE.

Oil and filter changes. Regular tune-ups. Recommended brake services. All inspections. Everything that has to be checked, adjusted and replaced periodically so you can maintain your car's warranty.

All these things are covered by Omni-Lease, our new maintenance lease plan. Parts and labor. All included in your one monthly lease payment.

No matter how much the cost of parts and labor may inflate, you're protected. So you can easily project your normal car expenses.

Freeze the cost of car care. Talk to us about Omni-Lease.
